Thread: How Dexuh fucked his life...

Xogg - January 7, 2017, 11:07 am

Okay lets start this off by saying, i am a minor and in the 10th grade, about a month ago in school i was trying to install something on my school computer (each student gets provided with their own) but what i was trying to install required elevation. Knowing the Malicious fucking idiot i am, i thought and thought of a way to get a admin password.

So one day i walked into my media arts class, and we had just got Photoshop, the teacher came around the class at the beginning of the class and put her password into the UAC to launch Photoshop. I thought to myself, what if i made a log in screen, and pished her password. Also there is one other friend with me doing this (He does not have coding/hacking knowledge he is a normal kid), he wanted the password to install games to his school PC. So that night i went home, and i opened Visual Basic on my main PC, and on my school PC i opened up a UAC, I made this thing look so damn real that i couldn't even tell the difference between the two. But what I did is i made it give a error, and the program "Closes". You will see why i did that soon.

The day of execution: Okay so this day we got into class early, and i put my flash drive in this PC real quick and put the UAC in my documents, I opened it waiting for her to come around the room, when she finally got to me, she put in her username and password, but it gave her a fake error which i told it to and then it closed. I played it off like "weird, maybe you typed it wrong." then opened the real Photoshop, and ofc she put it in again and it opened. After she walked away, i pressed my keystroke i set in the program, to show the other form which stored the username and password, and just like planed, i got her password.

A few days later in this same classroom, we had a substitute teacher , so me and my friend decided to be idiots and log into her username. (Like on the PC), this gave us access to the staff share drive (Where all teachers and administrators share files) in here we were just looking around and we found a folder called bus information in this folder there are more folders, with names of each bus and inside of those there were, spreadsheets these spreadsheets contained, person who rides the bus, contact information, address, etc. Also in the drive we found another spreadsheet named "Student_accounts" this spreadsheet was huge around 14MB, this contained of every single students username, password, email, and student ID's. Both me and my friend stored both the bus info and the accounts on a flash drive.

Okay so about a week has passed and nobody but me and my friend know about this. But the idiot i am, i went to lunch that day asked this kid that sits at my table his name, and i searched for his password and read it out to him, just to scare him. I did this to many people, but i only logged into one account, and logged out almost immediately after. I also gave the spreadsheet of passwords, to 3 other people. Like a idiot.. One day i went home and sent this kid his password over snapchat, and he got pissed, like genially pissed the fuck off, i never thought someone could get this angry over a school password, but i was proved otherwise.

When i got caught: well this is going to be the worst part to write, because its almost like me reliving it, okay so i was in block 2 and i was just siting there doing my work, taking notes. and i remember the assistant principle coming to the door and we made a weird eye contact, at that time i knew i was fucked for something. He said "MyName come with me" (MyName is not actually my name) so i quickly packed up and followed him to his office, we were talking down the hallway and he was like

"Do you know what i pulled you out of class for" and i did not want to admit it to it if thats not why im here so i was like "No sir i do not", and at this point we were walking into his office, he pulled me in and i remember what he said word for word "We have got a student complaint, that you have access to there password.", I couldn't lie, if i would have they would have caught me. So i told the truth that it was not just his but it was everyone's.

More after i got caught: In the office, he made me write a confession to what all i had done, and he also made me confess to everything i have done, so i told him about everyone that had it. Then he made me call my dad and tell him to bring in my a personal PC because they needed to check it for, the files, they also took my flash drive and by them, i mean the police not the school. We were sitting in the main MAIN office (Like a fucking conference room), i was speaking to the police officer with my dad beside me, the police officer started to read me my rights, and my heart drooped "You have the right to remain silent, anything you say can and will be used against you in the court of law...", and my dad cut him off and said "Are you arresting my son??", the police officer said "No, he just needs to know his rights." I was so glad to hear no. About a week later we were called back into the school, for a hearing, this hearing decided my punishment for SCHOOL. For the school punishment i got sent to the alternative school, and 2 days later i got called in again and they told me i had a court date because i was getting charged with computer hacking. My date was the 5th but it got moved to the 19th wish me the best of luck.

Phished teachers password, got access to student database, bragged about it, got caught, going to court.

NOTE: DONT FUCK WITH SCHOOL SHIT

Schools don't fuck around. But I wouldn't have given that information out and used it for my own benefit.

Liquir - January 7, 2017, 11:12 am

If your in 10th grade, and this is your first offence, you will probably get restricted internet access, and community service. You never know tho, if the judge is a bitch then he might give you a couple months in juvy. After all, you did break into a government system and access files you were not meant to access.

Best of luck whatever happens buddy :)

That's why everyone here with any brains will tell you to leave anything government related alone.

Even the NCA posted here (which was confirmed legit) to tell kids like yourself the repercussions of your actions, go and RAT a load of people or something.

Creates a UAC that steals the admin and pass and used it to gain access to the administrator system or whatever and leaving his tool on his computer of course... and then shares the password sheet to a couple of his friends which was like a 200 year old train waiting for a disaster and he got caught because he told his "victim" "Victim" his password which the student then made a complaint

I don't want to give you advice to commit a crime, but think about what you're doing. You can't trust anyone else my man, if you get in trouble with anyone else, they will fuck you over to get a lesser punishment.

Don't do illegal shit and even tell anyone else, you got lucky it wasn't your mate that snitched you out. I'm a lot older than a fair amount of members here, but remember what I'm saying because it's made a lot of others come unstuck due to snakes and disloyal individuals.

Well damn man, totally does suck that you got caught. Granted this wasn't ethical at all, it was very smart execution. I know that most people won't look at this as an achievement, but it took some skill and work to do this, so if you ever go for a job in the pentesting field, this could be your start. When you go to court I would just show the judge you are remorseful, that it won't happen again and what not.

Wish you the best of luck man!

Shadow Reign - January 7, 2017, 4:09 pm

Don't worry. Everyday hundreds of kids are expelled or get in trouble by school systems for being retarded. However it is a necessity. Hopefully you learned from this experience.

The point you fucked up the most at is beginning to brag and when you decide to use the information you've found against people. (such as scaring them by telling them their password) When you brag, you lose all forms of alibies and are now essentially automatically guilty when caught.

You do something like this at your age and you get a huge punishment for it. It being school related adds just the extra crap on the side. When your older you can do this same type of hacking and get away with it easily. That sucks your going to have to go to court for this. You will have to handle your problems face to face with a judge and continue to go through the repercussions. I wish you the best, your young and have a lot of life left.

Trying to be tough doesn't get you anywhere, neither does fucking around with Government Property. You rightly got what you deserved.

I say it time and time again, do not mess with Schools.

TheWarOwl - July 12, 2017, 10:15 am

Hacking and telling people about it is like being a ninja and telling people about it. It defeats the purpose. For future reference keep things to yourself, or tell people anonymously - plan before hand and think of every outcome that you could be caught in. I'm not really an advocate for hacking, but I'm just saying.

I hope your computer was clean, considering the knowledge you have they may have some kind of a warrant to check your internet for other things.

I once wrote a script that would type "I'm an asshole" whenever this jerk would open Microsoft word or Google. That alone almost got me terminated from the school I was attending. I never got caught though.

BY THE WAY: Since you're a minor, you didn't "fuck your life". There will be punishment, but it's all temporary.

Just a lil' more than "a kid messing about"; creating a phishing program and making the teacher sign into it is a pretty serious matter, including accessing the student information.

You're in school to learn, and the teachers are there to teach you and get you the grades you need.

Sure, with the passwords you had you could've used them to your advantage and should've remained silent about it and not publicly speak about it.

Well good luck with your court. Let us know what happens!

Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

(Jan 7, 2017 12:07 PM)Xogg Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Okay lets start this off by saying, i am a minor and in the 10th grade, about a month ago in school i was trying to install something on my school computer (each student gets provided with their own) but what i was trying to install required elevation. Knowing the Malicious fugging idiot i am, i thought and though of a way to get a admin password.

So one day i walked into my media arts class, and we had just got Photoshop, the teacher came around the class at the beginning of the class and put her password into the UAC to launch Photoshop. I thought to myself, what if i made a log in screen, and pished her password. Also there is one other friend with me doing this (He does not have coding/hacking knowledge he is a normal kid), he wanted the password to install games to his school PC. So that night i went home, and i opened Visual Basic on my main PC, and on my school PC i opened up a UAC, I made this thing look so damn real that i couldn't even tell the difference between the two. But what I did is i made it give aerror_, and the program "Closes". You will see why i did that soon.

The day of execution: Okay so this day we got into class early, and i put my flash drive in this PC real quick and put the UAC in my documents, I opened it waiting for her to come around the room, when she finally got to me, she put in her username and password, but it gave her a fake _error which i told it to and then it closed. I played it off like "weird, maybe you typed it wrong." then opened the real Photoshop, and ofc she put it in again and it opened. After she walked away, i pressed my keystroke i set in the program, to show the other form which stored the username and password, and just like planed, i got her password.

A few days later in this same classroom, we had a substitute teacher , so me and my friend decided to be idiots and log into her username. (Like on the PC), this gave us access to the staff share drive (Where all teachers and administrators share files) in here we were just looking around and we found a folder called bus information in this folder there are more folders, with names of each bus and inside of those there were, spreadsheets these spreadsheets contained, person who rides the bus, contact information, address, etc. Also in the drive we found another spreadsheet named "Student_accounts" this spreadsheet was huge around 14MB, this contained of every single students username, password, email, and student ID's. Both me and my friend stored both the bus info and the accounts on a flash drive.

Okay so about a week has passed and nobody but me and my friend know about this. But the idiot i am, i went to lunch that day asked this kid that sits at my table his name, and i searched for his password and read it out to him, just to scare him. I did this to many people, but i only logged into one account, and logged out almost immediately after. I also gave the spreadsheet of passwords, to 3 other people. Like a idiot.. One day i went home and sent this kid his password over snapchat, and he got pissed, like genially pissed the fugg off, i never thought someone could get this angry over a school password, but i was proved otherwise.

When i got caught: well this is going to be the worst part to write, because its almost like me reliving it, okay so i was in block 2 and i was just siting there doing my work, taking notes. and i remember the assistant principle coming to the door and we made a weird eye contact, at that time i knew i was fugged for something. He said "MyName come with me" (MyName is not actually my name) so i quickly packed up and followed him to his office, we were talking down the hallway and he was like "Do you know what i pulled you out of class for" and i did not want to admit it to it if thats not why im here so i was like "No sir i do not", and at this point we were walking into his office, he pulled me in and i remember what he said word for word "We have got a student complaint, that you have access to there password.", I couldn't lie, if i would have they would have caught me. So i told the truth that it was not just his but it was everyone's.

More after i got caught: In the office, he made me write a confession to what all i had done, and he also made me confess to everything i have done, so i told him about everyone that had it. Then he made me call my dad and tell him to bring in my a personal PC because they needed to check it for, the files, they also took my flash drive and by them, i mean the police not the school. We were sitting in the main MAIN office (Like a fugging conference room), i was speaking to the police officer with my dad beside me, the police officer started to read me my rights, and my heart drooped "You have the right to remain silent, anything you say can and will be used against you in the court of law...", and my dad cut him off and said "Are you arresting my son??", the police officer said "No, he just needs to know his rights." I was so glad to hear no. About a week later we were called back into the school, for a hearing, this hearing decided my punishment for SCHOOL. For the school punishment i got sent to the alternative school, and 2 days later i got called in again and they told me i had a court date because i was getting charged with computer hacking. My date was the 5th but it got moved to the 19th wish me the best of luck.

Phished teachers password, got access to student database, bragged about it, got caught, going to court.

NOTE: DONT fugg WITH SCHOOL Clay Davis

Okay. You aren't charged with anything yet you have a court date?! Well congrats but you got caught ;-;

Don't let them know about HF as it could get you into more trouble. Also you shouldn't have gave them your computer as that could've been a warrant which would take a week to get all incriminating items off of it

Edit: Just noticed this was grave dug

This is the exact reason you dont play with School technology.

Schools are government funded.

Ergo You are attempting to hack a portion of the governments network.

Governments tend to not take too lightly to those kinda actions, be it the schools network or their internal financial audit network, to them its all the same.
