Any other drag racers on here? Street or strip?

What do you run?

I drive a built GTI.

Hit 11.6 @ 127 last year in the quarter.

Winter process has started on my car, and this year I'm hoping to hit 10s.

I'm from NJ, if anyone wants run. Car is always ready to go.

I like doing street races. Haven't done any actual time runs but I own a Audi rs4. It's good fun.

When I get enough money, gonna be doing some drag. My friend owns a S10 with small block not too fast. His dad on the other hand has a Nova Big Block w/700+ hp (All engine), that thing is bad ass.

Novas are bad ass! My dad has a fully built Grand National, and I don't even drive it at the track. My 11/10s is fine enough, once you hit 9s, its a whole new ball park

Sometimes Ill do little highway runs in my bimmer. I used to take it up to the mountains with the homies, but now I have a gf and she thinks its too dangerous so youll catch me doing 65 at all times.

Q50 Hybrid in NJ.

Don't got a lot yet on it just rims, radar and tints

Nah man I wouldn't ever do that. Don't want to get in a crash and die.

I run a shitty 02 Mustang GT atm, never been down the track yet cause I don't see a point, just full exhaust done so not much performance and it's an auto. I'm looking at getting a better 99-04 GT that doesn't have a bunch of paint issues and is stick so I can put money into and make a better drag car out of it. I do a bunch of street racing though, mostly with other people at red lights but I also head out to Philly to street race and watch. Once I get my money up I'll have a built 04 Cobra, but that's still a while down the road.

I've been in a couple of street races before. I'm a car enthusiast (not in torque for no reason). I plan on getting a 350z soon, and racing the shit out of that car.
