Quote: Ten years ago, Ryouta Murakami set out with his best friend Kuroneko to find proof of alien life. A tragic accident occurred, killing Kuroneko and injuring Ryouta. In honor of Kuroneko's memory, Ryouta now searches the night sky for alien signs, determined to prove that his friend had been right, and that aliens really do exist.

Then one day, a new transfer student comes to his class and shatters everything he believes: her name is Kuroha Neko, and she looks exactly like the deceased Kuroneko. Kuroha denies being Ryouta's friend, but there's something strange about her. She somehow aced a difficult test to transfer in, but doesn't know her multiplication tables. She possesses inhuman strength and strange abilities. And strangest of all, she predicts death.

After Kuroha displays supernatural strength in saving his life, Ryouta becomes a part of Kuroha's life, learning about her past and the hidden forces that exist in the universe. As he sinks more and more into a world of artificially created witches and magic, Ryouta must allow his scientific mind to accept that Kuroha has a very real power - the kind of power some forces will stop at nothing to get a hold of.

Well, it's turning out to be a bit better than expected. Since the Anime covers the Manga, and the Manga is finished already, I'll finish reading it once I'm done with the Anime. Good watch so far.

I watched it, it was good. The intro music is especially awesome.

I attempted reading this, but couldn't really get into it. It ended up boring me out or I think it was slow-paced at the time. Its not bad though =P

I guess that if you watch the Anime first, and then read the Manga it would be better since an Anime is more fast-paced usually. It could help.

I liked the ops and ed themes. I just wish the ending was different, was a bit too happy for me.
