Romance / Drama:

Kimi No Iru Machi

Fuuka

Romance/Economy:

Spice and Wolf

Romance only:

Horimiya , Kaichou wa Maid-sama! , Suzuka

Ecchi / Romance / Drama:

Nozoki Ana

I personally loved Kimi No Iru Machi and Nozoki Ana

(: love it so far.The start is a bit weak, it slowly becomes amazing, Tokyo arc (After the first big arc around chapter 55) is the worst arc in the story, you'll feel the same for sure but don't worry, after that it becomes a lot better. especially after chapter 160-170+. Most heartwarming manga I've read Shit I posted like 3 times. On chapter 8 now. (:

EDIT: 15

geekynerd - January 11, 2017, 7:22 pm

The girl with the dragon tattoo is great all three books

Tsunfire - January 11, 2017, 10:08 pm

Lol fuck you Forsaken, I am going into class with absolutely 0 sleep tomorrow.

Chapter 68.

Should stop right there and go sleep before you get into the worst arc of the manga, most people will get mad, you definitely don't wanna get mad before going to classes haha. I recommend to binge read these chapters so that you wont stress too much about it lol

No problem => Characters only get better and so does the romance.

The only manga that has made me cry, you'll know when =>

...of course. She's cute asf - I thought I shipped Eba at first but...damn Asuka deserves him

Armady1 - January 14, 2017, 6:23 pm

peaceful romcom would be horimiya it has no drama whatsoever

Aura - January 15, 2017, 11:15 am

Ao Haru Ride

Kimi no Iru Machi (must read)

Last Game

Nozoki Ana (if you don't mind softcore hentai, though them manga is so much more than that)

Suzuka (then Fuuka)

Taiyou no Ie

Tonari no Kaibutsu-kun

Velvet Kiss

Gekkan Shoujo Nozaki-kun

Horimiya

Masamune-kun no Revenge

Ookami Shoujo to Kuro Ouji

If you're on mobile, there's an app called Line Webtoon where you can read most of the webtoons published by Naver, including the series above.

Done, it was an insanely worthwhile manga 10/10 from me. I'm not too much of a person to critique every single detail, so I'll just leave it at that.

My heart is still throbbing. Onto the next manga....I started Nozoki Ana midway through Kimi No Iru Machi, but I don't think I can binge read it.

Nozoki Ana is pretty good but you fucked up reading both so close to one another. When I read something I consider 10/10 everything that comes afterwards for the upcoming week up to month just feels incredibly lack luster.

Nozoki Ana is great and I rated it 10/10 as well because I loved the story but it just isn't as great in terms of romance as KNIM is, not even close, it does make you feel happy at some parts but nowhere near as heart warming as KNIM.

I prefer to change genre for a few weeks before trying something new on the same genre
