

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Free VPN or Private VPN?

XavierA7X - January 11, 2017, 1:29 pm

Would you be safer using Free VPN or Private VPN?

Free VPN.....Private VPN

Too slow Fast

Limited servers.....More options

If your VPN provider.....There is a risk of privacy loss is sued or hacked, you can rest assured that your own IP will hardly be at risk(since there are so many IPs already)

You can't brag about being.....You can show off how rich you are rich

So which do you prefer?

Industry - January 11, 2017, 1:31 pm

I'm confused, are you asking us which we prefer to use or which one is safer? Because clearly you answered the question for all of us with your listed benefits, but then again there are some morons sitting in jail right now that would probably go with the free option again if they had a choice.

Renowned - January 11, 2017, 1:34 pm

I prefer using a private VPN. However I don't understand how having a private one makes you rich, lol.

debug - January 11, 2017, 1:34 pm

You definitely should not use a free vpn. Your reasoning is completely off. If you use a free service, you are the product.

A paid VPN, such as PrivateInternetAccess, paid using BTC over Tor with a disposable email address is nth times better than a free VPN. They were subpoenaed by the FBI and could only give them what they had, a cluster of IP addresses that had accessed the specific server in question.

XavierA7X - January 11, 2017, 1:34 pm

(Jan 11, 2017 02:31 PM)Industry Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm confused, are you asking us which we prefer to use or which one is safer? Because clearly you answered the question for all of us with your listed benefits, but then again there are some morons sitting in jail right now that would probably go with the free option again if they had a choice.

With all consideration, I'd like to know what you use and prefer. Also, why are people in jail? What illegal activities get you there? ?

Industry - January 11, 2017, 1:37 pm

(Jan 11, 2017 02:34 PM)XavierA7X Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) With all consideration, I'd like to know what you use and prefer. Also, why are people in jail? What illegal activities get you there? ?

I don't use a VPN, I don't do anything illegal nor does my daily computer use require me to utilise one. And you seem smart, take a wild guess how they would end up there after using a free VPN.

XavierA7X - January 11, 2017, 1:37 pm

(Jan 11, 2017 02:34 PM)debug Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You definitely should not use a free vpn. Your reasoning is completely off. If you use a free service, you are the product.

A paid VPN, such as PrivateInternetAccess, paid using BTC over Tor with a disposable email address is nth times better than a free VPN. They were subpoenaed by the FBI and could only give them what they had, a cluster of IP addresses that had accessed the specific server in question. A paid VPN over Tor? Wouldn't that make your internet speed too damn slow?

Also, what makes you think private VPN providers won't sell you out?

ChaoticForce - January 11, 2017, 1:40 pm

Why cant you brag about being rich? lol

TheDefiled. - January 11, 2017, 1:42 pm

For those in that reside in the US and are familiar with the bill/law that passed December 1st last year about the NSA (??) being able to legally hack any computer that uses Tor/VPN, how real are the threats of that?

I have refused to use either and have not really researched it since.

Any thoughts?

Lante - January 11, 2017, 1:44 pm

(Jan 11, 2017 02:37 PM)XavierA7X Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) A paid VPN over Tor? Wouldn't that make your internet speed too damn slow?

Also, what makes you think private VPN providers won't sell you out?

The registration and payment is done over Tor, that's what he's saying.

x0rk - January 11, 2017, 1:44 pm

I think that choosing VPN does not depend on the price but rather on the quality of the service.

Capwin - January 11, 2017, 1:47 pm

If you don't want to spend any money and you're not doing anything illegal then I would just use a free VPN. But if you got a little cash and wanna do something sketchy then you defiantly need a paid VPN. That's just my opinion on the subject.

kisskisslike - January 11, 2017, 1:50 pm

Private is often better than Free ones.

Anyway, it always depends on the service quality.

You may look forward to some free swiss solution online if you don't want to spend money.

Bchange33 - October 17, 2018, 2:00 pm

I would prefer private... You should ALWAYS prefer private over public. Trust no-one, develop your own to be sure. Very valuable advice.

#Skyline - October 17, 2018, 2:02 pm

<https://whoamivpn.com>

HF thread: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5841783>

Currently in beta development.

And we don't limit speeds on our servers nor log data.