

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Just dropped out of a uni course that took me 3 years in college to get onto for CPA

Rod$ - January 12, 2017, 1:49 pm

Finally, I have dropped out half way thru my first year at uni to pursue my dream of being a performance marketer, im almost 3 years into marketing with cpa on the internet and a degree is 4

Plus why would I want to finish uni and sit in a box somewhere, earning money online allows you to live life on your own terms,

Free from financial hardship and worry

Free from location

Free from time

vs

Controlled

Anyway thanks for reading I hope this has inspired you to take action in internet marketing. If you're on HF than you ahead of 99% of your IRL friends of your friends in the first step to making money online, our society sits on their iPhones browsing twitter and fb for hours, or binges on netflix with a beer every night.

Just being gives you a massive advantage to live life on your terms, if you're unhappy with your life and where its heading take a look at CPA marketing.

Rod

Optional Question: What sort of life do you want to live?

Nick - January 12, 2017, 2:52 pm

This is awesome man. I have been searching for a route to the three terms that you posted. I am very interested in getting started with this, and will likely look much further into CPA marketing, once again, soon. The last attempt I had at CPA marketing was 4 years ago when I was 16, and I lost motivation because I didn't know where to start. Now that I am 20, have much more knowledge than previously, I am truly thinking about giving this a shot. If you have any recommendations on where a good place to start, or what I should do, please let me know!

Thank you for the motivation, Rod$. :)

Rod$ - January 12, 2017, 2:54 pm

(Jan 12, 2017 03:52 PM)N??? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is awesome man. I have been searching for a route to the three terms that you posted. I am very interested in getting started with this, and will likely look much further into CPA marketing, once again, soon. The last attempt I had at CPA marketing was 4 years ago when I was 16, and I lost motivation because I didn't know where to start. Now that I am 20, have much more knowledge than previously, I am truly thinking about giving this a shot. If you have any recommendations on where a good place to start, or what I should do, please let me know!

Thank you for the motivation, Rod$. :)

Instagram has 550m people on mobile devices easily automated and scaled with bots servers proxies sims and good aged accounts

facebook ads can kill it for just about anything, best ad platform on the internet

ewhoring if you just wanna get back into the swing of things as for earning cash online

Use what skills you have already and go in that direction, what do you think?

Zoo - January 12, 2017, 2:55 pm

(Jan 12, 2017 03:52 PM)N??? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is awesome man. I have been searching for a route to the three terms that you posted. I am very interested in getting started with this, and will likely look much further into CPA marketing, once again, soon. The last attempt I had at CPA marketing was 4 years ago when I was 16, and I lost motivation because I didn't know where to start. Now that I am 20, have much more knowledge than previously, I am truly thinking about giving this a shot. If you have any recommendations on where a good place to start, or what I should do, please let me know!

Thank you for the motivation, Rod$. :)

Stop "thinking" about giving it a shot. Don't do it "soon". Do it now.

I know it's easy to do, but delaying and waiting around for "nothing" won't get you anywhere

? Quick ? - January 12, 2017, 5:04 pm

Awesome man, really hope this ends up working for you.

EgoManiac - January 12, 2017, 7:28 pm

Good choice man, heres to 2017

A NEW ERA... - January 12, 2017, 7:35 pm

LOOK SOMEONE FUCKING SMART

"Just being on HF makes you 99% ahead"

This forum is so jam packed with fucking information to make so much money.

Defuse - January 12, 2017, 7:40 pm

In my personal opinion i don't think its a smart move, your cpa niche can crash at any given time and after that you have no backup plan to fall on other then working at your local kfc for minimum wage.

My suggestion for you is don't think about the long term "4 Year" plan and go for atleast an Associates Degree (2 Years) so you have something to fall back on, college is not as hard as you think it is well atleast not in america, i am currently pursuing my Associates and i go monday through thursday for 3 hours a day and that is on a 2 year plan.

White Hat - January 12, 2017, 7:48 pm

Love seeing threads like this, :)

Arrogance - January 12, 2017, 8:35 pm

Waiting for people in this thread to suck your dick because you are going to make some money.

Well let me tell you, university is not only about where you end up landing after the degree and the money that comes with it. It is about knowledge, about the experience, the culture, and how it makes you grow as a person, life is about learning and exploring, and someday a lot of you will realize that chasing happiness is directly involved and all about how much you really know about this interesting world, the moment to feel realized as a human being.

J. McCarthy - January 13, 2017, 8:14 am

I don't really believe in the idea but I've stuck with it for both my majors just because I enjoy learning in it

Rod$ - January 13, 2017, 9:58 am

(Jan 12, 2017 08:43 PM).Lowkey Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yo Rod if you want to meet up we can do a joint effort. Rent a place and split costs. Buckle down and really do it.

I'm already working with a partner on a large project and id rather not say how much I'm making usually i don't give a fuck about speaking about money compared to most of society whom always keep it a secret how much is in their bank, but i have less than $1k to my name

Thing with cpa is you can either make a load of money over the years which iv done and either

1: Spunk it on shoes cars girls clothes

2: Reinvest all your money back into CPA learning coders etc etc etc

obviously, 1 sound a lot more fun but you'll be back to your 9-5 faster than i smoke rail lines of ket

also we don't even know each other saying we should teamup and rent a place is a bit forward idk about u haha but pm me and show what skills you got or something and maybe we can do something, contacts in this game can really make it or break it, always stay networking and meeting new people, information sharing in cpa marketing is honestly amazing

(Jan 12, 2017 09:35 PM)Arrogance Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Waiting for people in this thread to suck your dick because you are going to make some money.

Well let me tell you, university is not only about where you end up landing after the degree and the money that comes with it. It is about knowledge, about the experience, the culture, and how it makes you grow as a person, life is about learning and exploring, and someday a lot of you will realize that chasing happiness is directly involved and all about how much you really know about this interesting world, the moment to feel realized as a human being.

Don't worry my inbox is already been raped over night, i reply to cpa question on my help thread before i reply to pms as i exclusively say not to pm me unless its important, like ill reply to a pm if its just a question but people expecting a constant 1:1 mentoring over hf pm can suck a dick lol and yes you're right the student life, evolving as a human being, meeting new people etc etc, iv already been in college since i was 17, lived in student flats since i was 18,19,20 so im pretty self sufficient and well cultured in terms of th student life anyway, money wont bring me any happiness, ill feel good and estatic when i see 1 mill in the bank but it won't make me eternally happy, ill help out my friends and family, setup a course to teach people for free how to make money online and get out of this life style, legacy is what i want not a high bank balance and 8 people at my funeral altho, im hoping within the next 40 years ill be able to get uploaded to the internet and life forever anyway ;)

thanks for replying and your wise words

(Jan 13, 2017 09:14 AM)Formula1 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't really believe in the idea but I've stuck with it for both my majors just because I enjoy learning in it

Dude if you enjoy learning and love the course you're on stick at it 100%

I just lost interest in the whole computing scene, doing 3 years of bs computing at college probably killed it for me, also to do well in UNI you gotta allocate a lot of time to doing work outside class and revising stuff, self learning, i just cant do that all i thought about is marketing and making money online, truth is once you taste TRUE freedom, you understand how sweet it is, you're addicted for life after that I aint ever working for anyone but myself ever ever ever!

best of luck sir

(Jan 12, 2017 08:28 PM)EgoManiac Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Good choice man, heres to 2017 im feeling very optimistic about 2017, havent felt like this regarding cpa for a while :)