Wow! I will be working on a nice post within these upcoming days, my mom is the most influential person in my life, even though I am off in school, when I used to only live with her in the past before I went off to a higher education, and has taught me some of the most important lessons that I will soon share. :)

Evanescent - January 12, 2017, 10:04 pm

Well, I'll try my best but the words cannot describe it unless you see it. I'm not here to boast, I also don't care if I'm not winning this. I can't just lie on your face to win that 500$?

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

So, my mom has been my inspiration since I joined the school. She used to take her time out personally from her job and used to teach me the cultural details.

She has been there my entire life and in future too. I have just crossed my teen age and have started earning. Most of the time I give her what she need to buy.

Well that's all with the words. If I win, I'm sure she'll get that money.

Lelouch Vi Britannia - January 12, 2017, 10:05 pm

First off good luck to everyone who enters.

Here's my description: There are no words that can be used to describe a son's love for his mother. I will be there anyways for her, anything she needs. She's taken care of me my whole life, and now after my parents divorced, i'll always be there to financially support her and my sister while im in college.

Vanx - January 12, 2017, 10:10 pm

This is a long story and explanation, have fun reading and thank you for the giveaway I really appreciate it. ?

4 Months ago I called her over to my room and asked her to sit down. It was very late at night. she was just about to go to sleep because she had to wake up early to go and work with the elders in her Alzheimers hostel.

"Mom" I Said to her " I know it might sound drastic, But I can't live in this country anymore, I've been constantly striving my absolute best to shine here but I lack the opportunities" She looked at me, glaring at my eyes as she knew what I'm going to say next "I am leaving to another country, To the US, And I intend to live there"

She started crying, I could see the pain in her eyes as she truthfully showed just how much she loves me and just the thought of losing me made her burst into tears. It took her 5 minutes to relax and think.

She looked at me deep in my eyes, seeing that I am dead serious about it.
"I'm going to give you all the money you need for this trip," She said "I am your biggest fan, always was. go and achieve your dreams" I started tearing but tried to keep my face tough. I didn't want her to burst into tears again or cause her any pain, I love her so much, you see, she is my everything.
"Spread your wings like the angel that you are to me, You are unstoppable"

This situation is only a fraction of the empowerment that I feel from my mother, from the strength that she enlightens in me. My mother is my life and I love her more than anything ... but she is also my motivator, my biggest fan, and my most advocate supporter. She calls me every day, and I bet she will never stop. I call it "Coaching Session With Mom" - In that part of the day I analyze everything that happened and that will happen throughout the day, she is a guiding mentor that leads you to the right direction and I couldn't be more appreciative of her very being, really, I CANT.

Some Motivational Quotes From My Mother:

"One Who Tend To Provide The Most Valuable Resource, Shall Embrace The Power That Lies Within him"

"The Pure Fortification In The Mind Of Anyone Capable Of Changing Their Faith Would Be The Main Demand In Any Successful Person"

"You Need To Reach To The Higher Being Of Yourself And See Beyond It; Make Yourself So Full Of Ideas It Shall Bring Your Mind To Brightness"

About My Mother:

- 40 Years Old
 - Book Writer (Got 2 Books Published)
 - Second Degree In Journalism
 - Second Degree In Sociology
 - Manager Of The Top Alzheimer's Hostel In My Country
 - A Public speaks man for Alzheimer's awareness & Prevention
 - An Opera Singer
- A hilarious and sarcastic character, always teasing you to do better

For me, my mom is everything. She has taken care of me from the day I was born. No one can give you that much llove except a Mother. I sometimes become so depressed that I have no one to talk to she comes to me and talks me out of the depression or any sort of issues. I'll love her for the rest of my life. ily Mom <3

Elitas - January 14, 2017, 4:10 am

Posting to enter. Mom means a lot to me. Would do anything for her!

Definition of my love for her?

Well, defining her is like defining my whole life; I will always be grateful for her giving birth to me. She created me, so I guess she's like a god XD!

My mom was my rock, she was always there for me and sacrificed so much just for me.

I regret only realising this right now after she past.

This is not going to be a sob story, but I urge every single one of you to spend time with your parents whenever you can, because they will not be around forever.

I would give every single $ I have just to have 10 more minutes with her.

Spend time with the people you love, while they are still here.

Actually, he asked for the best 'definition'.

So wouldn't it not be more appropriate to keep it short and try to explain what she means to you using the best possible vocabulary?

I actually don't think anyone's entry has really been a definition yet.

Mr. Robot - January 14, 2017, 5:24 am

I personally hate my mother, she was abusive and I ended up going through child care services. So lets talk about all the mothers I met during my upbringing.

Through out my youth, I went from family to family meeting fathers, mothers, daughters and sons but through it all - the mothers were the ones who put their hand up to take kids in that had no home. They are the amazing people out there who have children and put them first, will treat your friends as if they were her own kids and treat adopted children the same, it's hard to raise kids and now that I have my own - My wife is the most amazing mother I have ever met.

Mothers are there to nurture and care for you, to make you feel safe and comfortable. They take you out and spend time with you and just want what is best. Sure they can be overwhelmed at times as can anyone, but they do their very best to stay strong and always put you first.

I have a lot of respect for the mothers out there who stay at home and the ones who have been abandoned by men who couldn't handle the pressure - the ones who adopt kids and the ones who spend their entire lives dedicated to standing up for the youth.

That is my definition of mother OP.

SIM-2763166 - January 14, 2017, 5:38 am

I went through many surgeries for my eyes (I have glaucoma). My dad was always doubtful, but my mom always supported me through the surgeries. She didn't just raise me well, she was always there for me. Seeing your son going through multiple surgeries, definitely isn't easy. I've seen my mom cry about me--crying and praying for things to go well.

I'm almost 18, ready to move out and study abroad. I would have never survived without my mom on my side. She's the best mom in the world. She supports me through every move I make in my life. She has done endless things for me, I personally don't even know how to pay her back anymore...

I've done many things wrong. She's been mad at me many times--but I know, she does that because she cares so much for me.

I'd always be ready to give everything and everyone up, to support and take care of my mom when she's older--just like she did for me.

I love you so much, mom. My hero, my role model, my life-saver. I'm never going to forget what you've done for me.

In short; the definition of love I have for my mom is endless, untradeable & permanent love.

TheVBScripiter - January 14, 2017, 5:46 am

Quote:their best definition on the love they have to their Mom. Unconditional love.

When my dad wasn't around, she was.

When I had a bad day, she made it better.

When I had a better day, she made it my best.

When my girlfriend left me, she supported me.

When my pet(s) died, she comforted me.

When I lost all hope, she gave me new hope.

When I lost faith in humanity, she showed me her faith.

When I thought my future was f*cked, she told me to stay positive.

No matter how many good or bad things are going to happen in my life..

The love I have for my mother, will never go away (no matter if she lives or dies), because what that woman told me, is more valuable to me than anybody ever said to me. ?

The love I have for my mom is out of this world, someone who is there whenever you feel sad, mad, depressed, anything, she is always there. Someone who supports you endlessly in any adventure you take.. The love I have for my mom is incredible.

Thanks for this contest, best of luck to all!

kookur - January 14, 2017, 5:54 am

Love to my mom I don't think there's even explanation for that. I am in my final years of school and she always tells me to study but I don't do much of it, watching me sitting on computer s and mobiles she never demotivates or says bad words to me but always keep on motivating me, she has sacrificed many things for me in her life and letting me use internet by paying so much huge bills she cuts her needs in order to give me a better life.

Working all day and night to see me happy, I love my mom very very much, I am in debt and this money will surely help me.

Thank you so much.

Gemini - January 14, 2017, 5:58 am

I will do my best to translate my first language story which mostly moms in India tell their boys at young age.

Wish me luck:

A boy was madly and truly in love with a girl which he proposed. Laughingly Girl told him "to bring her mom's heart, then i will marry you".

Madly in love poor Boy took it seriously and same night around 2am he stabs and take out her mom's heart.

Scared he was, ran immediately with bloody hands carrying the heart to that girl.

Girl Shockingly shouted "How can I expect you to be true to me, If you betrayed your own mom.. Get Lost" (Ja.. agr tu apni maa ka na ho saka tou mera kaise hoga)

Boy cried and went away as he lost his mom and the girl he loved.. Suddenly, his feet struck with a big stone and the boy with heart fell away. In pain he was with the injury on his knee, tears on his face. There comes the voice from that heart "Are you ok?? my son"(Beta, tu thik hai na?)

THE END.

To my mom? She is VERY VERY KIND, My first and last love. Hope God take my breath with hers if it has to happen or give add my life years to hers. :)

PS: I don't expect to win.. but a pm would be great if you feel I Successfully conveyed the story to you.

Lol I'm not the best when it comes to this stuff but I'll work on a post later and give it a shot.

Yin Yang - January 14, 2017, 6:25 am

The best word that I can use to describe my mom is a fighter. She's literally the glue that keeps my family together. Every time we fight or have issues, she's there to keep it together. She would also keep things from my father to protect me so that he wouldn't have to find out and ruin his day.

When she got diagnosed with leukemia ALM, a rare form of cancer, it was really hard for my family. I was only 13 and had a younger brother and baby sister. I had to quit wrestling, the sport that I loved to help take care of my family. I remember I would always joke around with my mom because she was a stay home and say that her job was easy. Anyone could clean or cook, but I was just teasing her. But after she went for treatment that changed my perspective on how hard it is to actually be a mother.

You see these mom's out there that claim to be there for their children, but are barely in their lives. My gf had a dead beat mom who would always go out partying instead of looking after her own kids. I am truly blessed to have a mother who loves and keeps our family together. And I just want to give a shout-out to all the step mothers/fathers out there who take care of children that aren't even their own blood.

Crystallize. - January 14, 2017, 12:23 pm

Only mothers have true love on you they would sacrifice everything for their children.

Tay™ - January 14, 2017, 2:22 pm

The love for a mother is meaningful on two levels. The first is the more basic level, the love and adoration all children have for their parents and the reason Mothers Day exists. The second, is the deeper, more personal type of love, the sort of love that differs from person to person, relationship to relationship. I would go on to say that such a love cannot be put into words, but that would be quite cheesy.

Love for a mother is everlasting. No matter what you go through or where you go to, there will always be an unbreakable maternal bond between mother and child. When I was little and I tripped and fell at the playground in school, crying all the way to the nurse, there was only one thing I asked of my teachers that day. One thing I pleaded for, one sentence I blubbered past my childish sobs. "Mommy!" While this phrase may not at first sound endearing or even significant, it means more than it seems at first sight.

Calling out for a mother's love, someone who will come to save the day when things get bad proves how true and powerful love for a mother is. In those terrifying moments as a young and innocent child, hurting from the pain of a scraped knee or sprained ankle, the one person's love we most wholly believe will absolve us of all worry, is mother's.

AnonymousIII - January 15, 2017, 5:49 pm

My mom experienced a hell of a childhood. She grew up in a refugee home and didn't know her biological parents. She was in Vietnam at this time, and was constantly abused by her uncles, for reasons that were completely unjustified. She had a lot of self-image problems and growing up, a lot of that showed. She had me when she was 18, and my older brother when she was 16. She was always looking for someone to take care of her and went through 4 bad relationships. During all this time, she still managed to take care of all of us and brought us up to be decent kids. I never met my biological dad, but for the past 18 years of my life, I never needed to meet him. My mom was enough, and I love her for everything that she is, everything that she went through, and the way that she's cared for me, even when she didn't have someone that did that for her. So what exactly is the definition of a mother? Well for some, it's multiple different things, but for me, it is someone that loves me and cares for me, regardless of the problems that she's experienced, and regardless of the things that she's going through.

Goku???? - January 15, 2017, 6:07 pm

A mothers love is unlike any other.

Shared between your sisters and your brothers.

A mothers love has no limits,

You don't even have to try to win it.

A mothers love knows no boundary,

I feel the warmth surround me.

A mothers love is the beam of a light,

When you feel you're afraid through the darkest nights.

The love I have for my mother knows no end because she isn't just my mother, she is also my friend. We do fight a lot about plenty of little things but at the end of the day, love conquers all the bad and mean things we have said to each other. I think the word love means sacrifice, a word that I know my mother knows very well because getting pregnant and giving birth to me (the first child) at the age of 19, she wasn't even able to live her dreams. That's the ultimate definition for love, sacrifice. Through this, I have known the love from my mother which has been passed on to us 5 kids. I love my mother, I would travel through hell and back every single day just so that she never forgets how much love I have for her.

severos - January 16, 2017, 5:12 am

Well... first of all, sorry for providing a geeky/nerdy/whatever you call this answer...

The problem of the required definition here is actually 2 problems, first of all you have to define love, then you specialize that generic definition to love of your mom.

*In Words:

Now, since you've already went to the specialized part, I'll assume you have defined the earlier part, so simply just take that definition and find it's upper limit when love goes to infinity.

*In Mathematical model:

Let Love be an incremental function of x, where x is the person you want to define your love to, then love to mother is:

$\lim_{x \rightarrow \infty} (\text{Love}(x))$

Another model: Love is propotional to $1/x$ where x is how far the person from you, then love to mother is:

$\lim_{x \rightarrow 0} (\text{Love}(x))$

*In Code:

PHP Code

<?php loveToMom = function(params){
    loveParams = [];
    params.forEach(function(param, index){
        loveParams[index] = param.isGood ? param.Max : param.Min
    });
    return Love(loveParams);

I know this sounds childish, but I do truly love my Mum. (Yes, here in Australia it's Mum, not Mom)

Spoiler (Click to View) Whenever I hug my Mum, a lot of emotion goes into it. She's done so much for me, and my stress and worries just seem to melt away. Whenever I hug her, I feel like I could stay there all day. I know a lot of you are going to laugh at this because I might sound like a 5 year old, but just listen. It's not wrong to love your Mum. It's a good thing. My Mum was always there to support me. She didn't care what I said, or what I did, she always stood by me. And that's what helped me through life. My Mum is everything. I would do anything for her, and she would do anything for me.

I really don't care about the money in this contest, so if I win, don't give it to me. I just wanted to show people. It doesn't make you look weak if you love your Mother. In fact, it makes you look like a strong person with a good heart.

Crowley - January 19, 2017, 3:17 pm

The love i have for my mom cannot be described in words, but by actions. My mom is my inspiration, my rock, someone i tell everything to.. she is the one that gave birth to me, she is the one who takes care of me when im sick, she is the light to a tunnel of despair, she is the person you go to when you have no one to turn to. My mom is my hero and my world, she is the person who forces me to achieve potential and to overcome all obstacles.. why i love her? Shes my best friend, she has always taken care of me in all outcomes such as illness, heart breaks, hunger, pain.. i cannot defy what love i have for my mom but i would do anything and would give my life for my mom.. when shes in pain im there to massage her, when she is low i am there to make sure shes happy, my mom is my best friend and no matter what i will always love her..

A mom isnt just something that is a title when a woman gives birth to a child.. a mom is someone who would do basically anything for their child.. give their life for the child.. starve, kill, keep warm.. The title for a "mom" is something that is earned by the actions and devotion they do for their child and the love they give.. its nothing you can describe or give a definition its something you feel and live with for your entire life. A mom is the definition of love, devotion, trust, loyalty, blood, and so much more.

I can add so much more about this subject and i will on a later date as it is late..

Hipster Ariel - January 19, 2017, 4:47 pm

My mom is everything to me, not only is she my mother but she's actually like a friend to me, we talk and laugh all day, she's a rock to me and my family and always cares for us, words aren't enough to describe the love I have for her. She's the best.

I lost my mom about 4 years back now, we lost touch for a long time after my Sister was killed in a car crash when i was 15 (I won't go into details as it is pretty rough)

My Mom was treated for a stomach Ulcer for nearly 12 months..until me..(and her waste of space meathead 'boyfriend') Kicked off in the Doctors and said it wasn't no Ulcer and if they didn't do something, Me and Her Nut-Job Steroid freak boyfriend would do something drastic to their Surgery..For some reason they helped us out and got my Mom into the Hospital for some scans...

After all the bollox..my Mom got scanned and they found out she had Liver Cancer, No chance of treatment,just make your peace with god basically,

The reason they didn't find it is because Liver Cancer is usually a 'Secondary' Cancer.. You have to get it somewhere else before it spreads to the Liver in the blood

I HATED my Mom for years, about 8 years we actively avoided each other, When she told me she had Cancer I didn't know what to do, I'd blanked her for so many years I thought I would be pushed aside when I got in touch..But She just grabbed hold of me and wouldn't let go (I'm close to tears writing this) when she died I would have done anything to get her back...still would

I know I won't get the btc.(I don't win anything) But I'm just happy to tell my story..her name was Pamela Jayne and if my death could bring her back I'd gladly shoot myself!

Sorry for being so deep but I have just had a load of personal shit going on..I don't really know if I want the 'reward' either, I just miss my Mum

Good luck to all

I think this poem is probably the nicest way I can describe a love for my mother

Mum, it's hard to find the words to say,
How much you mean to me,
But if it wasn't for your love and care,
I don't know where I'd be.

How did you do it all, mum,
Be a chauffeur, cook and friend,
Yet find time to be a playmate,
I just can't comprehend.

"Mother" is such a simple word,
But to me there's meaning seldom heard,
For everything I am today,
My mothers love showed me the way.

Nobody's equal to you, mum,
With you in my life, I'm blessed,
I love you so, and I want you to know,
I think you're the very best.

Words cannot say how I love you, mum,
And just how much I owe,
Please know that I'll always be there for you too,
In the high times and low.

I love my mom because she has raised 3 kids by herself. ages. 29,24,17. She has worked hard when we didn't have much money, and I really appreciate her for doing her best raising us. She has put food on the table and roof over my head. The past two years have been stressful.

I feel like if I got this money, I'd buy her a really good gift to show her my appreciation, and yours of course.

You've been accused of scamming by an staff member, This contest is obviously fake.

Hydraxus - January 20, 2017, 1:06 pm

A mother is someone who is always there for you. Someone who cares about you, and would almost never harm you. (There are exceptions). A mother does everything she can to make you happy, however trying not to spoil you at the same time. She's there when you need her, and would put you in front of her in importance. Thanks for the giveaway OP. ?

A mom is a thing nothing can replace. Someone who loves and cares for you. Someone who wants the best for you and who will never be disappointed when you go wrong but nudges you in the right direction, keeps you on track.

Mullet Muscle - January 21, 2017, 5:17 pm

The love for my mom isn't explainable, she's supported everything I've done. She's guided me all my life from right and wrong. She's taught me the true meaning of respect and dignity. There is no words or real way to show the love for my mom.

Thanks for holding this contest ?

Truth - January 21, 2017, 5:23 pm

My mother held me for 9 months, from 0-16 y/o she Fed me, put a roof over me, cloth me. She is still there whenever I need her. For that, I shall Honor my Mother. I shall Protect my mother. I shall Love my Mother.

I keep it simple, real, and from the heart. Thanks for the giveaway :)

My mom's been taking care of me as a single mother since I was four years old. She saved a lot of money over the years just so I can go to university without taking student loans. i don't know how to describe my love for my mom, but I can tell you that I am willing to sacrifice anything for her as long as she can live the rest of her life happily. I promised my mom that I would buy her a zoo when I'm older lol.

Love her no matter what. Shes nearly 50 as a nurse but still work her hours like shes 25. Im far away from her right now because i had to move in with my family, im 25.

Always waiting for her to finish her shift so i can join her to have some supper at home. Cant really say how much i love her. Words aint enough bro. =)

i always wish that if she can live forever.

Yeah I agree. And shit. I just saw that you have to write in order to win.

I am gonna write you a book as soon as I get back.

I hope this is fucking real.

1st place $500

2nd place $30

3rd place $15

Wouldn't it be better if you gave 10 members $50 each??

Thank you for this great opportunity you give us to the community.

First of all mothers's love can't be defined with words but I will do my best.

To begin I must say a phrase that my mother always says and it is this: there is nothing greater than the love of mother in the world. My mother is everything to me and I feel an immense love for her, my father abandoned us from my first 3 years of life, so she has had to take the role of father and mother for us, we are 3 brothers, I am the eldest and the man of the house. Between her and me we put the bread on the table for my other brothers. My mother has always been there for us and I am willing to do the same for her. Part of the most beautiful thing I remember she said to me is the following: she told me that I am the light of her eyes and her days, she accepts me as I am, with my flaws and virtues. When I was a child, I used to dream of growing up and becoming an adult. My mother used to laugh at me and tell me to appreciate my childhood. When I have told her that something will not happen again, I have complied. She says that, however high I am that I will always be her beloved child and her most treasured treasure. My mother changed her life, her time and her way of thinking for me and today she gives her life for all of us to bring out the best in us. She is extremely proud of us and loves to brag about us with her friends, she wants us to be successful. She insists on honesty and has had a stable conscience in raising us. She tells us that the heart is squeezed when she sees one of us cry. For her a good education is much more than learning geometry or memorizing dates in history. She always stressed the importance of education, working hard at school and learning as much as possible. It also encourages me to value myself and believe in myself and do what I think is right for me. She always tells us that when people hurt us again and again, that we think of them as sandpaper, they scratch and hurt us. But in the end, we are polished and they are useless. She desires the strength to face challenges with confidence, along with the wisdom to choose our battles carefully. She wants us to always stop to help someone along the way, listen to our hearts, take risks carefully and remember how much we are loved, she is so proud of us. She has taught us that if we are honest people we can be deceived but let us be honest anyway, that the good we do can be forgotten but that we do well at all times, that if we succeed, we will win some false friends and some real enemies but let's be nice anyway. My brothers and I are worried because she was diagnosed with a serious liver problem, she needs a liver transplant and we are doing what we can with what little we have, but I am hopeful that everything will work out. I will always do my best to help her and even more if it has to do with saving her life.

Things that our mother has taught us and that we value:

- Respect yourself and others will respect you.
- It is okay to make mistakes in life as long as you do not let them define you.
- Do not judge others, even if you think you have the whole story.
- Marriage is not easy, but it is wonderful. (I still have to try this, but from what I've seen, this seems to be the case).
- Do not do things just for recognition.
- Never underestimate people.
- When someone does something wrong, do not forget everything they did well.
- Take care of the poor, old, orphans and hungry.
- Never let the world tell you that you can not do something.
- People can only stab you in the back if you give them the knife. Do not trust everyone around you. But when you find someone worth trusting, trust them with your life.
- Do not ask for credit when you do something right.
- Try to listen to people before jumping with their own opinions.
- Do not let anyone steal your dreams.
- Call your grandparents, siblings and loved ones because one day you will not have the opportunity to hear their voice again. (I'm glad I heard you about this one).
- It's okay to leave a great opportunity to go if it does not make you happy.
- Do what is right, even if it is not the most popular opinion.
- Educating yourself will take you wherever you want to go in life.
- It's okay if you want to play sports and your brother wants to cook. (I am very grateful for this because my brother makes the most amazing double chocolate brownies).
- Think extensively before making crucial decisions. Make sure that when closing a door, you are perfectly happy to close it.
- Actions speak louder than words.
- You're never too old to need your mom.
- College is the best time of your life. Make the most of it.
- Try not to act on impulse.
- Fight for what you want.
- Never make the same mistake twice.
- Be able to take the blame when you do something wrong.
- Listen to others with all your heart and with care.

There are not enough words I can say to describe how important my mother is to me, and what powerful influence she still has...

She carried us under her heart. From the moment we come into this world until the moment we leave it, she will always carry us into her heart.

I love all the mothers in the world who are struggling to bring their children forward in life.

I ask life to allow me to live many years to accompany my mother in sweet and bitter. I really love to see my mother smile. She is my hero.

Good luck to everyone.

I love my mom. No matter what we go through, no matter how much we argue because I know, at the end she'll always be there for me.

Prettykitty - January 31, 2017, 10:49 pm

My mom and I have gone through a lot together. I have had my challenges throughout the years growing up. She has given unconditional love and support. Was always there for me when I was down. She has always been a great person in my life. I can't imagine what it would be like if she wasn't there.

My mom is literally the best mom EVER!

She makes me breakfast when i am home. You can talk about anything with her. She's always more than happy about all the people i bring home, even though she says that wouldn't be a problem, I know that it still makes extra work. As we are on a hacking forum i don't want to talk about her exact job, but she always helped everybody.

But she can be annoying as well from time to time, since she always cares about me so much and worries about literally everything. But i am grateful for that aswell, since i know that is only an expression on how much she loves me. So I love my mum for everything she's done and doing to allow me live an AMAZING LIFE!

Her voicemail means a lot. My mom died 1 year and 2 months ago, I generously and continuously pay her phone bill just to hear her voice through her voicemail.

It goes like this: "Hey, I am currently unable, I'll be picking up Bryan from school, please leave your message haha." ?

And Bryan's my brother -- I still call her from time to time just to hear her voice and how amazing it is.

I believe this love is best expressed poetically:

Since the moment I entered this world,
You have cared for me like no other.
There is only one word to describe you,
That is in every way a perfect Mother.

In the years you have watched me grow
So many memories we can now replay.
You've been there to love and protect me,
From my birth to this very day.

When there's a cloud covering my path,
Or a problem I am about to face.
You'll be the one wipe away my tears,
And put everything back in its place.

Your warm touch is one of a kind,
So gentle to send me to sleep.
Your voice is one of an angels,
A beauty only you deserve to keep.

The way you always make me smile
And the way you play with my hair.
When I need to talk, you'll put me first,
So I know how much you care.

The sun in you're heart will continue,
To shine in the future in all you do.
The most special person in my life by far,
I'm happy to say is you!

There are times only when a Mother's love
Can understand our tears,
Can soothe our disappointments
And calm all our fears.

There are times when only a Mother's Love
Can share the joy we feel
When something we've dreamed about
Quite suddenly is real.

There are times when only a Mother's faith
Can help on life's way
And inspire in us the confidence
We need from day to day.

For a Mother's heart and a Mother's faith
And a Mother's steadfast love
Were fashioned by the Angels
And sent from God above...

I probably give my mother less credit than she deserves.

Either way I love my mother more than words can describe, she's been there for me through absolutely everything.

And that's just the base of it, I could go on for ages telling people how much I love my mother. But the simple "I love her" to me means enough.
