

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: [\[Eclipse\] 1x Gift or 1x Emerald Donator \[Winner Chosen\]](#)

Views - January 12, 2017, 10:49 pm

If you'd like to enter this contest post one reason why Hack Forums means a lot to you or one thing you've learnt from Hack Forums overtime.

I'll be choosing one winner on the 31st from everyone who posts below

I'm looking forward to reading all of your reasons and if you already have the awards you can feel free to link another member with your reason as I think it'd be nice to see everyone reasons and what you've all learned. ?

Prize: 1x Emerald Donator award or 1x Gift award

Winner

(Jan 13, 2017 12:09 AM)BinaryEvolved Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) One thing I've learned from HackFourms over time?

Don't worry what people think of you, or their status.

When I first showed up here sometime around January 2014, I was quite intimidated. I was a lot dumber and younger than I am today. In numbers, it may only be three years, but in experience, it has felt like my entire lifetime.

I originally began looking at all these shiny user tags, and the respect some people gave themselves, bringing a feeling of inadequacy. There were people bragging about the thousands of dollars they just schemed, advertising the rich empires they stood upon, and talking about their hundreds of friends and their stories. I had none of those qualities, hell, I still don't. Yet now I feel equal to everyone on this forum. Why? Because I'm human. You're human, and that is all there is to it.

Yeah sure, I get it, it's a pretty stupid cliché to bring out the "We're all human" card, but really. What makes anyone better or worst than me? Sure you may have more money, you may have more friends or experiences. But, Why do I care what you have done? Why should anyone put you above themselves when in most cases, you could not exist, and it would not change their lives at all.

So if you are a member of this forum, and look at everyone else with a sense of anxiety. If you question yourself asking "How can I ever get there?". Just don't. Seriously, don't. If you want to learn a particular skill, then go out and learn it. If you want more money, learn how to make more money. Stop caring what other people think of you, and what you think of them and their titles.

The only thing that matters, in the end, is how you view your life on your deathbed, not anyone else's. So you might as well start now, and stop caring about other's lives.

Squidward - January 12, 2017, 10:50 pm

I've learned that Crack Forums would be a better name for this site.

There are a couple of reasons for this.

First, there is the practical cause. Whatever is left of security-related computing discussion and activity does not fit the true definition of hacking. A better term for this is cracking.

Second, there is the metaphorical cause. This website is extremely addicting for autistic teenagers who lack both a social life and a technical understanding of computing to any substantial depth. This addiction is very similar in principle to the addiction crack users have to crack.

These are the core messages outlined by the Crack Forums movement, which is a non-profit organization that I founded.

HFTetramorph - January 12, 2017, 11:09 pm

One thing I've learned from HackFourms over time?

Don't worry what people think of you, or their status.

When I first showed up here sometime around January 2014, I was quite intimidated. I was a lot dumber and younger than I am today. In numbers, it may only be three years, but in experience, it has felt like my entire lifetime.

I originally began looking at all these shiny user tags, and the respect some people gave themselves, bringing a feeling of inadequacy. There were people bragging about the thousands of dollars they just schemed, advertising the rich empires they stood upon, and talking about their hundreds of friends and their stories. I had none of those qualities, hell, I still don't. Yet now I feel equal to everyone on this forum. Why? Because I'm human. You're human, and that is all there is to it.

Yeah sure, I get it, it's a pretty stupid cliché to bring out the "We're all human" card, but really. What makes anyone better or worse than me? Sure you may have more money, you may have more friends or experiences. But, Why do I care what you have done? Why should anyone put you above themselves when in most cases, you could not exist, and it would not change their lives at all.

So if you are a member of this forum, and look at everyone else with a sense of anxiety. If you question yourself asking "How can I ever get there?". Just don't. Seriously, don't. If you want to learn a particular skill, then go out and learn it. If you want more money, learn how to make more money. Stop caring what other people think of you, and what you think of them and their titles.

The only thing that matters, in the end, is how you view your life on your deathbed, not anyone else's. So you might as well start now, and stop caring about other's lives.

Evanescence - January 12, 2017, 11:46 pm

I like HF because, it's the source of income to me :)

big dick rick - January 12, 2017, 11:55 pm

hackforums is just a place for when i have nothing to do

Zeke - January 12, 2017, 11:57 pm

(Jan 13, 2017 12:55 AM)big dick rick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) hackforums is just a place for when i have nothing to do same ven0m - January 13, 2017, 2:59 am

It does not mean a lot to me but I am grateful for the up-to-date resources it used to contain and its then knowledgeable member base. This forum was my stepping stone when I first started to venture computer security and was the congregation of like minds.

Kapo - January 13, 2017, 3:47 am

Thnx posting here to enter.

Angel - January 13, 2017, 4:31 am

I learned to e-whore from hf lol, already made 1000$?

MightyOne - January 13, 2017, 5:01 am well i know this account seems knew but really ive been here for a really long time, since 2012. my old account got stolen, god knows how.

Ive learned so much from this community!

i learned what are RAT's and keyloggers, how they are used. good methods for spreading, and how to get mostly pedophiles victims lmao. ive learned SQLi and alot of html. i learned all about phising and how to avoid it, aswell as ripping sites and bruteforcing.

i got really bad luck and an old forum i was registered on was hacked, db got published, and my account got taken.

this community was nothing but good to me, kind and great and i couldnt repay it enough yet.

?C???I?x??? - January 13, 2017, 6:13 am

The one thing I have learnt about hackforums is that every section has their own little group, I have also learnt how to crack and dox, as you can probably see by my recent threads :D My favourite part about hackforums is being able to actually those who are in need under the subforum that Im normally active on which is the Private Investigation Methods forum. I get a warm feeling known I have help someone.

Anyways posting to enter GL TO ALL

?Shady - January 13, 2017, 6:16 am

Posting to enter for this.

The reason HF means a lot to me is because it's a place where I can come and rant about things or have a quick laugh. It's also where I learned on how to grow social media accounts. It's a place where I can learn whatever I set my mind to. We have such a broad forum that pretty much anything I want to learn I can find here.

Mom - January 13, 2017, 6:21 am

I've learned a lot throughout my time here on HackForums, I joined when I was 14 years old, and knew nothing about the site, about the people on here, and barely posted. I started posting around November of 2016, from 4 posts, now I've made it to almost about 3000 posts, that's not what it is about though, I've learned a lot like I said, whether that being more of the English language, some good tips from other members, where other members come from, etc.. It's been a great journey here on HackForums, and it will only be better as time goes on.

Thanks for hosting this giveaway Views, I really appreciate it!

1337 - January 13, 2017, 1:47 pm

hackforums is just a place I learn a lots of things in RAT section.

WRX - January 13, 2017, 2:01 pm

I will keep this short and sweet. I'm using HF as a tool to learn coding and better understand it than I normally would. I've used it to make my credit card payments at time when things were tight. I've loved this site even with all the cancerous members that join I love this place.

Elitas - January 13, 2017, 3:22 pm

HackForums thought me how to prevent being scammed online, it showed me some useful skills in hacking, cracking, malware, etc. I have met a lot of cool people and will forever be grateful for Omniscient for hosting this forum. I will continue using this website in my free time - it's better than spending time playing games, at least I actually learn something here.

FireNice - January 13, 2017, 4:35 pm

Hello, Hackforums brings me a lot of acknowledges everyday and I would like share these acknowledges with other people by becoming a teacher.

Views - January 14, 2017, 9:49 am

Appreciate everyone who's entered so far it's nice reading all of your reasons for why you appreciate HF.

I won't win cause I'm holding the contest but personally I appreciate the site a lot because of the ability it gives me to help others.

zhyreox - January 14, 2017, 9:55 am

Let me start off by saying that I am a 'newer' member; this applies a huge percentage of the role in "what has HF meant for you, so far?". I can't say that I have made

Thousands thanks to hacking forums, I can't say I can RAT people, I can't say that I have learned to become an excellent salesman. But what I can say is that I am having a great time so far, which implements the most important rule, having fun. I am not here to make money or to hack people. I am here to communicate with a well established and funded community, without being roasted or forced out. In this contest we all have one thing in common: "We show the best side of ourselves to demonstrate that we deserve the award. If I could, I would have bought myself an upgrade, but things struggle, not only within a community but also in funds. With this giveaway,

I am eligible to win either a gift award or an emerald donator, mind asking but can you upgrade me instead of gifting me an award? Having a upgrade brings a whole lot of new features that an award can't bring.

Thanks for reading, and I wish all applicants the best of luck.

Grim - January 15, 2017, 6:38 pm

Awesome of you to do this nice giveaway :$

mvmt - January 15, 2017, 7:02 pm

From HF I have learned that even in a forum full of people that are mostly <18, you can still make money.

Zeus - January 16, 2017, 7:30 pm

Been on here for 7 years and still dont have any awards!!!!!! Hopefully get the clover soon!

ama - January 16, 2017, 7:31 pm

HackForums introduced me to YT & CPA, lately I've been making good amounts of money from it and it basically changed my life.

I'll take the Gift award if I do happen to win, kept it short & simple! <3

thales - January 16, 2017, 7:31 pm

hf is the equivalent of a social life for me

Anzee - January 16, 2017, 9:11 pm

(Jan 16, 2017 08:31 PM)thales Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) hf is the equivalent of a social life for me free to be a salty fucking spittoon ?

Xync - January 17, 2017, 1:07 am

Posting to enter, thanks OP!

Cooligan - January 17, 2017, 2:03 pm

Good luck to all who enter this giveaway!

Vishnu™ - January 18, 2017, 9:19 am hackforums is place where ub3r negs new members, l33ts to feel like macho lol :D

KingCoin - January 18, 2017, 9:21 am

HF is the new street

thats all. (Dealers , dangers , scams, fights) xd

Lana Del Rey_ - January 18, 2017, 9:50 am

Hackforums is a place I come to and look at all the weird and crazy stories from the freaks on here.
Also I love browsing the marketplace for some amazing deals, thanks for doing this giveaway.

- Thanks ?

Bugs Bunny - January 18, 2017, 9:51 am

(Jan 18, 2017 10:21 AM)wetburn Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) HF is the new street

thats all. (Dealers , dangers , scams, fights) xd
hahahahaha +10

AssGang - January 19, 2017, 5:05 pm

HF means a lot to me because its the only site ive chosen to keep up with and spend the time and money and getting to know other members and give things away etc. And Ive learned a lot of things from here like Computer or hacking and even money making skills/investments.
?

?Blastonic - January 19, 2017, 7:26 pm

Hackforums is easily the best forum post ive ever seen, its the only one ive stayed on and actually have been relatively active, you can meet some nice people or huge douchebag scammers which pretty much describes this entire world Imfao, but id say this place definitely brings a ton of intelligent minds together (and tons of huge idiots too lol) but its definitely nice to chat with intelligent people and for learning this website has it ALL.

Truth - January 19, 2017, 7:27 pm

I have learned that there are a lot of insecure people in this world

Anubis - January 20, 2017, 2:31 pm

Here's my application

A real story. I hope songs are allowed too.

Quote: Yeah It's my life... A long words I guess.
I've spent best years of my life on this forum.
And many tried, but nothing could ever tore him.
But one day
While noone does not expect it,
The FBI tried to deflect it..
While noone would ever suspect it..
So the time came, and I've had to disappear
Because I felt fear...
So I lowered the gear for a year...
And many things still remain unclear...
But here
Now while I type this, I remembered my lil' sis.
Oh shit... I gotta go piss...
We'll continue this story later...
But remember one thing!
NEVER BECOME A TRAITOR! ?
I have been on HF since 2009.
Yeah, 8 years guys. I've made many friends.
And learned many things that later helped me a lot.
This is the only forum that I've ever stayed on and I will never leave it because like I've said,
I've spend years on here, and Oh I'm gonna cry... ?

Hackforums.net is not the name of a forum, it's a name of destiny.

Hydraxus - January 21, 2017, 5:57 am

One thing I've learned from HackForums over my time here is that you cannot trust anyone. Whether they have 1,000 rep, or 2 rep. It makes no difference. People scam either way. Whether they're an Ub3r or a L33t user, whether they have 5 posts, or 5,000. It doesn't matter. Thanks for the opportunity OP. ?

Views - January 31, 2017, 12:18 pm

(Jan 13, 2017 12:09 AM)BinaryEvolved Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) One thing I've learned from HackFourms over time?

Don't worry what people think of you, or their status.

When I first showed up here sometime around January 2014, I was quite intimidated. I was a lot dumber and younger than I am today. In numbers, it may only be three years, but in experience, it has felt like my entire lifetime.

I originally began looking at all these shiny user tags, and the respect some people gave themselves, bringing a feeling of inadequacy. There were people bragging about the thousands of dollars they just schemed, advertising the rich empires they stood upon, and talking about their hundreds of friends and their stories. I had none of those qualities, hell, I still don't. Yet now I feel equal to everyone on this forum. Why? Because I'm human. You're human, and that is all there is to it.

Yeah sure, I get it, it's a pretty stupid cliché to bring out the "We're all human" card, but really. What makes anyone better or worst than me? Sure you may have more money, you may have more friends or experiences. But, Why do I care what you have done? Why should anyone put you above themselves when in most cases, you could not exist, and it would not change their lives at all.

So if you are a member of this forum, and look at everyone else with a sense of anxiety. If you question yourself asking "How can I ever get there?". Just don't. Seriously, don't. If you want to learn a particular skill, then go out and learn it. If you want more money, learn how to make more money. Stop caring what other people think of you, and what you think of them and their titles.

The only thing that matters, in the end, is how you view your life on your deathbed, not anyone else's. So you might as well start now, and stop caring about other's lives.

I really liked this reason more so then others so even though you haven't logged in for a few days I'm going to go ahead and buy the emerald donater for you cause I personally think it looks neater on the profile since I can't really get ahold of you right now to ask.

Thanks for the good reason though I'm going to add it to the OP.

riggedreality - February 8, 2017, 1:55 pm

Hope we can win this one ha