Disclaimer: Only download roms for games you own. I am not responsible for any sort of piracy if you download a game you do not own.

This should work on iOS 7+

Head to <http://iemulators.com/gba4ios>

Choose the signed option. After that, the app should start installing.

The app probably won't open as you haven't trusted it.

Go to Settings > General > Device Management

Click Trust

Now go to a website where you want to find a rom, find the download link

Google: "<game you want> gba rom"

On the download link page, there should be an option such as "More", click that. It should have an option like "Open with GBA4ios"

It should then be imported into the app and you can start playing.

If this is not working and you're stuck with the .zip, upload the raw .gba file to a private server and download it from your phone.

Enjoy. I love playing pokemon on my phone. :)

Thank you! I was looking for pokemon games which I played like 10 years ago on GB.
Now you saved my life man! :D
