Thread: [\[Official HF Award\] Graphic of the Month - Entries #1 \(24 Hours Left\)](#)

Hydra - January 15, 2017, 5:30 pm

Congrats to #Doge! Winner of February 2017 Graphic of the Month.

(Jan 25, 2017 07:08 AM)Novica Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just letting people know; it is ok to post an entry and later post a new edited version or even something entirely different. (Just make it clear at all time which is your current one that you are entering with.)

Entries is essentially the main event for Graphic of the Month. We've posted our Informational thread explaining the event and its system as well as our Showcase thread which will contain all previous battles we've hosted for each month and the winner of it. However, Entries is where you can compete to win the Graphic of the Month event including the Graphic Master award. We will announce the rules and theme(s) so you can get started on designing your artwork. All submissions will be made through this thread and at the end of each month, the three judges (Maxim, Novica, and myself) will decide on the winner and the Showcase thread will be updated with the new content. It's simple and easy so let's get started!

Award:

Requirements0% warning status

Minimum of 50 posts

Has not received the Graphic Master award previously

RulesNo unresolved (proven guilty), Deal Disputes open. Unlike MOTM where things like this are not needed to be mentioned because users would not vote for a scammer to be the Member Of The Month, we have to. You are welcome to resolve them and then participate.

No collaborations allowed - The award will be given out to only one winner each battle. Also, you should be judged by your work alone. Collaborations would make it unfair since it's an effort of two or more.

Your work files must be saved and ready to be presented if requested by any judge. This is for us to be able to check the validity of your work if stolen art have been used and edited.

You are however allowed to use resources in your work such as patterns, renders, etc. There's a difference between stealing work and using resources in your own work.

You are only allowed to submit one entry, if you post a second you must make it clear which one you are entering the battle with.

No usernames or any signature on your work. These battles are hosted by Hack Forums for Hack Forums. Your graphics may be used, and therefore it should not have your initials on it.

Place a background color of #333333 and save as PNG-24 via Save for Web.

DimensionsAvatars: 120x150 and a file size limit of 75 KB.

Wallpapers: 1920x1080 and no filesize limit.

Signatures: 650x200, 600x185, 550x170, or 470x145 and a filesize limit of 500 KB.

Banners: 586x70 (Hack Forums) and keep the filesize limit as low as possible.

This month's theme is Valentine's Day and as for type of graphic: wallpaper, signature, or avatars. If you choose to do avatars, you'll have to make 5 avatars for your entry. You may use either the text "HF" or "Hack Forums" or no text at all. Please do not use "HackForums" - it is two words. Keep in mind that although the theme is Valentine's Day related, it also needs to be related to Hack Forums one way or another - even if it is subtle. Deadline for submissions is February 28, 2017.

You can't submit a photo on its own. It has to fall under the few acceptable categories we've listed so you'll have to modify it to become a wallpaper or avatar, etc.

Whatever font you'd like. It's considered a resource.

From what I've read you can post several submissions, but you can only use one for the final assessment.

So technically one artwork per person. You also are responsible with letting the judges know which submission you'd like to use in the final assessment.

Well I'm clearly aware I'm in the wrong but my warning last for 2 months, that's two whole months I'll miss out on entering.

I understand, although maybe with some reasoning or something along the lines it could be looked over.

You'll be able to enter in the next event. If we made one exception for you, we'll have to do it for everyone. Sorry.

That's okay, maybe that requirement could be removed from future contest? as I don't believe a warning effects the level of work you'll provide.

If not it's allgoods, I'll be ready for next months contest.

Hopefully I won't get another one and can enter the next Graphic of the Month.

But I don't see how that'll help in deciding the Graphic of the Month. Regardless, good luck to the applicants.

We believe placing these restrictions makes the award even more rewarding. The award is already rare and hard to get so it would carry more value. That is our intention, to keep the award carry value and meaning - not just another 24x24 image.

Who won the competition? Is the winner announced yet?

It's been extended by another 48 hours.

I would join but I have no idea what I'd make, I'm not very creative when it comes to Valentines Day themes. Looks like Doge has this one in the bag yet again.

EDIT: I will not be using this as my entry. See newest post for final submission.

Had almost no time to work on this. Decided to push something simple out yet it still pushed my comfort zone. Just more experience for future projects.

Here is a rose I was attempting to implement but couldn't:

I know my graphic isn't expressly Valentine's related (though in an abstract sense it does kind of fit the theme - pink, with infinite zoom into the void we like to call love) however I had a couple people ask me to post here, so I did. It's a good initiative and I want to support it. Next month I'll try and get something done specifically for this contest.

EDIT: Whoops, thought you meant to enter with my existing sig. I'll see if I can get a proper entry done tonight.

EDIT2: Here's my "proper" submission. I only had 30 min to spare so I whipped up something quick. I'll spend more time on the next one. It's a continuation of the exploration of ideas that started in my actual HF signature. You might think it's not very "Valentine's-y" but believe it or not, the text is masking a rose/flower texture, and it does have a fair amount of pink in it ?
