Thread: need fun things to do with old unwanted phones

summitninja - January 17, 2017, 7:42 pm

So I have 3 phones laying around that I was just going to toss if I couldn't find a good use for them. I have a:

1. ipod touch
2. Samsung flip phone from Verizon(IDK what the name is)
- 3.BlackBerry(I need to get a battery for it... so it better be good)

Yes I know taking a hammer to phones could be fun, but I am looking for other ideas to, pranks, jokes, hacking ideas, really just about anything (and I would be willing to take ideas for destroying them, if they are cool) Thanks in advanced for any suggestions!

Useful ways of using them would be even more perfered

tl;tr I want use some old phones for something phone(anything)

Keep the iPhone if it is indeed the first model, or I could buy it from you for my collection.

Other wise you could use these for different youtube videos.

Depending if the Blackberry is running Android, you could put Kali Linux on it? Making your phone into a portable hacking device. Jailbreak the iPod? Then have to pay for a game again, even hack in games if your into that?

Take one of the old phones and use it as a GPS tracker. Always handy to have laying around..

I'd either sell them, or give them away if they still worked

Don't destroy them, that's what little kids do to their old toys.

The verizon phone can still be used, call 0 and it should connect to the roaming network where you can make almost anonymous calls.

I did not know that thank you!

(And when I say demo it I mean thermite, or putting it on the front of a rocket)

Very True, didn't think about that

What generation is the ipod touch? One idea is to get a FM radio adapter for it and you can play your music via any radio station with it in your car....assuming you have one. Honestly, I would legit buy it since music files take up a lot of storage on my phone. Well there's another idea just use it strictly for music.

You could also write apps for the ipod touch for whatever you want to do. There's a class in my university on writing apps for ipod/iphone/ipad--Any apple product.

A samsung flip phone or blackberry make great burner phones. I have a blackberry that used to work until battery started to bulge. You could capture and decrypt cell signals if you modify the antenna on the flip phone and have your own stingray which law enforcement use

Maybe use one of them as security camera.

Kali Linux is a Linux distro that is comprised of a wide range of penetration testing tools. If you remember or ever heard of Backtrack, Kali Linux is just a revised version of it, more up-to-date.

Yeah I hadn't even noticed HF has an entire sub-section full of threads for Kali Linux.

Keep them for a while or sell them to private collectors, things get value over the decades, being antique and all.
