

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Underrated Career

Vittorio - January 18, 2017, 9:44 pm

I've always had much respect for educators. Many of them structure out on we can adapt to the world. Such as a bad elementary school teacher could cause you to have education problems later on in life. The more knowledge your educator knows the more you know. Can we all take a minute for the good professors/teachers out there.

ZuGgY - January 18, 2017, 9:44 pm

Problem is that not all are good and most seem like shit (or at least were when I was in school).

King of Hearts - January 19, 2017, 1:19 pm

Here's a shoutout to all the teachers who teach because they want to. Because they actually care. Not all are like this, but those who are are selfless and spend a lot of their time dedicated to other students. To help them grow and be there when needed. The ones that are deserve to be paid way more but aren't. Yes, not all teachers are good or deserve to be teachers, but this isn't about them.

But teaching is a very noble profession, imo.

shredder - January 19, 2017, 1:22 pm

Just because your knowledgeable doesn't mean you can teach takes a lot to be a teacher.

Vittorio - January 19, 2017, 2:30 pm

(Jan 19, 2017 02:19 PM)King of Hearts Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Here's a shoutout to all the teachers who teach because they want to. Because they actually care. Not all are like this, but those who are are selfless and spend a lot of their time dedicated to other students. To help them grow and be there when needed. The ones that are deserve to be paid way more but aren't. Yes, not all teachers are good or deserve to be teachers, but this isn't about them.

But teaching is a very noble profession, imo.

Yes sir, I have a high respect for teachers.

J. McCarthy - January 19, 2017, 3:27 pm

Teaching is a bad job because people don't go above and beyond

In one of the poorest Asian countries in the world a nobody teacher who had nothing started recording his lectures. Long story short he became famous across the country and is now a millionaire

Vittorio - January 19, 2017, 3:38 pm

(Jan 19, 2017 04:27 PM)Formula1 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Teaching is a bad job because people don't go above and beyond

In one of the poorest Asian countries in the world a nobody teacher who had nothing started recording his lectures. Long story short he became famous across the country and is now a millionaire

J. McCarthy - January 19, 2017, 3:40 pm

(Jan 19, 2017 04:38 PM)Vittorio Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

Lmao

Sad truth is anyone can be great at something people just don't try

RAP1D - January 19, 2017, 3:43 pm

Well, my brother is a teacher here. And i guess this thread will cheer him up. I always tell him what a good job he is doing because I considered the job being a noble one. But I am not a teacher though