Thread: [Today I turn 30 - \[sarcasm\] got the best gift ever \[/sarcasm\]](#)

HOMODIN - January 20, 2017, 7:28 am

So yeah, today is the 21st Jan. which means that it's my b:day...usually I don't give a shit nor do I really get any gifts or anything like that. Only my fiancé gives me some nice stuff and well, this time is different tho. Even "tens" are always special right...so I had to get something special then too just.

On the 5th Jan. I got a new job, all was nice n dandy, all went well and all was actually really good. - At this point you think that I got fired, right? - I was going trough foreman training while also doing sales on the side, learning all new stuff n the usual shit. Was supposed to start working as a manager since I have done that before too. But yeah, asked my "boss" some questions related to logistics, both internal and "external"...for some reason he didn't have the answers and there was just something that was a bit off with his reply, the vibes he gave were not "ok", as if something would have really been off or not as it seems to be...

I had google on my side - did a few searches, some lookups, whois' and the usual shit...roughly 30 min passes...turns out that the company is a shell for an other company that basically scams money from people who in return get a shitty magazine that's pretty much worthless...they say that the money goes to something good (support phone line for those who get bullied) but that's not the case. I managed to dig up loads of shit...the company had literally the same "situation" 2 years ago...they have collected loads of money that was supposedly meant to be spent on extending the open-hours (don't know the real term) of the support line but literally nothing has changed. I also managed to dig up even more shit, turns out that they have ran the same scam under a different name, different different shell companies - but same shit, same theme, same agenda...

So yeah, the gift I got - figured out that the job that I have/had was a fucking lie, from what I can find they don't pay the people who work for them, they just claim that they go bankrupt and move on to the next shell...in addition to no sallary I'll now once more have to wait 90 + 14 days before my unemployment check starts coming again since I quit the job myself (didn't get fired)... The job market here sucks, it's hard as fuck to get anything here, took me almost 6 months to get this too.

I'm going with this to the "po-po" but that wont change nor help jack shit, life fucking sucks and people are complete assholes and dicks...

If someone wants to do something then feel free to make the peoples lives as fucking horrible as fucking possible, make them regret that they were fucking born. Partial details below.

IMPORTANT - All this is public info, can be found with google.

There are now 2 guarantees in life:

1. Death is inevitable.
2. No one is going to read your post.
