My review

Design 10/10

This design is plain and simple which is something that I like in programs. Everything is easy to read and find in the program which allows for quick and easy use.

Functionality 10/10

This program functions exactly how it was designed to. If you need a combo list this will make you one and will do so pretty quickly. The database feature was also very nice and something useful if you have a database that needs a combo list.

Customer Support 10/10

Great support, I recommend spending the extra couple dollars if you can afford it if you think you may need help with the program. I asked a question and got a response back not to long after asking.

Overall 10/10

For the price of this program I would purchase if you are looking for something to make you a quick combo list. Thank you OP.

It has way more features. Free combolist makers usually just offer a feature to create a combolist out of two files.

Recieved my vouch copy of this so I'm going to give it my honest review. This is probably the best combolist maker I've seen, I haven't seen many but this is the best one. It includes all the features you might need in a neatly packed Jar file (bonus points because I get to run it on my linux system without wine and all that jazz). The UI looked a bit weird to me but that's fine, the program is feature rich enough for me to look passed it. The Database feature is a really nice touch, hope to see this expanded Weco. I hope to see something like a user:pass scrapped maybe.
