Thread: Are there any actual official hacking groups?

Disparity - January 22, 2017, 11:40 pm

So I know HF has had a few official groups focused around hacking like Legion, root, and Dynasty, but are there any around right now? If not, any leaders planning on making their group into one or at the very least adding a sector?

Royalty has an ethical hacking sector I believe, you should check them out. Equilibrium has a recruitment-based computer science sector, but i'm not sure that's what you're looking for.

Aequitas (an upcoming official group) will be an ethical hacking group.

Well there is no actual "hacking" group anymore (with focus on hacking alone).. it seems that the ppl that was good hackers and could do something "major" like thinking out of the box either are "closed" (surprise surprise) or left by their own.. You want to learn hacking? "HF is the kindergarden" when it comes to this subject.. Many ppl just outgrow HF fast because here are no actual research published here anymore.. You will be more successful elsewhere as in IRC or, other sites that i don't want to mention or even discord ffs.

Left here are a bunch of ppl that do their own research, or selling stuff like myself or ppl that just want to have some fun.. But come on! Hackers that use Skype?! Epic fail!

Computer science sector...that sounds enticing. Do you have a link?

It's within the group and it's invite only. All the members have already been chosen so there will likely be no recruitment or invites unless you are interested in joining the main group.

Didn't realise it was already a group. I'll see what direction the group goes and maybe apply for it.
