Thread: RATE MY METALCORE BAND?

Passionist - January 25, 2017, 9:13 am

Simply asking for you to check out my band and maybe give us a rate? We have a new vocalist, he isn't in these songs as this is our old clean vocalist.

Not a fan of metal core, but this is actually pretty good. The song Denature was the much stronger of the two.

Thanks a lot man! We've been a band for about a year now and wrote those when we first got together. Needless to say our style has changed a lot since then. We write way heavier stuff now. :p

You should share some of that then. Heavy is good :p

Cleans are trash bro, but the screams are good bro, though I would like them to be a bit higher pitched bro.

Not to put pressure on Kyle Dauphin , but next time either he needs to get better at mixing or get someone better invest more money mixing and mastering will do great difference

Very good. Not quite "A" list material at this time, but I thoroughly enjoyed the song.

Interesting use of sampling. I almost laughed actually; I'm not sure why, because it wasn't bad or anything.

I would personally either have screamo vocals or more traditional vocals; not both. You might also want to make your panning a little more discrete on that little stop where the guitar played the short riff.

Also, I felt like the structure of the piece could have been improved, as listeners like simple repetitive structures that they can predict.

However, take all of what I say with a grain of salt as I'm not an avid metalcore fan, so for all I know, you could be doing everything well.

That's some great tunes of rock, keep up the great work man. One day you might even get famous (that's a big maybe but still...)

Not bad at all. Not a metalcore kind of guy. But strong ass vocals, clean riffs, overall well made.

I'm not really sure what metalcore is about, but I would like to have the lyrics posted because I can't hear it.

Not my style tho.
