Incorrect my friend, I was mod around a month ago, I recently became mod and was demoted again, I had no problem with that and I couldn't care less. It's never been about the ranks. It's sad to see such a beautiful thing come crashing down after everyone's helped to build it.

(May 10, 2017 07:55 PM)?Synapse Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) LQ to say the least, I would avoid at all costs. Why would you say it's LQ? The only reasoning I can think for that is you don't like the current management and you felt that constitutes the entire server as LQ.

From what I remember you went ahead and created Anti-Hub signatures and posts while still a member of our Discord. I private messaged you asking why you're doing that, and you demanded I talk to you in public chat.

As you were an ex-staff member it amazes me that you thought it was appropriate for us to talk about drama in public channels, or that it was appropriate for you to even bash the server while still being an active member.

I'm not exactly sure what happened between you and Brenden which caused your original demotion, but I do know you were no longer fit for management.

Your attitude and actions were inappropriate and beyond offensive. Instead of trying to bring life back into The Hub you decided to bash the very server you were posting in.

(May 10, 2017 08:42 PM)?Synapse Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Incorrect my friend, I was mod around a month ago, I recently became mod and was demoted again, I had no problem with that and I couldn't care less. It's never been about the ranks. It's sad to see such a beautiful thing come crashing down after everyone's helped to build it.

You were a moderator for about two weeks, and in that time you spammed :banhammer: emojis and usually begged me for an invite for both Baka and Dawn. I rarely saw you moderating anything, and when you did it was because I would private message you with news of someone spamming, or someone creating drama. You had an issue with management that no one was active, but you were barely any different.

Plus you should also realize I'm active as hell in The Hub, but that doesn't mean I'm always posting publicly. I'm always reading almost every comment, I'm having private conversations with members, and I'm participating when someone @'s me.

In your PM to Brenden, you complained that I was a prick and an inactive one at that. That's just not true, and you know it.

Am I a prick? Fair enough, but I never abused my powers, nor did I change. This is me, if you don't like it then I'm afraid too bad. I take administrator powers seriously, regardless where I obtain it. To even make assumptions that I've become power hungry or a "prick" ever since obtaining Admin is not only offensive but it's extremely inaccurate. Hell, my ban count is probably the lowest out of the entire team. lol.

Also I kind of find it ironic that you say it's 'sad to see such a beautiful thing come crashing down' when this all started by you alone. You randomly made a joke poll about how The Hub was dying, you then made the very signature you're wearing now, and in all of my attempts to talk to you, you were unresponsive. I came up with several solutions so you could voice your opinion and you gave a vague threat. You may not have meant it as a threat, but it was in the context given, a threat.

It's up to Cute and myself, yes.

You are not welcomed back, and even if you ever do return, you will no longer have the previous roles you once had. You don't deserve them after this whole debacle, plus I believe in your own words "I couldn't care less. It's never been about the ranks."

You are free to PRIVATE MESSAGE ME if you'd like to continue this conversation.

If you continue to bash The Hub on this thread I'll be forced to report you, as slander and thread bashing is inappropriate.

Of course, if you'd like chat logs and screenshots I'd be happy to provide them.

(May 11, 2017 10:00 PM)Nevieth Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why would you say it's LQ? The only reasoning I can think for that is you don't like the current management and you felt that constitutes the entire server as LQ.

From what I remember you went ahead and created Anti-Hub signatures and posts while still a member of our Discord. I private messaged you asking why you're doing that, and you demanded I talk to you in public chat.

As you were an ex-staff member it amazes me that you thought it was appropriate for us to talk about drama in public channels, or that it was appropriate for you to even bash the server while still being an active member.

I'm not exactly sure what happened between you and Brenden which caused your original demotion, but I do know you were no longer fit for management.

Your attitude and actions were inappropriate and beyond offensive. Instead of trying to bring life back into The Hub you decided to bash the very server you were posting in.

You were a moderator for about two weeks, and in that time you spammed :banhammer: emojis and usually begged me for an invite for both Baka and Dawn. I rarely saw you moderating anything, and when you did it was because I would private message you with news of someone spamming, or someone creating drama. You had an issue with management that no one was active, but you were barely any different.

Plus you should also realize I'm active as hell in The Hub, but that doesn't mean I'm always posting publicly. I'm always reading almost every comment, I'm having private conversations with members, and I'm participating when someone @'s me.

In your PM to Brenden, you complained that I was a prick and an inactive one at that. That's just not true, and you know it.

Am I a prick? Fair enough, but I never abused my powers, nor did I change. This is me, if you don't like it then I'm afraid too bad. I take administrator powers seriously, regardless where I obtain it. To even make assumptions that I've become power hungry or a "prick" ever since obtaining Admin is not only offensive but it's extremely inaccurate. Hell, my ban count is probably the lowest out of the entire team. lol.

Also I kind of find it ironic that you say it's 'sad to see such a beautiful thing come crashing down' when this all started by you alone. You randomly made a joke poll about how The Hub was dying, you then made the very signature you're wearing now, and in all of my attempts to talk to you, you were unresponsive. I came up with several solutions so you could voice your opinion and you gave a vague threat. You may not have meant it as a threat, but it was in the context given, a threat.

It seems to me that you were truly oblivious as to what was going on when I was moderator. Also, you only reported one incidence where a member was spamming and claim that is the only time I've ever took action. Of course I was lighthearted when I was a staff member, it was for the best of the members. I regularly conversed with members and was active. If you want to know what I did as a staff member, you can ask either Cute or Brenden since you have proven by your previous statements that not only was your "I read every message" claim false, but also the one in which you state it was no different when I moderated. I remember the activity was blossoming, if you want proof of this, again, ask the other staff members. However this all changed when a friend of Cute's left the server as well as I got into a bit of a charade with Regulus, which was resolved in a week or so, I admit I was totally in the wrong for that, but made things right. I told Brenden not to make me staff for another two weeks due to my exams. After that time period, I was promoted again only to find out later that Brenden had left and the whole staff management had changed.

Another point is, that you were not at all this uptight before turning into a control freak, I have screenshots of previous Hub messages and our PMs to prove this. Recently you and Cute have been inactive as well. I already explained to Brenden why I did what I did. I was done trying to help the Hub as no suggestions were taken, I wasn't trying to bash the Hub, I was merely giving my input on what it has become and I stand by it. If that input comes off as negative, so be it, it's not my job to make sure you're not offended by anything I say.

You also said something along the lines of "I'll call you back so you can speak with Cute and I", to which I replied "I'll see you all soon", but that was the perfect opportunity for little Nevieth to act very offended and take that as a threat, wasn't it?

As to the :banhammer: and other things I may have said, those were recurring memes which both the Hub members and I enjoyed, by using that as leverage, you have proven again that you're oblivious to what was actually going on, and didn't know how to keep the members happy.

By the looks of it, the only staff member I deem worthy of remaining as such, is Phil.

Truly oblivious? No. Not fully informed? Yes. I wasn't staff at the time so of course I didn't see everything that goes on behind the scenes. I do know however that I reached out to you about an issue on multiple occasion regardless if it was on Discord or through HF. I'm not going to sit here and I say I know every issue you've dealt with because I don't know.

However the fact that you were staff previously proves you should've known more than anyone that your attitude on the day of your ban was absolutely inappropriate. Saying "little" Nevieth and not even understanding why I took your "I'll be seeing you all soon" as a threat when we had just prior had an argument, you've proven you lack understanding of the situation.

Activity was blossoming because The Hub was fresh and new, it was actively advertised, and it was in it's Golden Age. This isn't because of your activity, this was simply how you all handled advertising.

I'm not going to sit here and say I'm perfect. I'm not. No one on the staff team was perfect, however, in my attempt to reach out to you, you decided to demand we take our issues to public channels, instead of handling things like mature adults later on when Cute was online. Hell I know about The Hub's prior activity, after all I joined The Hub originally before you ever did. I was OG, I only left because of an issue I had with Brenden which we resolved almost immediately after.

You're right though, I'm not constantly online and available to handle The Hub issues, but I'm running an official group, I'm going to job interviews, I'm filing for a new State Drivers License, and I'm working on furthering my education. I don't have the free time to constantly be in The Hub, however I was chosen as an Administrator because I'm professional, responsible, and un-swayed by management powers.

I have several faces, I'll admit it. I'm a goof ball in public chats, but when I'm given any form of authority I turn into a professional nut. I take things seriously because I have to be better than the trolls who paste memes in the chat. If that puts people off, sorry. I'm not a member of the Admin team to act as a mascot, I'm brought onto the team to actually handle real issues, hold donation funds, and to make sure the team communicates.

One of the biggest issues The Hub has is lack of communication. Between members and even between the staff team. No one in The Hub is perfect, but we're working our fucking asses off to keep things going. Brenden and I have beef, it's why he left the second time. He's only an Administrator right now because Cute demanded it while he's away. The Hub has definitely been a hassle and it's torn friendships apart, but it's something Cute and Brenden are proud as fuck of, and for you to go in there and wear Anti-Hub signatures and say it's LQ and dead just because of a bad experience with me... that's unfair.

I've asked you in Discord PM and on my previous HF post to contact me directly, but you've yet to do so. Instead you decided to point out each little mistake everyones made while pretending to be a saint.

This is mostly off-topic, but I find it odd you think becoming Admin on a Discord server with less than 1,000 total members would make me power hungry or uptight, while I not only lead an official group, I run an official group's sector, I also have worked as moderator and administrator on forums with 10,000 to 100,000 members. Projects that end up costing tens of thousands of dollars, and you think I'd lose my cool over a Discord server.

There's a difference between being a control freak than being professional when the need arises. I'm still me, I'm still the weeblord of HF, but I take these sort of things seriously because I owe it to those who brought me aboard to take things seriously. Would you rather have me, a "control freak" who rarely bans or kicks members, or would you rather have a loose cannon like most HF members where emotion and reputation are all that matters?

If you chose the latter... then... wow. ?

BR?ND?N - May 11, 2017, 11:31 pm

Prior to my initial departure I removed him, and then demoted myself. That was because I wanted to leave Cute to make his decisions on Staff. I made a suggestion for Phil, and to make you Admin as it seems you have relatively the same methods as I do. I never said anything against Sudo, I removed him because I figured Cute would start fresh after I left.

Sudo, your reaction was completely uncalled for and I will stand by what Nevieth said in THAT regard. However Nevieth, Sudo was actually a great mod and someone I genuinely liked.

Obviously this incident changes things a bit, but I'm looking to solve the issue with you Synapse.

Shut the fuck up, you twist the meaning of one's original message into whatever will give you leverage in a conversation. I no longer care what you will say after this point. I also had regular conversations with members and you saying that there's not enough communication between staff and members is just on your part as you've proven it to be true. You were a good friend prior to promotion nevieth, but now I stand by my previous words and think of you nothing more than another prick. I would wish you good luck with your future endeavors, but you know... Fuck you.

Cancerous discord, banned because the admin (Brenden) is not capable of starting a valid debate and decided to begin spewing shit instead. Brenden also shows a great lack of understanding of common concepts in a debate such as the burden of proof and resorts to saying that "such rules are not enforced in a casual debate".

I advise against joining.

I presented a thesis which could not be proven or disproven and this user insisted on trying to do both.

When I pointed out what I was doing, both this user and another user began telling myself and Charm to "kill yourselves, please fucking do it, you're retarded".

I explained probably 5 times to them throughout the "debate" how my thesis was a paradox and they instead kept going for blind insults.

I banned you for breaking a rule, not because you're actually severely retarded. However, whatever helps you sleep at night.

(Jun 30, 2017 10:16 PM)BR?ND?N Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I explained probably 5 times to them throughout the "debate" how my thesis was a paradox and they instead kept going for blind insults.

Blind insults? That was ra1d, not me. I even told him to check out Socrates.

I can read your name, both you and ra1d broke rules.

The funny part, is if you acknowledged my claim was invalid, why did you keep arguing it? That is what made me laugh, because you kept arguing it when I kept saying "you can not prove or disprove my claim".

Telling Cute to "fuck off and kill yourself", is blind insults.

Either way, I could care less about the supposed debate. Neither Ra1d, myself, or you would actually reach any agreement. Because, like I said multiple times, you can not.

What made me ban you is the insults. I have banned people, even friends of mine, for it. You're not exempt.

There are plenty of servers on HF, you're no longer welcome on ours. Have a good day.

I must say I am slowly getting attached to The Hub, such a lovely server.

And surely all great servers, forums, whatever, has it's bad apples but I haven't noticed a single one so far,

I am sure that the lovely Admins and Moderators are doing a mighty fine work. ?

It's sad I don't have as much time (at the moment) to spend some more quality time at The Hub, but will do my best.

There's some awesome members in there I have met already, BRENDEN, Cute, Jalapeno, Angelus - and I am sure I will be getting to know more and more members.

This is the place to be at, no doubt. Keep up the amazing work everyone,
The Hub is a lovely place and I know it will stay that way! Take care! ?

I joined this server back in about.. February? I joined because another discord went down and my friend at the time told me to go there so I joined. The first week or so I wasn't really talkative and nobody really knew it but I decided i'd at least try to get people to know me. But by now most people know who I am I'm a proud member of the VIP team and I feel like i'm really part of the community on there. It's a place I can go to relax and talk to people even though it gets extremely active at very random times (i.e 4am) but yeah so far i've really enjoyed this server and its probably the discord i've spend the most time on. Would really recommend!
