Thread: Needing 20 posts to reply to messages

coolcatlol69 - January 29, 2017, 8:12 pm

Honestly I've gotten quite a lot of pm's I want to reply to but can't; simply because I need 20 posts to even reply. That's a little ridiculous/unfair.

I understand preventing new accounts from bot spamming , but in my opinion you should at the very least be able to reply to personal messages people send you.

Quite frustrating.

I understand it's frustrating for you to have only reached 10 posts since Oct 2016.

it can be frustrating sometimes

You've been here like 3 months and haven't gotten 20 posts? -65 Rep? Yeah man, this is a travesty.

quote the famous roger

"We have this requirement put in place so that spammers, spambots, scammers, and multi-accounters cannot make new accounts to harass our members just by making a new account. With this, it helps us catch these people before they can do any harm to the site or its members. We realize that not everyone who joins this site has the intentions of doing this, but it is the only viable solution to this as we have had problems with people doing this in the past. It isn't hard to make 25 high quality posts, if you browse the site a bit I'm sure you can find something that interests you and you can reply to the threads in a certain section, and before you know it, you will have 25 posts and will be able to send other members private messages"

Aren't you the guy who made an awful expose video on TrapNation?

I watched your video about it and it's really badly done, other YouTubers also agree about that, the video is slanderous also.
