Thread: QNA - A year in prison for blackhat activities.

NGMA_temp - January 29, 2017, 8:20 pm

Ok, I'll answer any serious questions about federal prison, being involved in a serious crime ring, anything involving my blackhat crimes.

These are the frequently asked questions to prevent people from asking the same question:

Q: What did you do?

A: Security Fraud, Bank Fraud, Credit Card Fraud, I developed and implicated dozens of 'Skimmers' in the Southeastern United States and used them at various ATMs.

Q: How long did you do?

A: I took a plea deal, pleaded guilty and received 10 Months Federal Prison time, 8-24 Months monitored release. I didn't testify against anyone but admitted my involvement and assisted in the removal of many skimmers, mine and ones I knew about for a reduced sentence (also with the help of an amazing legal team).

Q: Did you drop the soap?

A: Soap came in bottles.

Q: Where did you do your time at?

A CC in Wildwood, FL, we called it triple C for "Coleman Corrections Complex"

Ask away! ?

(Jan 29, 2017 09:22 PM)Yani Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Oh wow bottled soap seems boring.

How much did you make and how much did you "lose"?

Approximately? I made anywhere from $1,000 to $7,000 a day. I'm being audited for 2.5 Million dollars and have to pay a little over $700,000 restitution. I defrauded small banks, like savings and loans, credit unions, nothing too big. The network of individuals I worked with range from the UK to Russia to Africa. Each person made a different percentage based on their tasks and obligations. Now, I also had to pay out people, takes money to make money so I'd profit $2,500 from $4,000.

All in all between like October 2015 - Feb 2016 I saw easily a 6 digit number.

Now, how much did I lose? Everything. My current girlfriend dried my financials up and the government seized the rest of it.

I got caught because of an affiliate of mines old Lady running her mouth. Also, we became sloppy and started being hot with our movements. Too much activity in my apartment.

I would change who I trusted with information. It costed me my freedom and everything I had gained during that venture.

You got lucky than, a buddy of mine is doing 6 for strongarm without a wep. Prison isn't as bad as it seems but it's a mental mind game, it's really what you make it. They have more positive possibilities inside than outside, get degrees, get certifications, law library, etc.

I shouldn't answer for OP but yes more than likely... it's not like HF is a bad site though. Dude, I slept an hour if that a night. Every car door, loud footstep sent me into a paranoid frenzy. I had at a point pushed all the furniture against the hotel door and taped the curtains to the wall so they couldn't see in at all. I ate an all-star dinner at waffle house, called myself in, smoked the ass end of a blunt, took a shooter of Hennessy and right as I light up my cigarette they rolled up.

Also, yes my activity is monitored. I've cleared it with my lawyer and po. I have to do daily check-ins.

I was expelled in the 6th grade, I have little to no formal education I'm mostly self taught. I just dabbled here and there in blackhat stuff, became intrigued on something, focused and studied. I learned as I went along, through trial and error. I lost more money than I made the first week of doing this, improperly welding mbs to stocks, not writing cards correctly, like any job it took practice.

When I tell you this man beat him to death and than beat the life back into him before we got on lockdown, there was blood everywhere.

This goes back to the treat people with respect and mind your business. My whole block was cool with me, I drew tattoos for people, played cards but never over bet or got too cocky, I just went along with the flow.

There was fights in other blocks I could hear, our block had a fight every once in a while. You either get along with these folks or you don't. Either way, that's your new family for your stent.

My advice would be anything you do, do it smart. Study it to a T and be the best at it. Always weigh risk and reward and know anything you gain can and will be taken away from you. It was a fun experience but I wish I would've kept my job and lived a stable 9-5. I can never get that 10 months of my life back and I'll always be looked at for what I did.

All in all, no matter the amount, money isn't worth your freedom. All those friends, all that money, none of it was there while I was locked up. If you're going to do blackhat shit, try to join the military or a government agency and use those talents and ambitions for good.

Legal money, no late nights wondering if and when you'll get arrested.

Like a dream? Well I was hoping it was when my apartment was being raided but quickly learned it was all too real.. As for mentally, it was kind of hard to grasp the fact that everything was over and I was about to face prison time.. If I hadn't of had a good lawyer I'd be doing a few calendars instead of my plea. Glad you're mature about the entire ordeal. You took the risk, you knew that you might get caught, and you've handled the consequences fairly well based on your posts. I hope you recover though as a human being and that over time this incident doesn't define you. I also hope this serves as a lesson and reminder to other members who are either on the path to blackhat activity or considering it.

btw..just saw this thread...but your original account has just 20 days left on the vacation. Please wait it out.

For those saying he snitched for a reduced sentence, maybe, but honestly trials are expensive for the government. And so is incarceration. A plea deals allows the prosecutor to get a win and move to his next file. They honestly hate going to trial. He didn't say if this was his first arrest either. If this was his first offense a judge may have been lenient on him anyways.

i have spent one month in indian prison for hacking a website and causing them 1 million INR Loss . I was with my friends. for 10 days we was in police custody and we was sent to central jail where we met other criminals which was convicted for rapes murders smuggling and other charges . Our barrack have 100 Other criminals . We use to wakeup at 4 in morning . then leader criminal of jail star counting all of us then we had worst tea, then we take sun bath and meal is also worst . Then in afternoon we were put inside locks till evening and they free us to walk into closed barrack . We have dinner then again they count us and put behind locks . Jail Life is fucking boring and we was have conversation all day with other criminals and new fighting incident everyday inside a jail. Our central jail have canteen inside where stuff is too costly and have hospital also with very less medicine . and if you dont obey jail rules then you will be beaten with wooden stick by jail officials . And walls of prision is too high that we cant see outside world .

Was a good read, I'm glad that you are staying positive about this.

MightyOne - March 5, 2017, 9:24 am

Wow man thats some serious story ! how did you got the balls to do this? its really a big move to play when you understand the consecuinses !

Fade- - March 5, 2017, 11:34 am

Did you get into any fights during your time in prison?

xreD - March 6, 2017, 11:00 am

Wow what a great read... Read all the 16 pages.

I am not into these stuff at all but nonethe less its an eye-opener for sure, ill be taking my personak info on net thing more seriously and whom I share that with.. who knows what might happen..

Btw if u were in other country would u have been caught?

Are they behind just americans or they will do anything to catch someone like this if he was living in some 3rd would country..

Also did you meet anyone that did similar stuff?
