

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Can you spy on an iPhone without jailbreaking it?

esaias - February 2, 2017, 1:15 am

Hi hackforums.

Recently the * had access to my iPhone 6s plus for approximately 3-4 days or so.

During this time my phone was locked with the standard 6 number passcode.

I was told my phone would be "emptied" by a woman who obviously didn't even know what that meant, which became apparent when i asked her.

This leads me to believe that they have atleast plugged my phone into a PC and done something, what however, i don't know.

Is there a way for -----, or anyone else for that matter, to bug or place spyware on my phone without the passcode and without jailbreaking it?

I understand the possibility of a physical bug inside the phone case however i deem that unlikely. How would i check for such a bug?

Could my phone be bugged/listened to through my carrier? Like the company who is selling me my phone subscription.

Maybe it is worth mentioning that it is a business phone and the subscription is bought by the company. The company is not related in any way to the reason the phone was seized. Does this mean they need a warrant against the company in order to listen to this phone? Or is a listening warrant for me personally still viable in this situation?

Idk if there are any experts on this in this forum who could help me but i figured it was worth a post.

Thanks in advance.

?lex - February 2, 2017, 4:19 pm

It's hard enough to spy on an iPhone even with a jailbreak, let along this way.