

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Quick TuT to Help Members Remain Anonymous Online

Imkasumidloke - February 5, 2017, 10:31 pm

Quick and Easy Tips on How to Remain Anonymous Online

Hey Hackforums I'll share how I remain anonymous online. Feel free to use these quick and easy methods yourself. If you have additional methods feel free to share them in this thread.

Use this URL to delete your Flash cookies/stored data for websites so websites can't track you after visiting websites:

`macromedia(dot)com/support/documentation/en/flashplayer/help/settings_manager07.html`

Copy and paste this file path to delete Flash cookies from your Hard Drive:

Windows – C:\Documents and Settings\[insert your PC-username]\Application Data\Macromedia\Flash Player

Macintosh OSX – /Users/[insert your PC-username]/Library/Preferences/Macromedia/Flash Player

Changing the amount of fonts that you have installed to your computer also helps you remain anonymous from websites that track you via the amount of fonts you have installed.

Thank you for reading and I hope that you've enjoyed my TuT and have a great day! ?

marie.conloise - February 5, 2017, 10:32 pm

thanks for this, will try it out man :)

Last_viking - February 6, 2017, 10:48 am

Ooooo nothing is 100% anonymous

You can't stay anon

If have fake ua death lol :)

CalcifiedPenialGland - February 6, 2017, 11:12 am

Seems interesting, I'll check it out. Thanks OP.

Imkasumidloke - February 8, 2017, 9:44 pm

Hey guys, another way to remain anonymous is to change your IP address.

I have a dynamic IP address which means it's not permanent. My router assigns me a new IP every time I change my MAC address on routerlogin(dot)net, and unplug/replug my router for a few seconds.

Not everyone has the same method of changing their IP, try searching online for a TuT on how to change your IP address for your router because they vary for different routers.

skelly76 - February 8, 2017, 10:51 pm

Or just use a program like CCleaner.

Imkasumidloke - February 9, 2017, 12:18 am

Another thing, after you change your IP address you're going to want to Clear all browsing history from your internet browser. This way they won't track you from your cookies, cache, ect.