Thread: hide keylogger/rat in a document,link,picture etc

germi89 - February 6, 2017, 11:19 am what do i need? im allmost all new in to this but whant to learn.

I whant to hide a keylogger or a RAT in some of the following; a document, a picture, a jpg logo, or a link.

whats important is that the .exe cant be visible. I saw some guy on youtube that made this and his file was like 089jpg.exe and for me that wouldnt work.

They cant notice anything when they clicks it the file and no popups or like that.

also, big thanks for this forum. really legit sellers and programs that acctually work.

I guess you can spoof the extension of the file and change the icon to make it look like an image. Also, bind it with image, so when victim opens the file, the image shows up and keylogger/RAT executes in the background.

Just use a file binder and bind the image to the stub

First step is bind an image file to whatever your exe is. Then use an extension spoofer to make it a .png or .jpeg as well as change the icon to a picture icon. No other way around it does every computer have .net framework? and if a computer doesnt have it, whont the rat/keylogger work?

Some crypters come with extension spoofers built in, I know Cyberseal does. Or you can just use the handy dandy search bar and it comes up with quite a few free ones.

Codefuser - February 6, 2017, 9:29 pm

Not every computer has it and the KL/RAT won't work on the computers without it.
Get a native rat/keylogger.

How has nobody told him to just get a office exploit? He explicitly asked for something to hide a RAT in a document.

@OP All you need to do is get yourself an office exploit. Here's a link to one for you to get you started.

I watched like 3 replies telling bind jpg with exe , how is that possible when executable of binder is always .exe !!

Also WinRAR will not allow any extension changes even if it's working on your pc as exe.jpg :)
