Thread: Peach | NEW WEBMASTER FORUM

Muddy - February 7, 2017, 3:14 pm

Introducing Peach, a new webmaster community forum where you can share resources, discuss SEO, learn webmaster security techniques, and socialize with other developers.

We are in beta so please disregard my progress on the site. There will be much more added including custom plugins. Also we are using a TEMP theme.

So come check us out mates ?

No offense, but looks like every other forum.

All MyBB forums look alike to me ? At least this one here isn't a general discussion board .. Lol ?

I guess that's true.

But what makes you unique from all the others? Why should we choose you?

Nothing unique yet. Just open for beta. Will need to really brainstorm custom plugins and eventually pay for a custom theme if I find it necessary.

One thing that's different between me and a bunch of other people advertising their sites is that I actually have money to invest in anything for Peach.

Nice theme, I suggest you to use some colors in name to make the forum more beautiful, it's very clean

Yeah the theme is pretty clean. The owner of FlatInk (the company that designed it) released this theme after the original site that used it removed their copyright and claimed it as their own. So it's a custom theme that's released to the public.

Thanks for your input ! ?

Make yourself unique, whether it is by design or idea.

If you need code help, I know html, css, a small bit of JS and I'm learning PHP.

Hit me up in the PM's!

"502 Bad Gateway

nginx"

Webmaster forum which can't even run their own site for a few days ;)
