Thread: Auto-Close Threads

Omniscient - February 9, 2017, 9:52 am

It was set at 2000 replies and a thread would automatically close. I'm now extending that to 2500 replies.

Enjoy and thanks.

big dick rick - February 9, 2017, 9:53 am

I think that's a good thing to add. 2500 is more aesthetically pleasing

Malaise - February 9, 2017, 9:53 am

Thanks omnii for improving the forums!!

SIM-1847363 - February 9, 2017, 9:53 am

Thank you omni. Nice work as always

b?xxy - February 9, 2017, 9:54 am

Wuuuut never thought this would happen.
Thanks.

ra1d - February 9, 2017, 10:01 am

Hey!
That's pretty good.

The Blunt - February 9, 2017, 10:01 am

What about a feature where inactive threads are closed?

LogicGeek - February 9, 2017, 10:02 am

Nice to hear that Thanks for such updates!

Thanks.
I know right haha almost 7 years here and it grew enormously ?

@Omniscient,
Thanks man, who knows if we'll ever reach the 3K due to the amount of new members.

Portugal - February 9, 2017, 10:04 am

Oh wow, that will probably take a while before they get closed then, unless it's a lounge or member contest thread.

Why? You don't have any. I get continued contacts about bugs, exploits, and vulnerabilities. Always turns out something benign that's a waste of my time.

Get either a file like config.php or settings.php or my own user database entry (uid 1 in mybb_users table). Otherwise, you don't have anything that interests me.

webdev77 - February 9, 2017, 10:05 am

Thanks for the update. Looks like the marketplace threads are going to last a little longer now.

F?cqlc?? - February 9, 2017, 10:07 am

Black Shadow is probably getting ready to bust out a new script to bust the first record for most replies.

Evanescence - February 9, 2017, 10:09 am

Nice little addition. Because of increasing customers often happens.

Arrogance - February 9, 2017, 10:15 am

The lounges of private usergroups will appreciate this.

Biker BoyZ - February 9, 2017, 10:22 am

Sounds good :) 2500 seems more reasonable

Often times they "lag" at around 1000 posts though and you can't see your own posts or who replied to it. I like this feature for the public board though and user groups where there isn't much activity in the lounge.

M?xim - February 9, 2017, 10:36 am

Woohoo, nice. I were thinking about suggesting something like this the other day, but junked the idea. Anyway, it is a good thing, thanks.

Cammy - February 9, 2017, 10:47 am

I was hoping this thread would be about auto-closing threads that are older than x months but i guess this is cool too

Annabelle Lee - February 9, 2017, 11:53 am

Can I ask why they're set to auto-close at all?

Patzan - February 9, 2017, 1:00 pm

Nice update Omni, will be good for some threads.

Steve - February 9, 2017, 1:12 pm

Well it's a small thing but a great update. Doing even the smallest things to improve the site. Thanks, this is pretty cool!

We also just don't need threads to be unlimited. The larger the thread more resources it takes for the MySQL query to run.

It's been set at 2000 for years. We do have a newer MySQL which should be able to properly handle much larger threads but I feel 2500 is reasonable enough.

Most huge threads are Lounge or sales threads. Lounge threads are pointless to have unlimited and it's best to cap sales threads too. Easy enough to just create a new thread once the old one maxes out.

Brenton - February 9, 2017, 1:30 pm

Sounds good to me. Thanks Omni for expanding the limit. ?

I was looking for this reply ;)

But this update also is nice, I'm not sure if it makes a big difference for me. But for some usergroups (and Black Shadow) it does.

ZuGgY - February 9, 2017, 4:50 pm

Oh man, that's sick. Thanks for the update!

Armada - February 10, 2017, 8:43 am

Not a huge change, but a helpful one none the less, thanks Omni.

Inspiring - February 10, 2017, 8:58 am

RIP black shadow could have got this :D

This is actually a huge thing for the marketplace. Thank you for the update Omni.

Black Shadow - February 15, 2017, 5:07 am

Could my thread be reopened that has 2000 replies then?

Does it look like I truly care? I'm not the only one he annoys, and it's a free forum. We can state opinions within reason. Stop trying so hard for staff/mentor man. It's nice to see you wanting to help the site but sheshh ?
