Thread: [Are you a MUSIC promotion YouTuber? Just found this great tip | \[EDM / HipHop / ETC\]](#)

jawsh33 - February 11, 2017, 2:02 pm

Recently, I have started realizing that there's this 1 music channel that has been on my front page of YouTube all the time.

Next day, I still saw him, consistent as always, with 9k peak viewers all the time, and after thinking for a second or two, I thought that he may actually be earning a shit load of money and subscribers with this. Well guess what, this guy started streaming on the 5th of February, look at his subscribers peak since then.

Just wanted to share this small tip with anyone with this type of YouTube channel. He's pretty much gaining subscribers and money on autopilot. ?

Broo, he's been on mine as well. I've just been listening in class or whenever I'm bored. Pretty good music too.

I know! The potential this has to people on HF like TrapNation, and other channels is great.

This guy is also getting major donations, making lots of money.

The problem is keeping your network up that long. Most people don't have the internet required to run a consistent stream for months at a time. Not to mention the ISP letters they'll probably send you. If you do plan to do this be sure to check your ISP's bandwidth and data transfer limits. (Which a lot are imposing now a days)

That sucks, fortunately my ISP does not do that kind of shit.

He's on mine aswell, I don't even listen to music channels on youtube so no idea why his livestream wont get out of my recommended videos

I saw that stream and listened to it for a bit the other day too. I love that sort of music, gives me a Nujabes vibe.

Wait, so what is he doing to get on the front page? I'm lost.

Internet bandwidth limits 2017. USA only.

I am running a 24/7 stream for other content or a different PC. Only thing it gives is a bit higher electricity bill

Viewers + engagement from the viewers

You could also do this,

Currently 70,000 viewers, after the episode they close stream -> Delete VOD -> Restart stream to avoid takedown notice

It's kind of a common thing to stream music 24/7 now.

I haven't seen that youtuber on my front page "yet." ?

Good for him though =D!

Why should this be a problem if you have unlimited data, which most people do?

What?

Most people in the first world with any interest in computers most likely (hopefully?) have 100/100 fibre, at the very minimum.

Why would it be hard to have a 24/7 stream?

Even if you do have crap internet, just get a cheap VPS and stream from that, problem solved.

Um, you know the US isn't completely covered with Fibre cables right?

No problem man! I'm pretty sure a lot of people can use this! :)

I said the first world, not the second world... ?

Jokes aside, I suppose so, but what are you doing pushing a 24/7 stream if you still live in boonyville? Move to the city if you want to live in the 21th century.

And as said, even if you do have crap internet, just rent a cheap VPS and stream from that, problem solved.

I hardly see how people who still live on the country side not being able to do 24/7 live streams is relevant to a thread where that is the main thread.

TL;DR: Move to a real city or don't do streaming, problem solved.
