

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: What do you think of Parkour ?

Ted™ - February 17, 2017, 4:10 am

What do you think of Parkour ? i have been into it for a year now and just curious to know what people think of it

Ted™ - February 17, 2017, 4:13 am

(Feb 17, 2017 05:11 AM)Wild Yak Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think it's pretty autistic for the most part. And why is that ?

jammy47 - February 17, 2017, 4:13 am

I think its a great workout and an attention puller. Can be better if parkour includes some of the tricks that tricking has to offer.

Ted™ - February 17, 2017, 4:15 am

(Feb 17, 2017 05:13 AM)jammy47 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think its a great workout and an attention puller. Can be better if parkour includes some of the tricks that tricking has to offer. well we have freerunning too

Deany - February 17, 2017, 4:16 am

I would never in my LIFE attempt parkour. Them peeps be jumping from goddamn 559599944949 story buildings HELL NO

Ted™ - February 17, 2017, 4:21 am

(Feb 17, 2017 05:16 AM)Japanese Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would never in my LIFE attempt parkour. Them peeps be jumping from goddamn 559599944949 story buildings HELL NO parkour aint all about jumping

LogicGeek - February 17, 2017, 4:21 am

I was training in Parkour for a 3-4 years, I had a successful carrier in it, I was motivated, was moving in the gyms & had a great body workout.

But I had many injuries as well, last time I've felt in street on double back flip and result was that I broke both of my knees.

I'm doing flips even today, but not tryharding anymore, doctor said that "If you didn't had such strong knees, you would never be able to get up again"

jammy47 - February 17, 2017, 4:21 am

(Feb 17, 2017 05:15 AM)Ted™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) well we have freerunning too Well, i think that if parkour is usermode rootkit, than Tricking is kernel mode rootkit :)

fapninja - February 17, 2017, 4:24 am

As far as sports go, it would have to be one of the less-stupid ones.

And at least you can then use those skills to become a master thief when SHTF.

Kayoz - February 17, 2017, 4:26 am

It think it's pretty cool. Any videos of you doing parkour?

Vitani's Mate - February 17, 2017, 4:41 am

It looks fun as fuck but I will probably never ever do it.
I am not really that agile.

Ted™ - February 17, 2017, 5:01 am

(Feb 17, 2017 05:21 AM)LogicGeek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I was training in Parkour for a 3-4 years, I had a successful career in it, I was motivated, was moving in the gyms & had a great body workout.

But I had many injuries as well, last time I've felt in street on double back flip and result was that I broke both of my knees.

I'm doing flips even today, but not trying anymore, doctor said that "If you didn't have such strong knees, you would never be able to get up again"

well its a fucking stupid thing to attempt a double back on concrete

Wilkassek - February 17, 2017, 5:15 am

I was training Parkour for half year, it was okay, but I've stopped when I tried to do somersault or salto, I don't know how it's exactly called, and when I tried, I had an accident, after this I stopped :<

sevv - February 17, 2017, 5:18 am

Personally, I don't do parkour but I think it's cool as hell and props to the people who do it. But please avoid making your self look like one of those autistic guys. Just don't be that guy.

Assyrianjoe123 - February 17, 2017, 7:04 am

I think it's dangerous and pointless

Exquisite. - February 17, 2017, 7:06 am

Dude, I'm an adrenaline junkie yet I've never seen it done in front of me like I see on YouTube videos or I've never done it at those extremes neither. I think it's something that people hate and some people would love and I see why on both perspectives.

iHasSlowInternet - February 17, 2017, 7:30 am

Back in my day parkour was called ADHD.

Raf Simons - February 17, 2017, 8:07 am

I used to be really into it when I was 10-14. I never made it obvious because those kids that vault tables in school and feel the need to "parkour" everything they do look stupid as fuck. They're the reason people say "hardcore parkour" in a funny voice every time they do something dumb that involves jumping.

Defiance. - February 17, 2017, 9:00 am

(Feb 17, 2017 05:21 AM)LogicGeek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I was training in Parkour for a 3-4 years, I had a successful career in it, I was motivated, was moving in the gyms & had a great body workout.

But I had many injuries as well, last time I've felt in street on double back flip and result was that I broke both of my knees.

I'm doing flips even today, but not trying anymore, doctor said that "If you didn't have such strong knees, you would never be able to get up again"

That is crazy, I was interested in parkour for years but never got into it too much because of how risky the injuries are

fapninja - February 17, 2017, 9:01 am

(Feb 17, 2017 10:00 AM)Defiance. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That is crazy, I was interested in parkour for years but never got into it too much because of how risky the injuries are

You could wear padding.

Defiance. - February 17, 2017, 9:05 am

(Feb 17, 2017 10:01 AM)fapninja Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You could wear padding.
Depending what you try to do padding will only help so much lol

Ted™ - February 17, 2017, 12:32 pm

(Feb 17, 2017 10:00 AM)Defiance. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That is crazy, I was interested in parkour for years but never got into it too much because of how risky the injuries are Dude this isn't true i have been into it for 1 year already i didn't have any dangerous accidents accidents only happen when we go crazy and try something that is hard or not mastered

iamnotactiveanymore - February 17, 2017, 12:32 pm

parkour'd yesterday on the roof on my school, fell off, never parkouring again

Leonardo DiCaprio. - February 17, 2017, 1:02 pm

Wish I got into it earlier and I can see it being an olympic event 10-20 years from now.

Flared - February 17, 2017, 1:06 pm

people who do it are usually very edgy and try to brag about the fact that they can do flips

Apocryphon - February 17, 2017, 1:07 pm

I think it's an insane sport. There was this guy in my city that was so mad about it and he was teaching small kids to do parkour. Oh well one of the kids jumped from a garage and broke his arm.

Prophett - February 17, 2017, 1:08 pm

(Feb 17, 2017 05:10 AM)Ted™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What do you think of Parkour ? i have been into it for a year now and just curious to know what people think of it
I enjoy free running on COD4 but not really a fan in real life.

Raf Simons - February 17, 2017, 1:26 pm

(Feb 17, 2017 01:32 PM)Ted™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Dude this isn't true i have been into it for 1 year already i didn't have any dangerous accidents
accidents only happen when we go crazy and try something that is hard or not mastered
This is very stupid logic. That's like saying "car accidents aren't dangerous, I've been driving for a year and never gotten in a crash"

Techius - February 17, 2017, 4:19 pm

I think it's fucking dangerous and honestly stupid.

grady - February 17, 2017, 4:23 pm

Dangerous but fun as fuck.
I did more of tricking/gymnastics mixed in though.

Davian - February 17, 2017, 4:26 pm

It's pretty corny imo... never liked it.
but do your thing mate ?

LogicGeek - February 17, 2017, 6:54 pm

(Feb 17, 2017 06:01 AM)Ted™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) well its fucking stupid thing to attempt a double back on concrete

I was normally doing it, but there are moment when you just lose control of yourself in the middle air, that happened to me second time, in the air when I already did one backflip I thought that I didn't had enough height to finish the second one as well, but it was too late.

I felt on my knees first before I hit the foot on the ground. Example is shown on this picture how I fell

Ted™ - February 18, 2017, 7:29 am

(Feb 17, 2017 05:23 PM)?Infamy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Dangerous but fun as fuck.
I did more of tricking/gymnastics mixed in though.
Tricking is awesome can get you lots of girls lol thrudda - February 18, 2017, 8:39 am

I find it dangerous but if that's what makes it fun go for it.

Saint - February 18, 2017, 8:41 am

(Feb 17, 2017 05:10 AM)Ted™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What do you think of Parkour ? i have been into it for a year now and just curious to know what people think of it
I like it, used to do a little bit of it myself.
I like the whole jumping part and getting where others cant real quick.

Ted™ - February 18, 2017, 8:44 am

(Feb 18, 2017 09:41 AM).Saint Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I like it, used to do a little bit of it myself.
I like the whole jumping part and getting where others cant real quick.
Yup never believed i would be able to do such big jumps in the past man

fapninja - February 18, 2017, 8:47 am

(Feb 17, 2017 02:26 PM)Saint Laurent Paris Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is very stupid logic. That's like saying "car accidents aren't dangerous, I've been driving for a year and never gotten in a crash"
Really I think it depends on the person with things like that.

Just like how some people can drive without ever having an accident.

Godiva - February 18, 2017, 8:48 am

I don't think very much of it.

Kalyex - February 18, 2017, 8:55 am

That's a cool thing. In fact, I've been in it a few time ago, but not in freerun, 'cause I can't see the difference between the guy practising gym and the one doing it outdoors : for me, the point of parkour is to be able to get in inaccessible places and to improve your body skills, not to show that you can jump in many useless ways.

bowlshacker - February 19, 2017, 2:13 am

It's pretty cool, I wish I knew how to parkour

Ted™ - February 19, 2017, 5:12 am

(Feb 18, 2017 09:55 AM)Kalyex Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's a cool thing. In fact, I've been in it a few time ago, but not in freerun, 'cause I can't see the difference between the guy practising gym and the one doing it outdoors : for me, the point of parkour is to be able to get in inaccessible places and to improve your body skills, not to show that you can jump in many useless ways.

well most gymnasts are afraid to try anything outdoor and we use freerunning to make our moves look better and yes parkour is got to reach places that no one is able to go

(Feb 18, 2017 09:55 AM)Kalyex Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's a cool thing. In fact, I've been in it a few time ago, but not in freerun, 'cause I can't see the difference between the guy practising gym and the one doing it outdoors : for me, the point of parkour is to be able to get in inaccessible places and to improve your body skills, not to show that you can jump in many useless ways.

well most gymnasts are afraid to try anything outdoor and we use freerunning to make our moves look better and yes parkour is got to reach places that no one is able to go

?eptic - February 19, 2017, 8:34 am

I think parkour looks fun but dangerous. I don't do parkour myself because I don't wanna get injured badly lol. I do enjoy watching parkour montages sometimes, they're cool.

Ghost1524 - February 22, 2017, 7:17 pm

I rate people that can do parkour, it definitely takes skill and practice

Spouse - February 22, 2017, 7:58 pm

It looks very interesting a long with looking really fun to do however the only reason I have never tried it is the dangers of it. By the way its not that I weigh 269 pounds and cant run for more than a minute or anything heh right?

Meowth - February 22, 2017, 8:05 pm

Parkour is interesting, it is nothing that I would ever attempt to do.

[Video: <https://youtu.be/TT2GgTK9qVY>]

I personally find this much more fascinating.

black forums - February 22, 2017, 8:05 pm

It's dope, but I don't really see myself doing it.

Ravioli - February 22, 2017, 8:32 pm

I have a few irl friends that are SUPER into it, I don't like it as much as they do but it's definitely an interesting concept.

SimplyOG - February 23, 2017, 3:23 pm

I honestly think it seems cool, no racism but im black so i dont think many of us do it

Ollie. - February 23, 2017, 3:30 pm

I'm not really into "parkour" but I do occasionally climb rooftops with my mates, i think it's pretty cool, heres some pictures from a rooftop we climbed the other day.

They are bad quality as i took the photos on my iPhone.

[img]<http://prntscr.com/ecmlut>[/img]

[img]<http://prntscr.com/ecmm3a>[/img]

[img]<http://prntscr.com/ecmmas>[/img]