Thread: SEO, Social Media & Internet Marketing Blog - HaxholmWeb

Hello there guys!

Just recently I decided to start building a blog dedicated to internet marketing and moneymaking online.

The long term goal is to develop this into an authority website with lots of quality content that users can read to get started in the field.

So far I've only written one blog post, but there's way more in the works. I'll go hard on CPA and probably create a video course for website members in the near future.

Let me know what you guys think both of the content and of the general website experience.
