What would be a better adnetwork than adsense? I do not care what types of ads they display, anything better paying is good.

If it's a forum with members maybe introducing a membership option which gives some extra privileges? Also no harm to have a donation page if you don't already maybe some members would be willing to contribute.

A bit off topic here OP, but I would suggest you for a start to fix a few simple things on your site.

1. Change the phone number and email to actual information or remove it.

2. Add some about us text or at least remove the lorem ipsum text.

3. Remove the duplicate of the social bar on the footer.

4. Add a calendar or remove the page from the menu or the forum all together.

5. Redirect the social media buttons to actual social media accounts or remove the buttons.
