

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Can ubers delete other user's post from their threads?

hrustovi64 - February 26, 2017, 7:58 am

I posted on a certain thread which is a paid sticky. My post got deleted. Just wondering if the uber user deleted it or staff. Is it possible for ubers to delete my posts from threads they started?

M?xim - February 26, 2017, 8:18 am

No they cannot. My best guess is that your post was unrelated to the thread, If your business on the thread is not related to the service/shop or whatever; don't post.

vaiperboy - February 26, 2017, 8:19 am only a staff / mentor / admin can delete peoples' posts

TheVBScripiter - February 26, 2017, 8:20 am

Staff have removed the post(s).

They do so if it's harassing, flaming or sales trashing.

hrustovi64 - February 26, 2017, 8:22 am

I understand. Thank you for your answers guys.

webdev77 - February 26, 2017, 11:44 am

It means consider yourself lucky you escaped without a warning level. A staff member believed that your post violated some HF rule.

King of Hearts - February 26, 2017, 12:37 pm

No.

If a post is deleted then something was wrong with that post.

Looking at said post now, you started with "I am not here to sales thrash but...." and then proceeded to do just that (thrash that particular thread). You were lucky that you did not receive a marketplace violation warning for that.