Thread: Free Drawing #2 \(Win up to \$1000 BTC, Awards, Upgrades\)

Tid?es - February 26, 2017, 3:25 pm

Winning numbers will be drawn on SUNDAY (04/02)

Entries are closed. If I receive one more PM about the winning numbers you will be disqualified.

Spring Lottery Contest

About

This contest is very simple and it's free to enter for ALL users. To enter, you must guess four numbers from 1 to 100 (numbers cannot be the same). One month from now, March 30th, I will randomly draw four numbers, and depending on how many you match, you will receive a prize. Obviously, the odds of matching more than one are incredibly low, which is fair considering how large the prizes are.

Participation Guidelines

Account must be in good standing

You must have no active deal disputes

Your total reputation may not be negative or zero

Your account must be at least 2 months old

You must not be on my ignore list

How to Enter

Simply post four numbers of your choice between 1 and 100. On March 30th, I will draw four random numbers via livestream. The more numbers you match, the better your prize is. Any edited entries will be disqualified. If you delete your entry, you may not post again. Once you submit your numbers, they may not be changed. ONE ENTRY PER PERSON.

Example:

Quote:My guess is 19, 56, 26, and 90

Prizes

The only reason you even clicked on this thread was because you saw some amazing prizes in the title. I wasn't lying.

1 Matching - Choose one of the following$15 BTC

2 Matching - Choose two items or one item with an asterisk ()$50 BTC

*

3 Matching - Choose any two items from the previous category and one item from below$225 BTC

4 Matching - Choose two items or one item with an asterisk ()$750 BTC

Winning numbers: [] [] [] []

It will be your job to PM me if you've won any prizes. Please PM me the link to your post after I announce the numbers. You have a 3 day window after the winning numbers are announced to claim your prize. Good luck ?

SIM-2015410 - February 27, 2017, 10:12 pm

My guess is 3, 27, 58 and 92
Thanks Tides :D

If my maths is correct, there is a:
0.0000255% chance of getting all 4,
0.00247% chance of getting 3,
0.1212% chance of getting two,
4% chance of getting one right.

Assuming every winner chooses the most expensive prize in their category,
$1+0.0606+0.006175+0.000255 per person = $1.067 per person that enters. Assuming roughly 500 people enter again (based on the last contest), Tides can expect to give away roughly $500 in prizes.

0.00247% chance of getting 3,
0.1212% chance of getting two,

Assuming every winner chooses the most expensive prize in their category,
$1+0.0606+0.006175+0.000255 per person = $1.067 per person that enters. Assuming roughly 500 people enter again (based on the last contest), Tides can expect to give away roughly $500 in prizes.

That's what I originally calculated, but we're not allowed to use the same number twice, and we must assume that tides won't either (my calculations are assuming 500 people enter);

Exactly 0 matches: $(96/100) \times (95/99) \times (94/98) \times (93/97) = 0.84717403362$

Exactly 1 right: $(4/100) \times (96/99) \times (95/98) \times (94/97) \times 4 = 0.14575037137$

Exactly 2 right: $(4/100) \times (3/99) \times (96/98) \times (95/97) \times 6 = 0.00697741139$

Exactly 3 right: $(4/100) \times (3/99) \times (2/98) \times (96/97) \times 4 = 0.00009792858$

All 4 right: $(4/100) \times (3/99) \times (2/98) \times (1/97) = 2.55022346 \times 10^{-7}$

What I did here is figure out the chance for getting the the exact number of correct balls, assuming getting N correct in the first N draws out of 4, then multiplied by $nCr(4,N)$ to account for the order not mattering. This was just an easier way for my brain to think about it. You can easily see from the fractions I've written out how you could write the numerator and denominator in terms of factorials.

In fact, the whole general solution can be written as:

Chance of matching N out of 4 drawn balls: $nCr(4,N) * nCr(100-4,100-N) / nCr(100,4)$

Because these chances cover all possible outcomes, they are a discrete probability distribution that sums to 1.0, so to figure out how many people are expected to get each outcome with 500 participating, just multiply all these numbers by 500. The expect values work out to (rounded):

People who get 0 right: 423.587

People who get 1 right: 72.875

People who get 2 right: 3.489

People who get 3 right: 0.049

People who get 4 right: 0.0001275

So Tides can be expecting to give out $1245~ in prizes.
