Thread: Bitcoinage Award Change

Omniscient - March 1, 2017, 5:26 pm

The Bitcoinage award cost 1 BTC originally. At the time BTC was about $100 then continued to rise. I've left it at 1 BTC this whole time but now that BTC is well over $1k it seems rather overpriced and I actually think it hurts award sales.

I've now altered the award to be like the other crypto awards with a set donation price of $250.

So for those who wanted this award and it was too expensive. Now is your chance.

Thank you.

Thanks.

I always thought it was never going to change, but this is definitely something that needed to happen. Thanks Omni, hard working dude.

(?°°)?(???? - March 1, 2017, 5:31 pm

Pretty good change, makes sense. I feel like GA would be more desirable at the same price but at $250, now maybe not.

dLay - March 1, 2017, 5:32 pm

Thats good lmao, was way overpriced imo

DonD - March 1, 2017, 5:32 pm

I was actually looking at the prices of the different awards and wondered why the BTC one was prices like that when the price is so high.. So makes good sense to change it :D

Who Soup - March 1, 2017, 5:35 pm

I think that's a fair price for the BTC award.

Thank you for the change ?

M?xim - March 1, 2017, 5:50 pm

Cool change, people might have been afraid of purchasing it in the past considering that BTC could drop any minute and then they could have saved some dollars.

Smart move.

Good for those who buy awards, I've already almost had all so I am done for now.

Steve - March 1, 2017, 5:52 pm

Awesome change. I was afraid that by the time I wanted to buy it it would be way too expensive. Glad to see it is still a somewhat expensive award though!

Nevieth - March 1, 2017, 6:29 pm

A necessary change I say, nice thinking Omniscient.

You may get lets say 5 people buying it at $1,000, but the likelihood that you'd get 10x that if it's cheaper is much more appealing.

You bought the Bitcoinage award in July 2013, while the last price I could find was in June 2013 at about $100.

Meaning it's actually about $150 more expensive than what you paid. :P You still made out alright man.

Pretty sure Omni explicitly said that he does only allow multiple awards of the GA.

The Minimalist situation was unique and was a one-time thing.

It was never intended to be a $1300 award though. It's too far out of range for most members who enjoy donating for the crypto award.

Yeah, it was a bit much for a single reward.

Would you ever consider offering a separate award for 1.0 BTC? In my opinion, the award should have stayed the same because people paid more than $250, and then a separate award for $250 of BTC could have been established. Buuuut I like this too because I don't have the award and although I would donate $1k total, I'd never spend that on one single award... this change makes it more obtainable.

That is a fair point...maybe a better course of action would of been to remove the award that way it still remains exclusive, or rather a promotion before its removal, that way people who were with Bitcoin since the early ages are noticed in the coming years while (if) it becomes mainstream.

That's just my 2cents :)

(Mar 4, 2017 10:27 AM)Nerdi Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah, it was a bit much for a single reward.

Would you ever consider offering a separate award for 1.0 BTC? In my opinion, the award should have stayed the same because people paid more than $250, and then a separate award for $250 of BTC could have been established. Buuuut I like this too because I don't have the award and although I would donate $1k total, I'd never spend that on one single award... this change makes it more obtainable.

This is also an alternative solution, correlating with my post above I think the "early adopters" who bought the award before the big price rise should be noticed, just like those who got the YouTube award when it was available (since you cant get it anymore?) and the LR head award which I'm assuming was discontinued after LR was seized

g?th - March 4, 2017, 10:38 am

Seems like a pretty good decision. Never thought it would surpass GA, lol.

tim - March 4, 2017, 10:50 am

Can't wait to see this Bitcoinage award on your account sir. ?

ZuGgY - March 5, 2017, 8:28 am

Welp, sucks for me that I got rid of a lot of my BTC a little before this. Fuck.

Nate - March 5, 2017, 10:03 am

Seems like a very reasonable change, I doubt many members were cashing you 1k for that.

Charger - March 5, 2017, 3:07 pm

I wonder if Omni has seen an increase in donations for this award since the price change.

I'm trying to decide if I want the coin and stacks or the red ruby thing.

Red ruby looks more neat too. ?

1) stacks and coin which is kinda common.
Or
2) 1 red ruby award which is a little bigger in size (if you haven't noticed) and stands out even more. (But expensive..) ?

Let the donation, begin! ???

At the end of the day it doesn't really matter how much you donate for. If you can't afford it then do not be financially irresponsible.

Yakless - March 7, 2017, 7:08 pm

When you pay $800 for an award and omni changes the price to $250. Now everyone who bought it at a higher price previously got fucked.

Containment - March 7, 2017, 7:09 pm

I def will get this when i have the funds

Vitani's Mate - March 8, 2017, 9:48 pm

btc is currently dropping.. well not by much, still a fuck load.

Maybe this is why coinbase is extremely slow because everyone is selling their btc because of the massive spike..

What a gorgeous award omniscient. Nice thoughts on lowering the price, definitely will be beneficial.. as opposed to asking for $1000! For an award

I've now altered the award to be like the other crypto awards with a set donation price of $250.

So for those who wanted this award and it was too expensive. Now is your chance.

Thank you.
