Thread: Can I download a program & infect it with my FUD RAT?

I was just wondering if I would be able to find a program like "Free Robux Generator" or possibly have someone create a fake one real quick so I can infect my rat into it?

Is this possible?

You can download or make such a program and bind your rat with it using binders.

Well I don't see a point in binding it with server, as it will run everytime on the startup, along with the server.

There are ways to "go around" this but it's not really worth bothering.

Just put your server in a rar file, and add some random dll. files and some text and you're good to go.

If I made a "Free Robux Generator" for you..

And if you've binded it with your server, which has startup and persistance enabled.

On each startup, that fake program would run along with the server.

Same goes for fake messages.

If he enabled melt and had the RAT simply place itself elsewhere on the disk on initialization, would that not fix that issue?

Also, since I am sure there is no legit robux generators, they will know the programs fake once they open it, so why do you even need a fake program?

Just name your RAT 'Robux Generator' and then make it have a textbox popup saying 'Failed to init' or something like that.

Download the fake generator

Download Binder (There are tons out there)

Then simply bind the fake app with your desired file. Done! You have 2 apps running from 1 executable. If you need further information, let us know. Have a nice day ?
