Critics and Comments are welcome ?

Exquisite. - March 4, 2017, 4:37 am

It looks like Yanet Garcia.

Amazing graphic design, truly talented.

EDIT: the only thing I don't like the look of is the chin.

Press the Button - March 4, 2017, 4:37 am

This is some talented work my dude, very nice :)

Fadó - March 4, 2017, 4:39 am

Love your style man. Only thing I'd say is there's a lot of detail on the shirt in comparison to the rest of the image. Perhaps adding more shading to the face could make it stand out more.

Sighted - March 4, 2017, 5:04 am

This is amazing work, I love vector graphics, what program did you use to make this?

Saul Bass - March 4, 2017, 8:43 am

Good work fella and nice palette.

The eyes could do with some more work though.

Charger - March 4, 2017, 8:45 am

Very nice!

I'm a big fan of vector art.

How long did that take you?

SkullTraill - March 4, 2017, 8:49 am

You girl looks pretty cute.

Also nice vectorization.

YinYang - March 4, 2017, 8:59 am

I really love multi-accounters, the fact that they act like new guys while having the IP as their banned scam accounts is just wonderful and great for HF.

Sarcasm is my strongest side, to be honest, I just try to reply with as less sarcasm as possible, before I'm "addicted" to it.

Quote:

"So, tone down the sarcasm and work on clever wit instead which is usually devoid of hostility and thus more appreciated by those you're communicating with. In essence, sarcasm is easy (as is most anger, criticism and meanness) while true, harmless wit takes talent."

(Mar 4, 2017 10:06 AM)YinYang Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The internet isn't as serious as you perceive it to be I don't take it serious, only when it comes to money and respect.

Too many kids think they can just say whatever they want without consequences, so I tend to keep my "emotions" on the low-low.

I will try to reply with sarcasm next time, so we can be on the same funny-level.

Invictum - March 4, 2017, 9:23 am

Very nice graphic, nice work on it!

SIM-3438581 - March 4, 2017, 9:26 am

Very well done. Can you draw a fox?:D

? THEINsPIREDONE - March 4, 2017, 9:49 am

Nice color choise, however the only thing that ruins it for me is the lack of detail on the face.

I like how you've put a lot of effort on the t-shirt wrinkles, but the face seems too plan. As if there's not a single wrinkle on her face (c'mon bro, we know how make up works!!!!)

Cheers!

vac33 - March 11, 2017, 9:45 am

Sorry for low res, it's submitted at low res.

The largest thing you need to work on is using the pathfinder and alignment tools to clean your work up, and work on packing much more detail. You have parts that look completely flat / unfinished. There are points that should visually be aligned but aren't. It seemed like you rushed through the details, and you didn't use your pallet to its' full extent. For example, the left side of the lips looks unfinished, none of the undertones even match the shape you're trying to create. The teeth could've had the shadow shaped in between the individual teeth further sculpting the shape of them without introducing any additional colors/tones. I didn't even start with the eyes, because they're well, not finished. Cool, you put the reflection in the eye, but you missed the pupil. Additional highlights to the hair could've been added to make it look less flat.

Novica - March 11, 2017, 2:25 pm

Shading on the ear looks random and it doesn't make much sense. Her left eye looks weird. Both chin and her left cheek are choppy and could definitely use some work.

Overall, I'd say it looks pretty good.
She's cute. :3

It looks really clean! One thing that I would suggest you to edit is the chin part, it is a bit slanted in my opinion.

You should add shadow on the right side of her face otherwise it great

I like this very much, you have my vouch sir. Clean and slick ;) !

quickie - April 16, 2017, 9:30 pm

Can't really give any arguments as you really do have experience in vectoring which we can see from your many illustrations. Only thing I'd definately change would be shading under left eye & hair on that side, also maybe add some more face lines shading on the right side of face as there is none. Besides my personal opinion I can say that I'm quite satisfied with outcome because you've paid attention to details & did outstanding shadig work on tshirt, also not to forget as I've just noticed right ear look seems a bit odd or maybe it's just too much shadow from hair I can't tell. Keep it up buddy. :)
