Very nice thread Chief! I am sure many will find this useful, myself included.

Korvo - March 4, 2017, 6:20 pm

A very great thread indeed. If anyone has any questions at all about Android or even iOS, feel free to message me anytime. I will also be including some guides in a few days myself.

Hmm that is odd. I think it also depends on your location, like if the location you're in has 4gLTE towers. However for the settings you have done exactly what I would have done myself. I mean you can give it a shot trying to update it, which if there is an update, it should be right in the software settings on your device. Short of that, I would try and reach out to the manufacture of the device and speak with them.

Can someone help me root my s7 edge? It's updated and running the latest version (nougat 7.0.0). Last time I tried I almost bricked it completely.

Thank you :)

I am in possession of a Samsung galaxy s7 that is logged into a google account and a Samsung account using the same gmail. Is there any way I can recover the credentials for that gmail account from the phone?

The phone is not rooted but it can be done if required
