What I like about HF is that a lot of people here is 'high quality', you can usually find a lot of good people here to chat with and just spend time on the forum, But there is ofcourse a lot of 'spammers', Just looking at this giveaway for an example where you ask us to write something that we like with HF "or w/e" (Because you know people will just spam post to get in the giveaway anyway) (Looking at the people above my post that probably haven't even read your post, just the title).

For an example I deem posts like this Quote:I'm entering thanks for the giveaway! Good luck to everyone :)

to be a spam post that people just post on a giveaway to enter it and move on with their forum session, but that's my one cent on this Cheers

The thing I liked the most about HF is the 2008-2011 era. The start up of HF. I was lurking in the forum for over 1 /2 years and then I decided to join, lol. Aaaand right now, it's going on and on and on... making history.

What I love about HF is the wide variety of skills that come together on this one forum, and the range of tutorials available. You can pretty much learn anything on this forum apart from how to make $300 a day lol.

????? - March 8, 2017, 10:40 am

What I love about HackForums is that it's a community full of people who teach each other new things and help each other out.

When you're a part of a forum where people generally actually have each other's backs, that's amazing.
