Thread: 20 Year old previous foster kid and business owner

FilmGuy - March 7, 2017, 6:03 pm

My life is not perfect by any means but through these past 2 years after aging out of foster care I've significantly grown and developed myself and business.

Tomorrow I fly to Cape Town, South Africa for my first true "Vacation" the past 2 years have been nonstop work and school. I did live in Italy last year and it was quite enjoyable and it made me learn so much about myself my beliefs and the world in a whole. My business is (Video Production) is also taking off I've been signed to film a set for a pretty big EDM artist in May and I also have done multiple weddings this year with clients raving about my work.

Life is tough guys but make the most of it work hard and there's nothing that can stop you. Never say you'll do something in 5 years if you want to fucking do it, Do it now.

Family's scare me I'm not sure if that'll be apart of my life.

Thank you though I appreciate your kind words.

Great to see something else than a rolex thread with ebook link in their signature.

It's truly nice to see other people being actually happen.

Congratulations.

I may actually leave my camera behind, Maybe not but I want to use the 8 days I'm there as a meditation and don't want the distraction!
