If all fails then can you succeed?

In the forest where everything bleeds

Where the cowards are on their knees

If all fails then can you succeed?

If the sun doesn't rise, is it day?

Another enters as another fades away

Where the bodies lie in decay

If the sun doesn't rise, is it day?

If you are broken, can you ever be fixed?

They tell you they can with all sorts of tricks

They feed you lies until you are sick

If you are broken, can you ever be fixed?

If all fails then can you succeed?

If one dies it will sprout it's seed

And others will shun it for it's need

If all fails then can you succeed?

Yes I did write it. I used to write a lot of poetry as sort of a time killer. One of the few things I've ever been decent at.

Will be writing more :) Thanks mate.

Gayest piece of writing I've ever read in my life.

Only people who'll like this are pretentious finger-snappers.
