Why don't you use a microphone? It will boost the quality of your video by 99%.

This video reminds me of kids infecting people with a youtube video.

I second this, It's not very engaging to just watch text be typed, may as well read a text based tutorial instead at that point.

If you want honesty, it was pretty meh tier, I think the fact that you just started out programming and you're already trying to teach others is a bad practice, if you cannot know things in-depth, you might make some mistakes or bad ideas and in turn teach others those bad mistakes, fixing an existing problem is harder than not creating it in the first place.

but, thank you for trying =] keep working hard, it's a very nice field
