Thread: How many towels do you use when showering?

?????s? - March 17, 2017, 8:56 am

This might be a interesting topic.

I use exactly 3 different wash towels when washing.

A towel to wash my face.

A towel to wash my body/nuts/feet.

A towel to wash my ass crack.

I just can't fathom to use the same towel to wash my face that I use to wash my nuts/body nor can I use the same towel I wash my ass with to wash my body or face. It's just gross to me.

Squidward - March 17, 2017, 8:58 am i have the same problem as u so I use a roll of paper towels and throw them out after I wipe each limb and body part

630 - March 17, 2017, 8:59 am

1 wash cloth and I have a lufa. You gotta start with the face. Then you follow it up with lufa on the body and then you focus on the balls and butt.

Just one. Just be sure to remember what to dry first (Hair, face, arms) and last (we all know what it is).

After my weekly swimming class, I just bring a face towel to save space in my bag. It's enough to dry myself. Still wondering why my classmates won't do the same.

Are you retarded?

Who doesn't use a towel or some sort of sponge? A wash cloth? Like seriously?

This must be some sort of regional thing.

How do you guys wash your bodies, I'm very curious now
With my hands fam

DoubleClickBTC - March 20, 2017, 11:09 am unfortunately I do not use any form of self-cleansing so I cannot take part in this discussion

That's so awkward to me.

Where are you from and is this normal there?

I've used a wash cloth or floofa/sponge (Whatever the fuck is called) to wash since I was old enough to remember and so does everyone else around me.

- 1) Go to the shower and wash your hands if possible if needed.
- 2) Just use your hands to wash your hair and your body, or use a sponge.
- 3) When you're done, use a 1 towel and work your way down.

I'm from Sweden and I've never heard of anyone ever using a wash cloth or sponge or something like that to wash themselves, so you must be right about it being a regional thing.

Very interesting and strange indeed.

I get that.

But washing your body with your hands only instead of a wash cloth or sponge is weird.

I only wash my body with a sponge like 2-3 times a week, I just normally use hands.

Quite interesting.

Never known anyone to just wash with their hands.

Throughout the day you have dirt, dead skin cells, and other germs that get on your body.

You can really scrub that off with your hands, regardless of the amount.

In my opinion.

I'm too poor to afford washing towels so i use my shirt i just worn and dry using that.

Byakuya Kuchiki - March 20, 2017, 6:50 pm

1 cause I start of with my head then my body and then my balls and ass last. After that the towel goes straight in the wash for the next time I shower.

2. 1 for face and 1 for body :)

jesuscristocollege - March 20, 2017, 10:16 pm

Ummm, 1 towel for whole body, and 1 face cloth. I don't see the problem of wiping your ass when you cleaned it in the shower .

ASMR - March 21, 2017, 3:52 pm

wait, you people use multiple towels? ?

I have always used just one as long as I can remember...

scary hacker - March 21, 2017, 4:18 pm

1 towel? What kind of question is this?

Yakz - March 21, 2017, 4:20 pm

9 - 10 a week. 1 big one a day for showering, and a small one every 2 days for shaving and brushing teeth, etc.. I hate reusing towels.

Most loofas are too soft to scrub dirt off you.

I have a loofa with one side is soft to lather then other side is tough to clean
