

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: the most painless way to eliminate urself?

druce - March 21, 2017, 4:49 pm

im curious about this actually lmk guys

rsx - March 21, 2017, 4:50 pm

Try calling this number: 1-800-273-8255

Wompus - March 21, 2017, 4:51 pm

Apparently drowning is the way to go because your body runs out of oxygen so you don't even feel any pain etc.

However I do not endorse suicide in any way, if you are considering it call a helpline. There are plenty out there.

ZestyVibes - March 21, 2017, 4:52 pm

(Mar 21, 2017 04:50 PM)Phillip Ronan Gallagher Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Try calling this number: 1-800-273-8255

Right you are Phillip.

That's 116-123 in the UK btw.

Be well, it gets better.

rsx - March 21, 2017, 4:53 pm

(Mar 21, 2017 04:51 PM)MattieWasTaken Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Apparently drowning is the way to go because your body runs out of oxygen so you don't even feel any pain etc.

However I do not endorse suicide in any way, if you are considering it call a helpline. There are plenty out there.

You forgot about that insanely painful burning sensation you'll feel in your lungs when you drown, i'd imagine it would be torturous

DarkCart - March 21, 2017, 4:58 pm

(Mar 21, 2017 04:53 PM)?ndrew Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Overdose on marijuana is the best way to go lol

Getting back on topic, I hear hanging's a painless way to go. Assuming you do it right and don't break your neck, in that case it will be INCREDIBLY painful and may not actually kill you.

The most important thing about suicide is actually making sure it will kill you, because if it doesn't, your life is basically over. You'll be in a mental hospital, even more miserable than before, for the rest of your life.

NOTE: I'm not even gonna bother with the standard "I don't condone suicide" or "call this number OP" because if OP really wants to kill himself, he will do it, and nothing you or I can say will change that.

Wompus - March 21, 2017, 4:58 pm

(Mar 21, 2017 04:53 PM)Phillip Ronan Gallagher Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You forgot about that insanely painful burning sensation you'll feel in your lungs when you drown, i'd imagine it would be torturous
That actually doesn't happen for very long, one of my family friends almost drowned a few years ago and he said it was the weirdest experiences of his life. The pain is very minimal because the brain has no oxygen to comprehend what is going on you don't feel those sensations after awhile etc.

Gokus_Dog - March 21, 2017, 5:17 pm

(Mar 21, 2017 04:58 PM)MattieWasTaken Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That actually doesn't happen for very long, one of my family friends almost drowned a few years ago and he said it was the weirdest experiences of his life. The pain is very minimal because the brain has no oxygen to comprehend what is going on you don't feel those sensations after awhile etc.

Not true, respiratory distress is caused by high Co2 in the blood, not low oxygen. I drowned a few years ago and it was awful, I wanted air so bad but I couldn't get it.

minimalist - March 21, 2017, 5:17 pm

Call 1-800-273-8255 if you need somebody to talk to. Judging from the responses to this thread, HF is not a suitable place for sensitive discussions like suicide.

Again,
Code 1-800-273-8255
Best of luck.