Thread: Searching users rep on Hackforums feature

Mr. Robot - March 24, 2017, 7:17 am

So I didn't know this existed, was this always the way it is or does this have something to do with Omniscients twitter post

Bottom right hand corner you can organize someones rep by username...
(for a second there I thought "last updated" would organize by who edited their old rep)

For example, here is Jesse Pinkmans profile sorted by username

Never scrolled down enough to see that before. I think it's new but I don't know, I naturally ignore cancerous looking stuff like those.

I've never seen it before but when talking to someone on HF and wanting to know if they have repped you before, this certainly helps seeing it organized by username.

Well you posted on my other thread so I went looking for your rep through 59 pages and didn't find yours then saw that feature.

I am wondering if anyone has screenshots of someones rep that might have that box at the bottom from a couple months back - then we can confirm if it was there all along scary hacker - March 24, 2017, 7:26 am

Did you not know this? It's clearly visible at the bottom.

<3 Steve, are you sure? I really want to see a screenshot of this being there from a few months back.

I believe you but just for 100% proofs

I've used it here and there over my time on HF, but have no proof :(

It's been there for a while. At least since I've signed up. I've been using that feature for a while.
