Mr. Robot - March 26, 2017, 4:22 am

UPDATE: 10/06/17

I feel like this thread got a lot of people into crypto currency and I feel really grateful for all the PMs you guys have given me with your profits all because of this thread.

It really means a lot to me that you took the time to read and question everything and since this thread was made, I have seen this section boom for the first time since I have been on HF.

Cheers guys.

PLEASE GUYS! Do this. Don't take this advice lightly. I only wish to see you all become successful - isn't that what we all want?

(my hopes for this thread is in a years time have a user come back and have made something, could be a 15 year old school kid who has just jump started his future, or Black Shadow who has the money now to gamble bustabit)

So someone somewhere has a job for you, no matter who you are. It might only be a couple of dollars but that couple of dollars could be your future.

I'm going to give you an example and you can make up your minds if it's worth it.

<https://coinmarketcap.com/currencies/vault-coin/>

Vault-Coin(VLTC)

$0.005 per coin.

$5 will buy you 555 coins. In 1 years time from now, that could be $1 per coin. That's $555 from your $5.

It might not sound like much but what if it reaches $10, that's $5,555.

Instead of gambling those few dollars you have away, go and buy a few thousand of the cheaper coins - don't worry about the big coins if you are dealing with small amounts of USD. Focus on the coins you can buy lots of.

Example.

<https://coinmarketcap.com/currencies/safe-trade-coin/>

Safe Trade Coin

$0.000009

$5 will buy you 500,000 of the coin. If that reaches even 0.001 USD each that's $500, if it reaches 0.01 each that's $5,000. If that reaches 10 cents each - you will be at $50,000 from a $5 investment.

You can do this on hundreds of coins, put a few dollars in - in total say $100.

20 coins at $5 each - maybe more.

What have you got to lose? You would have been scammed trying to exchange it or lose it gambling anyway.

676 Currencies on <https://coinmarketcap.com/currencies/views/all/>

One of them right now guaranteed is sitting at $0.001 or less and will reach $10 by the end of this year. I'm going to leave a screenshot of some of them and in a years time we can check it.

Sounds good mate, don't pussy out and cash out. Back all your wallets up and keep them offline - take it to a bank if you have to and get a storage vault.

L A S S 3 - March 26, 2017, 4:40 am

Its not even a lie, why gamble and lose it, when you can invest it, and potentially earn 10X from those 2-5USD people gamble away here and there.

Cryptic™ - March 26, 2017, 4:40 am

This is good advice. I've been dropping $50-$100 on many of those cheap coins

Even if one becomes successful it'll make back everything I spent on the coins that failed plus more.

2017 - March 26, 2017, 4:45 am

Good idea, I will be putting a few $'s in each, but I really don't know much about cryptocurrency.

I have used BTC before and had a Coinbase wallet, but I remember some wallets got hacked.

I saw your post saying keep them offline, I will research into that, can you store all different cryptos into one wallet offline? Sorry am a noob to this.

I'm doing this with 7 coins currently.

Use Jaxx for an offline wallet, it works great. Been using since i invested into ETH

Putting some investments into Vault-Coin(VLTC), STRAT. Hope they will go far. :D

2073436 - March 26, 2017, 4:56 am

Even putting in $1 per coin in a time period of 12 months of $50/month would give you a high change of making many thousands.

Buying 1000 coins at $0,001 is like $1

If that coin gets to $10, you make $10,000 - might not sound a lot but you are making an incredible ROI.

I would have done this if I was the type of guy who invests in these things, but I like to make money differently.

That doesn't mean I disagree, I definitely agree with all the points in this thread. If you're 15 or younger and do not know how to make money, think about your future and save $50 per month and you will make thousands for sure if you keep waiting.

More or less but the values of all the coins - even if you invest in 500 of the top 600 coins with $2 per coin, (depending on how many of that coin it gets you) it only takes 1 coin to make more than the initial investment.

Steve - March 26, 2017, 5:58 am

Seems like something similar to investing in penny stocks, but you can buy much more since these cost a fraction of a penny. I guess you don't have much to lose.

You really don't and it's almost exactly like penny stocks. They cost so little and for $1 you can receive 100k+ of some coins? Those reach 1c per coin some how that's $1,000

If I were you I would rather look at percentages and at least do some coin background check to see if it's just these shitty coins or actual coins which involve a lot of technology and have reasons/advantages above other currencies which gives people a reason to go with these coins.

This way you can scrap like 1/3 of all available coins and put more money into the 2/3, with more research though.

We are in a time where cryptocurrency will be used more frequently when time passes along.

That's why I think it's easier if you have the money to invest in as many as you can even those without a backing or direct purpose. Sure it might flunk that's $2. Sure you can get rid of some like the hillary clinton coin - nobody wants that shit, but some of them are long term projects that get revived after 5 months and if you aren't already in, every portion of a cent is profit.

The idea is to invest in new and upcoming coins

When coins launch their dirt cheap, cost merely fractions of a cent.

Monitor the coins on coinmarketcap, when you see a new coin get added, go and invest whatever amount your comfortable with. $1 or $2 or $5 or $10 or more

Then just hold onto it for months or even years

There's a good chance the coin may fail and never be worth anything, but if you do this for multiple coins there's a good chance you will have invested in at least one winner

In which case you will make back all the money you invested in the losers and much much more.

Exchanges obviously. If a coin is going up, more ppl r gonna notice and buy hoping they'll gain even more profit

Why do you think pump and dumps are so profitable for the people behind it?

People with a ton of money artificially drive the price up, then dump all their coins...A lot of people see the coin is steeply rising and buy those coins hoping it'll rise even more.

And then a few hours later they realize what a bad investment they made as the price starts crashing due to it being a pump and dump.

By then the people behind the pump and dump have 100% of their sell orders filled.

And considering the majority of the people here aren't gonna invest thousands of dollars into a brand new coin, you should have no problems selling your coins. Since your just investing some pocket change ($100 or less).

I really want to do this. But whats a fast and safe method on how you can exchange BTC to one of those currencies?

Jack1277 - March 26, 2017, 10:19 am

That's not how economics works. Value does not come from a low price, it comes from usefulness or expected usefulness. I could make a million PizzaCoins tomorrow and sell them at $.01 each.

They "could" go to $10. Would you buy them?

Buying diverse altcoins with unique features (like Dash or Monero) could be a good investment. But "Get off your ass and waste money on scamcoins with no inherent use case because you might become rich" is not even advice, it's just a get rich quick scheme pumping some coins that OP likely owns.

Well of course. But is there also a way to read into crypto currency enough to know what makes one successful? Just for the people who'd want to be a bit more accurate and read into this more of an interest rather than just investing by itself.

As nice as that would be, Mr Robot is right - store them offline in wallets. What happens if that site goes down? Or if you lose access to the account? All of the effort and investments you made would be for nothing.

The benefits out weigh the cost.

Your investing a small amount in each coin, like < $50.

Even if one coin becomes successful you make back everything u spent by many folds.

Give that one a shot. As OP said, just invest a little into it to get a decent amount of coins. If the market for that coin keeps rising, then you'll surely profit. You can get a good amount of coins for that. If it goes no where, then you know you didn't lose too much. You can do more research on it if you want to see if there is much buzz about it, otherwise, I'd say try it.

Do the math. $1,000 at $15 per coin is 66 coins. Every dollar the coin rises is $66 profit. If it raises $50 that's $50 \times 66 = $3300$.

$1,000 @ $0.10 per coin = 10,000 coins. If that goes up 1 cent, to 11 cents, that's $100 profit If it goes from 10cents to $1.10 that's $1 per coin profit. = $10,000 profit from a rise of $1.

Some coins cost $0.01 so $1000 would buy you 100,000 coins. If that goes to 11 cents, that's 10c per coin profit and that's 10k profit. If it reaches $1 that's 100k profit.

Smart point tbh, I think the current value of a coin is really based on it's volume traded, anything with decent volume traded should be pretty well-known (for cryptos) and definitely has the potential to explode if it gets some news coverage or investors or something. I doubt we will see some low-tier shitcoin go from zero to hero overnight, so until I see decent volume traded between coins I'd stay away from it.

Money is still money. If someone tell you that isn't a lot; tell him to go away. If you do the math; that is quite a percentage growth right there.

People don't seem to understand that anyone can really make a large profit from the cryptocurrencies market at the moment. It's not too late; that's for sure! It's only the beginning!

I want to do this, but doesn't this mean you'd either need to store it in the exchange or get a wallet for each and every single coin? So far I've invested in STRAT and ETH and stored them in the strat official wallet and in jaxx. Please let me know how you store all the little coins :)

That all depends - long term/short term. Are you wanting to day trade or invest, logout and come back in 6 months? Or mid term.

That'll buy you for example 10 stratis for example which I believe will go up to say a minimum of $3, that would be $20 profit.

Now you could also put that on say Digibyte which for an example could buy you 5509 of the coin and that could reach say 1 cent per coin which is $55 or it could get 10 cents per coin which is $500 profit.

Completely agree but

1. It beats gambling.
2. The interest in coins has gone through the roof making almost any of the penny stocks valuable (for now)

Before putting more than $20 on a coin, you should definitely check out what it has going for it - Otherwise go grab yourself 100k of a coin for $5 and see what happens.

$300 ETH
$300 XRP
$800 LTC

I'm planning on shorting XRP very soon because I see a dump coming. Once it starts to dip I plan on selling, up almost 150% on it in the past week.

LTC I also plan on shorting when I see a dip, its been going up a good amount in the past couple of days and I made around 75% on it. I want to buy back in once the price goes down a bit more, being implemented into coinbase will 100% make the coin surpass a 500% gain in the next 6 months.

ETH im gonna hold to the moon. Don't plan on selling for a year or two.

Click bait over exaggerated title but good advice. The chump change you have laying around that you would buy a couple mill on Runescape or a few CSGO keys, fuck even skipping a morning coffee invested into a bunch of random ass coins which have potential one day could be pumped and earn you a somewhat decent amount. I myself have spread $100 across a bunch of coins just because one day it will pay itself off.

Just watched the video and its a goods watch.

Owning that dash master node must be cool however I do disagree with 1 thing he said. He pulled his retirement fund for it. I always abide by never put in what you can't afford to lose. If crypto currencys die tomorrow so does his elder life.

Anyway, Im still investing £5 a week into coins.

Where can these smaller coins be bought? As the smallest on poloniex is siacoin I believe and that's already 1 cent.

There are coins of only a quarter of the price of SC on Poloniex. Do your research before posting something like that.

You can sort the list of coins by clicking on what you want to sort it by on Poloniex.

I did this with ripple when it was $0.008 each, good proffit just wish I bought more. Good luck to everyone!

getoutnow - May 31, 2017, 12:58 pm

jesus christ

don't buy coins because they are cheap, buy them if they have good tech currently:

Rads, LBRY, NAV are good choices.

L33TZ - May 31, 2017, 2:54 pm

Currently holding: SC, STRAT, LBRY, RADS, NAV, STORJ, ETH

Any other good coins to buy now? (longterm)

I buy around 5$ of coins in the top 100, it might pay off if I hold them for a few months.

MasterInHax - June 10, 2017, 9:16 am

Bought 500k ESP at 0.0000005 and after 3 days price goes to 0.00000018

Pretty good profit in short term
