Anyone else remember AQWorlds and Neopets?

Shit, I remember AQ like it's yesterday. I'd hop on with friends and just grind to bosses. My character was a healer so I'd just stand back, heal, collect XP, and move on. It was great.

The game got fucking huge. They had thousands upon thousands on at a time, they released action figures and cards to Toys R US...then shortly after they fell apart.

Meaning, the game virtually died. Everyone hopped off. Funny though, the game is still going with regular updates. But it's sad because I was around when it was huge and had active guest actors, musicians, etc. It was pretty fucking bad ass back in the day.

I also remember Gaia online, got bored of it quick.

Neopets was the shit. Soup kitchen saved lives. Now my childhood pets are dying.

There was this card game called Chaotic that had codes that you could enter online and play there. The game died because the game itself was confusing and could never compete with games like Magic. Sad too, the idea of having a code on the bottom that would let you use your irl cards online was a great idea.

5chn4pp - March 29, 2017, 2:34 am

I remember playing need for speed underground 2 lol.

Marxist - March 29, 2017, 2:35 am

In order:

Neopets, short lived

GaiaOnline, quit around 16 years old

Runescape (for years), quit around 19

Maplestory (also years), quit around 19

Quit everything for a couple of years

Recently:

TeraOnline (stopped playing)

Runescape (active)

League (inactive)

Uhhh I think that's it. PC MMO games, that is.

test - March 29, 2017, 2:37 am

I never played Neopets or Gaia but Adventure Quest was my shit. I remember begging my Mum to buy me X-Guardian or whatever it was called for so long. I dabbled in a bit of Dragon Fable too but wasn't a huge fan.

Stoke - March 29, 2017, 2:39 am

Mainly played Halo/CoD on the Xbox.

Micheal2 - March 29, 2017, 2:41 am

MrJamieMcC - March 29, 2017, 2:48 am

Smexy - March 29, 2017, 2:48 am

Used to play LOTRO when I was a teen.

When I was a kid I grew up playing Counter-strike 1.6 killing teammates because I was stupid. c:

?Creation - March 29, 2017, 2:50 am

I used to play Neopets a little bit with my sister, damn childhood memories.
Also Plants vs Zombies on beta version but that was only 8 years ago.

But I used to play a lot of Mario Kart Double Dash when I was a kid. When I wasn't playing outside...

After when I played a lot of Dofus. Just started it yesterday again because I saw you could play the old version just like with RS.

Stonelsland - March 29, 2017, 2:50 am

Habbo, and I made a lot of money from it for a kid.

Kaleb - March 29, 2017, 3:15 am

I played ClubPenguin from like 2006-2008.
Dragonfable from like 2007-2009.
Gaia from like 2007-2010.
Had a runescape in like 2007 but never really got into it.

I remember "hacking" some of these games using WPE Pro and CheatEngine feeling like some pro hacker.

Lots of Xbox live too. From Halo 2 all the way until like 2014 when I stopped enjoying newer console games as much (RIP Halo and COD franchises). I have lots of great memories of halo 2. I frequented this one site with lots of glitches. I knew all the button combos and all the super jumps. Lotta out of maps too.

DunderFilm - March 29, 2017, 6:04 am

I remember playing GTA san andreas alot ;)

Deko - March 29, 2017, 6:09 am

Most notably played PC Games would be all of the Artix Entertainment games. Puzzle Pirates was a huge game when I was playing it, now it only gets a couple of hundred of people playing it at peak times which makes me sad. Of course there's RuneScape which I started out in 2005. From this point I would play WoW on my friend's account because I was a poor child and couldn't afford my own copy+subscription. I also used to play CS 1.6 on his brother's account with him which was great. I shortly got an account on Steam a couple of years later after begging for it to be a Christmas gift and evolved from there really.

Perandor - March 29, 2017, 6:39 am

I mostly played games on my SNES, and then when I first got my PC games like Age of Empires, pretty comfy tbh, also shit like PES series on PS2, Mortal Kombat and Street Fighter

Cr1p - March 29, 2017, 6:42 am

I played Battlefield 1942 a lot. I was so trash at it but I had fun running around on the islands shooting stuff when i was a kid.

I played gamecube, games I played the most/favourites were: Mario Kart Double Dash, Star Fox Assault, Need for Speed Underground 2, Need for Speed Most Wanted, NFL Street, NBA 2k series and the street series (way back in 06).

Xbox 360 now: Assassin's creed series, Fallout 3, Fight Night Round 3, and Gears of War 3

PC: Runescape, Cabal, Combat Arms, Wolfteam, Rockfree, Maplestory, GTA, Roblox, MW3, AQworlds, and Club Pengiun.
