

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Aeonhack - .NET coder - HF member - Dev of NanoCore arrested by the FBI

Codefuser - March 31, 2017, 2:27 am

<http://www.thedailybeast.com/articles/2017/03/31/fbi-arrests-hacker-who-hacked-no-one.html>

Read up. What do you think about this turn of event?

Quote:Taylor Huddleston woke early on December 6th, hours before the Arkansas winter morning would stir to life with the sound of roosters and dogs. Since selling off the last piece of his software business two months earlier, Huddleston had nothing in particular to do, and he'd been keeping odd hours. While his girlfriend slept in the next room, he browsed Reddit and YouTube, then sat down with a microwaved Jimmy Dean Breakfast Bowl to start the day right.

Something crunched in his mouth, and he spat out a wad of breakfast bowl into a napkin, just as the pounding started at his front door.

Huddleston's first thought was that somebody had crashed their car and needed to use his phone. But when he opened the door, he was met by about two dozen serious-looking men and women, some in bulletproof vests, holding handguns at the ready, one shouldering an assault rifle, another carrying a battering ram. He was accustomed to seeing uniformed sheriff's deputies in his neighborhood—drugs, he assumed—but most of these cops wore suits. More suits than he'd ever seen in one place.

The visitors were from the FBI, and after a 90-minute search of his house, they left with his computers, only to return two months later with handcuffs. Now free on bond, Huddleston, 26, is scheduled to appear in a federal courtroom in Alexandria, Virginia on Friday for arraignment on federal charges of conspiracy and aiding and abetting computer intrusions.

Huddleston, though, isn't a hacker. He's the author of a remote administration tool, or RAT, called NanoCore that happens to be popular with hackers. NanoCore has been linked to intrusions in at least 10 countries, including an attack on Middle Eastern energy firms in 2015, and a massive phishing campaign last August in which the perpetrators posed as major oil and gas company. As Huddleston sees it, he's a victim himself—hackers have been pirating his program for years and using it to commit crimes. But to the Justice Department, Huddleston is an accomplice to a spree of felonies.

WHERE THIS SIGNATURE TO SUPPORT US:

Code [url=https://virustotal.com][align=center][img]https://i.imgur.com/AX4015j.png[/img]][/align][url]

White Fox - March 31, 2017, 2:31 am

LOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOL

God , care with LL and IM

M?xim - March 31, 2017, 2:35 am

User(s) browsing this thread: $lick*

Codefuser - March 31, 2017, 2:36 am

(Mar 31, 2017 02:35 AM)M?xim Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) User(s) browsing this thread: $lick*

Yes I sent him this on discord. Trying to find a way to contact aeonhack. Planning to set up a legal defense gofundme for him.

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - March 31, 2017, 3:06 am

I'd donate to that gofundme. Honestly, if this shit hits the fan, that would literally mean anyone developing any remote access software could be targeted simply because they created a software for a good purposes but need to pay for what their customers have done.

Pasco - March 31, 2017, 3:14 am

Is he all good now sounds like he got fucked.

Forc?d - March 31, 2017, 3:14 am

Wow, i mean what the fuck?`

Why target NanoCore first?

it's the RAT software with the absolute least advertisement towards illegal use what so ever.

Sounds like if you live in the US the government can take a dump in your mouth for what ever reason they want.

Codefuser - March 31, 2017, 3:15 am

If anyone has his contact, whether it be phone, skype or email, hmu with it. Thanks.

$lick - March 31, 2017, 3:27 am

(Mar 31, 2017 02:35 AM)M?xim Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) User(s) browsing this thread: $lick*

Yeah seems like NanoCore is gone for now, not sure what to do with it really.

Anybody want to purchase it from me? ?

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - March 31, 2017, 3:28 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:27 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah seems like NanoCore is gone for now, not sure what to do with it really.

Anybody want to purchase it from me? ?

Your signature goes to a no permissions page.....

Zach_Farlow - March 31, 2017, 3:28 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:27 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah seems like NanoCore is gone for now, not sure what to do with it really.

Anybody want to purchase it from me? ?

How Much?

$lick - March 31, 2017, 3:29 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:28 AM)Zach_Farlow Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How Much?

Not exactly sure.

Zach_Farlow - March 31, 2017, 3:32 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:29 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not exactly sure.

i got 2k in bonds b i can cash for it

Peter - March 31, 2017, 3:43 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:29 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not exactly sure.

I'll throw you 2.5k for it.

OT: this is crazy. I guess any programmer, even a programmer for hire must be careful.

Codefuser - March 31, 2017, 3:44 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:43 AM)P?ter Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'll throw you 2.5k for it.

OT: this is crazy. I guess any programmer, even a programmer for hire must be careful.
This is not a sales thread for NanoCore lol

$lick - March 31, 2017, 3:45 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:44 AM)Codefuser Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is not a sales thread for NanoCore lol
That's where you're wrong buddy.

M?xim - March 31, 2017, 3:45 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:27 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah seems like NanoCore is gone for now, not sure what to do with it really.

Anybody want to purchase it from me? ?
Sorry for your loss. You must have made a bit on NanoCore.

$lick - March 31, 2017, 3:47 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:45 AM)M?xim Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Sorry for your loss. You must have made a bit on NanoCore.
10,550 users at $25/sale, not bad at all.

Vitani - March 31, 2017, 3:49 am

It's shit like this that irritates me the most about the government. They go after the little guys who don't have the money or the resources to properly defend themselves.
Middle eastern scammers massively use Teamviewer to get access to unknowing victims and steal their credit card information every day, but because the company behind teamviewer is big so the feds don't dare to do anything.

M?xim - March 31, 2017, 3:52 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:47 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 10,550 users at $25/sale, not bad at all.
$25 for lifetime? That's pretty smart. Might do that myself.

And yeah, fuck that is good. If I were you, hold the project for a month, Pay someone $1k to edit every bit of it, resell under a new name.

Keep making money.

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - March 31, 2017, 3:57 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:45 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's where you're wrong buddy.
Lmfao. Its more like an auction thread from what it seems.

$lick - March 31, 2017, 3:58 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:52 AM)M?xim Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) $25 for lifetime? That's pretty smart. Might do that myself.

And yeah, fuck that is good. If I were you, hold the project for a month, Pay someone $1k to edit every bit of it, resell under a new name.

Keep making money.
I think my days of selling software are over, on HF or otherwise.

I've been doing a lot more open source stuff recently.

Codefuser - March 31, 2017, 3:58 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:58 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think my days of selling software are over, on HF or otherwise.

I've been doing a lot more open source stuff recently.
How about making NanoCore Open Source?

$lick - March 31, 2017, 3:59 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:58 AM)Codefuser Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How about making NanoCore Open Source?
I was thinking of doing that but they only real way to break my link from the project is to hand it over to somebody else.

Codefuser - March 31, 2017, 4:00 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:59 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I was thinking of doing that but they only real way to break my link from the project is to hand it over to somebody else.
Hand it over to me and I will open source it ?

Weco - March 31, 2017, 4:01 am

Oh shit. I am pretty happy I never developed malware

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - March 31, 2017, 4:02 am

(Mar 31, 2017 04:00 AM)Codefuser Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hand it over to me and I will open source it ?
I feel like that would be the only way to do it without having shit falling on you instead when shit hits the fan.

Imfao. I literally just googled aeonhack arrested

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

s?hane - March 31, 2017, 5:37 am

This is so sad :(, r i p.

me.cfg - March 31, 2017, 5:55 am

That sucks specially since he added all those features to prevent others from infecting victims.

Armada - March 31, 2017, 6:04 am

This is the most ass backwards BS I have read in quite sometime.

Aeon was likely one of the MOST active to remove malicious users and content.

They have charged him because some fucking dick weeds cracked his software and used it maliciously.

Once the software is cracked the developers and administrators loose CONTROL of the ability to control said clients uses. IE - Banning or restricting.

How in the fuck is it Aeons fault someone other than him managed to crack through his software protection?

I KNOW the legal argument will be "Well more counter measures should have been implemented"
But lets be real, where is the line drawn?

You either put in so much protection that it eventually cripples the intended actual use of the software and design, or you focus on the functionality and perhaps, at times sacrifice a little bit of protection.

We want Working software, without bugs, so that will always be the key focus to any good piece of software, Functionality. Plain and simple, once we got that working, THEN we obfuscate or protect the work.

The fact someone else managed to break through .NET protection (Whatever there was implemented on nano). Does not make the developer legally liable for the end users pirate, illegal use of the software.

The actual Criminal here who used a Pirated, cracked copy of the software, say stole banking details and thousands of dollars from some poor fools bank account.

How exactly is Aeon responsible for this?

He neither saw a profit for the copy of nanocore that was used, because it was pirated. But I am sure as holy hell, the criminal and thief did not share his profits with Aeon either.

So end of the day, Aeon likely would have had ZERO CLUE any of this was happening with the software and tool he developed, so how is he liable for another's actions?

Because they were able to trace him and not the actual criminal?

Bull shit.

me.cfg - March 31, 2017, 6:04 am

Btw what happened to NetSeal?

Klokan - March 31, 2017, 6:26 am

People selling malware for paypal then wondering why things like this happen still baffles me.

It should be a common sense that if you are already selling something that you know/dont know will be used maliciously then you would want your identity to be hidden and be carefull about not leaving a money trail that leads to you.

Armada - March 31, 2017, 7:05 am

(Mar 31, 2017 06:26 AM)Klokan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) People selling malware for paypal then wondering why things like this happen still baffles me.

It should be a common sense that if you are already selling something that you know/dont know will be used maliciously then you would want your identity to be hidden and be carefull about not leaving a money trail that leads to you.

Your opinion is cute, but rather invalid.

I accept Paypal for Orcus Remote, and my paypal is legally registered as a business account, just as the software.

It is legal software, by ALL definition. So why would we not accept Paypal as a payment processor? It is one of the most highly used, and trusted online.

Funny shit about all of that argument, I have had more problems with my BTC processors than anything, Paypal has never given me an issue and in fact usually sides with me in disputes. Only exception is fraudulent purchases, which get flagged usually quicker than I even get an opportunity to issue the license to the purchaser. So no harm is done, the invalid transaction is refunded and all is well.

New kids talk about "Bad OpSec" when administrating such types of software.

Why in the hell would we?

No I never made a POINT to advertise my true name online, for privacy reasons primarily. I am rather anti social at times and dislike being bothered by people I have no idea who they are. Otherwise I really never once made a point to hide my identity.

I used my personal email to register on the site, and even knowing the DB got compromised a couple years back, made no point to modify shit.

Im not hiding, and never was. Krebs thought he was soooo investigative by fucking doing google searches and shit on me.

It was public information, and honestly, I never once cared if it was online or not. If I wanted to hide Id drop the alias Armada and make a new rogue alias.

I will just say I am fucking glad I live in Canada, where MY authorities do not justify such fucking stupidity as this.

And if the FBI thinks they can come knocking on my door with Black rifles and battering rams, they got another thing coming.

We do not operate that way in this country, not unless they suspect I am actually hostile and violent.

Words are weapons, many times, but mine are not lethal enough to justify such actions.

Rhez - March 31, 2017, 7:08 am

I'm putting all mah money on that gofundme. Damn it.

(Mar 31, 2017 07:05 AM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You're opinion is cute, but rather invalid.

I accept Paypal for Orcus Remote, and my paypal is legally registered as a business account, just as the software.

It is legal software, by ALL definition. So why would we not accept Paypal as a payment processor? It is one of the most highly used, and trusted online.

Funny shit about all of that argument, I have had more problems with my BTC processors than anything, Paypal has never given me an issue and in fact usually sides with me in disputes. Only exception is fraudulent purchases, which get flagged usually quicker than I even get an opportunity to issue the license to the purchaser. So no harm is done, the invalid transaction is refunded and all is well.

New kids talk about "Bad OpSec" when administrating such types of software.

Why in the hell would we?

No I never made a POINT to advertise my true name online, for privacy reasons primarily. I am rather anti social at times and dislike being bothered by people I have no idea who they are. Otherwise I really never once made a point to hide my identity.

I used my personal email to register on the site, and even knowing the DB got compromised a couple years back, made no point to modify shit.

Im not hiding, and never was. Krebs thought he was soooo investigative by fucking doing google searches and shit on me.

It was public information, and honestly, I never once cared if it was online or not. If I wanted to hide Id drop the alias Armada and make a new rogue alias.

I will just say I am fucking glad I live in Canada, where MY authorities do not justify such fucking stupidity as this.

And if the FBI thinks they can come knocking on my door with Black rifles and battering rams, they got another thing coming.

We do not operate that way in this country, not unless they suspect I am actually hostile and violent.

Words are weapons, many times, but mine are not lethal enough to justify such actions. Let's hope it won't happens to other dev. But IM is much more older than NC, right?

DevilHunterX - March 31, 2017, 7:10 am

(Mar 31, 2017 06:26 AM)Klokan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) People selling malware for paypal then wondering why things like this happen still baffles me.

It should be a common sense that if you are already selling something that you know/dont know will be used maliciously then you would want your identity to be hidden and be carefull about not leaving a money trail that leads to you.

Please, sh*t up when you don't have anything meaningful to say...

Armada - March 31, 2017, 7:11 am

(Mar 31, 2017 07:08 AM)Rhez Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm putting all mah money on that gofundme. Damn it.

Let's hope it won't happens to other dev. But IM is much more older than NC, right?

Truth be told, I was on Ciesta when both of them came out, last RAT I used before I returned was Black Shades ?

Armada - March 31, 2017, 7:21 am

(Mar 31, 2017 07:11 AM)Friedrich Nietzsche Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Klokan is right about how selling on HackForums doesn't really boost the legality of a product that much. And even with the legality problem put away, PayPal is extremely problematic with their limitations, chargebacks, and more. Then you are both retards.

Hack Forums is nothing more than a Computer Technical Discussion board.

Omni allows no illegal activity, so how is advertising products on a site that simply has the word "Hack" in it make it inherently illegal.

Your dumb ass backwards thinking is what fucks us computer techs up.

Stop listening the the fucking media when it comes to "Hackers"

Hackers are your friends, they are your tech experts, the mother fuckers who can fix the stupid problems you regular users hit every freaking day.

Your enigma is simply just an annoyance to most of us. But we are all Spooky hackers out there to steal your megahertz and banking info.

Get your heads out of your ass.

Just like ANY industry, there are bad apples in the bunch. Who use their knowledge and skills for malicious purposes. This does not make up the MAJORITY of us however, and it is that fucking simple.

Klokan - March 31, 2017, 7:26 am

(Mar 31, 2017 07:21 AM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Then you are both retards.

Hack Forums is nothing more than a Computer Technical Discussion board.

Omni allows no illegal activity, so how is advertising products on a site that simply has the word "Hack" in it make it inherently illegal.

Your dumb ass backwards thinking is what fucks us computer techs up.

Stop listening the the fucking media when it comes to "Hackers"

Hackers are your friends, they are your tech experts, the mother fuckers who can fix the stupid problems you regular users hit every freaking day.

Your enigma is simply just an annoyance to most of us. But we are all Spooky hackers out there to steal your megahertz and banking info.

Get your heads out of your ass.

Just like ANY industry, there are bad apples in the bunch. Who use their knowledge and skills for malicious purposes. This does not make up the MAJORITY of us however, and it is that fucking simple.

Why so hostile?

You have a valid point, its not the software but rather the user that commits crime and I agree with that.

What I am trying to say, it takes only one guy from LE to pick on you and make your life miserable.

If you are prepared for all that shit to deal with then good for you.

It may happen to you or it may not but the facts are the facts and you can say whatever you want but nanocore and other rats are being used as malware. There is no point in denying it, if they want to nail you they will do that and by accepting paypal or whatever you are just making it easier.

pauleta - March 31, 2017, 7:27 am this is starting to get real :/

Rhez - March 31, 2017, 7:29 am

Fucking shit.

PicoLico - March 31, 2017, 7:55 am

Here is his account

<https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=101640>

He hasnt been on site night before/same day he was raided

Armada - March 31, 2017, 8:02 am

(Mar 31, 2017 07:23 AM)Friedrich Nietzsche Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Did you not read the article? It doesn't matter what HackForums is, in the eye of the judge, even NetSeal, a licensing system, became designated for criminals.

No I read the headline only and made my judgement from there.

Albeit true, its left to the eye of the legal law and the presiding Judge. True. This is a ridiculously stupid argument.

Why are we not charging Beretta, Colt and other firearm manufacturers for Murder because homicides were commit using THEIR BRAND?

I mean LEGALLY speaking it can be argued THEY MADE AVAILABLE the weapon to commit the crime.

This is essentially exactly what in the hell is happening here.

Dude wrote code, which allowed one computer to access another.
There is nothing fucking illegal about that whatsoever.

His code got manipulated, just like I could file the serial # off of a pistol, the fact I filed the serial off of the pistol, it is now the manufacturers fault because I was able to do so?

Get real.

(Mar 31, 2017 07:26 AM)Klokan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why so hostile?

You have a valid point, its not the software but rather the user that commits crime and I agree with that.

What I am trying to say, it takes only one guy from LE to pick on you and make your life miserable.

If you are prepared for all that shit to deal with then good for you.

It may happen to you or it may not but the facts are the facts and you can say whatever you want but nanocore and other rats are being used as malware. There is no point in denying it, if they want to nail you they will do that and by accepting paypal or whatever you are just making it easier.
Hostile?

I am sick of this misconecption that us proprietors of such software actually endorse illicit use.

If ANY ONE of the HF RAT developers were part of an established well known company, it would be deemed as Corporate commercial software, but the fact we are starting out new and trying to be entrepreneurs. we are criminals?

Get out of here.

Truth is, the rest of them are pissed they cant do shit properly the way we do.

We code functions they can only dream of implementing.

PicoLico - March 31, 2017, 8:04 am

(Mar 31, 2017 08:02 AM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No I read the headline only and made my judgement from there.

Albeit true, its left to the eye of the legal law and the presiding Judge. True. This is a ridiculously stupid argument.

Why are we not charging Beretta, Colt and other firearm manufacturers for Murder because homicides were commit using THEIR BRAND?

I mean LEGALLY speaking it can be argued THEY MADE AVAILABLE the weapon to commit the crime.

This is essentially exactly what in the hell is happening here.

Dude wrote code, which allowed one computer to access another.

There is nothing fucking illegal about that whatsoever.

His code got manipulated, just like I could file the serial # off of a pistol, the fact I filed the serial off of the pistol, it is now the manufacturers fault because I was able to do so?

Get real.

Hostile?

I am sick of this misconecption that us proprietors of such software actually endorse illicit use.

If ANY ONE of the HF RAT developers were part of an established well known company, it would be deemed as Corporate commercial software, but the fact we are starting out new and trying to be entrepreneurs. we are criminals?

Get out of here.

Truth is, the rest of them are pissed they cant do shit properly the way we do.

We code functions they can only dream of implementing.

It is true that it is WRONG, but that doesn't mean they still cant do this to you?

The only difference, Nanocore was used in a few LARGE hacks in infrastructures which increased its HEAT

Armada - March 31, 2017, 8:07 am

(Mar 31, 2017 08:04 AM)PicoLico Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It is true that it is WRONG, but that doesn't mean they still cant do this to you?

The only difference, Nanocore was used in a few LARGE hacks in infrastructures which increased its HEAT

This is why I have lawyers involved in Orcus production.

Same with most other RAT developers. Those who know what they are doing at least.

Legalities are a bitch, and especially in this specific industry, I have to follow shit to a T without being too impacting on the client base.

To say I will never see hand cuffs for my involvement with Orcus would be naive. But I also have my legal shit lined up for when that happens.

EasyPeasy - March 31, 2017, 8:13 am

That is just blamently ridiculous... The feds are just a bunch of retard... They cant catch the big player so they go after the developpers? What the fk.

M O D E R N - March 31, 2017, 8:18 am

As someone who has been a Systems Engineer for the past 7 years I honestly have to say using the RATs I do use (yes for legitimate use) they have been great. Cheaper than paying logmein, teamviewer, etc... and more functionality.

Sueing someone who makes this type of software is kind of bullshit since their are such companies like logmein, teamviewer, etc...

I can even back up some functions in these RATs that may be "sketchy" to have such as the password recovery tools, viewing webcam, etc....

Quite often we will have users that forget their passwords to some place or maybe they get a new PC or Laptop. Having the password recovery is great so we can provide them with the document when needed.

Being able to see via the webcam is great because sometimes there may be an issues where we need to actually see something that may be plugged into the computer of the client.

I can go on and on about how a bunch of features can be used for legitimate purposes and are.

Anyways yea, this is bullshit and I would definitely support a gofundme for him if need be.

Klokan - March 31, 2017, 8:32 am

(Jun 22, 1970 06:35 AM)Armada Wrote: CITE Hostile?

I am sick of this misconecption that us proprietors of such software actually endorse illicit use.

If ANY ONE of the HF RAT developers were part of an established well known company, it would be deemed as Corporate commercial software, but the fact we are starting out new and trying to be entrepreneurs. we are criminals?

Get out of here.

Truth is, the rest of them are pissed they cant do shit properly the way we do.

We code functions they can only dream of implementing.

Who said that you endorse the ilicit use of your software?

I am only saying that your software will be used in a malicious way, and to beleive that it will be otherwise is a bit naive. You know that, I know that, LE know that and if they want you they will get you. Its simple as that.

Just because you are a company doesnt mean that you are not going to get screwed, just because you have tos doesnt mean the you will not get screwed. Ffs look at aeonhack, he is the example of that.

Tbh, there are better malware than your rats or whatever and there are certainly better legitimate tools out there.

If you want to be legal, put the installation dialog that cant be disabled so when the rat is executed it clearly says its purpose and whatnot. Otherwise you are the same as other malware sellers except you just say that you dont endorse those actions and hope for the best.

(Mar 31, 2017 08:07 AM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) To say I will never see hand cuffs for my involvement with Orcus would be naive. But I also have my legal shit lined up for when that happens.

When it comes to that point your life is already screwed. Just take a look at your previous experience. Some dickhead posted your real info and you lost your job. What will happen when they arrest you? Even if they dont charge you its still gona be a pretty big stain in your life.

Is it fair, most certainly not but thats life, you get screwed for other people actions.

When dealing with things that can bite you in the ass you should take all percussions you can. Better safe then sorry.

occupi - March 31, 2017, 11:47 am

(Mar 31, 2017 08:32 AM)Klokan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Who said that you endorse the illicit use of your software?

I am only saying that your software will be used in a malicious way, and to beleive that it will be otherwise is a bit naive. You know that, I know that, LE know that and if they want you they will get you. Its simple as that.

Just because you are a company doesnt mean that you are not going to get screwed, just because you have tos doesnt mean the you will not get screwed. Ffs look at aeonhack, he is the example of that.

Tbh, there are better malware than your rats or whatever and there are certainly better legitimate tools out there.

If you want to be legal, put the installation dialog that cant be disabled so when the rat is executed it clearly says its purpose and whatnot. Otherwise you are the same as other malware sellers except you just say that you dont endorse those actions and hope for the best.

When it comes to that point your life is already screwed. Just take a look at your previous experience. Some dickhead posted your real info and you lost your job. What will happen when they arrest you? Even if they dont charge you its still gona be a pretty big stain in your life.

Is it fair, most certainly not but thats life, you get screwed for other people actions.

When dealing with things that can bite you in the ass you should take all percussions you can. Better safe then sorry.

Thank you for saying what I've been thinking while reading this whole thread. I don't know if I've ever facepalmed so many times reading one thread before.

????Kosdff - March 31, 2017, 12:10 pm

Rip him, hope all the best for him.

Lrrr - March 31, 2017, 12:11 pm

Spoiler (Click to View)

?

Jar Jar Binks - March 31, 2017, 12:12 pm

This is tragic. They're just trying to make an example out of him IMO. Fuckers.

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 12:13 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 08:02 AM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If ANY ONE of the HF RAT developers were part of an established well known company, it would be deemed as Corporate commercial software, but the fact we are starting out new and trying to be entrepreneurs. we are criminals?When you sell it to criminals it is?

You market it on a forum known for ratting and you KNOW this was the place that BS also marketed so you're obviously trying to get this type of crowd to buy your product. Like you know what you're getting into when making that program. The gun thing is completely different thing. If they KNOW their gun is going to be used for something bad then they should be held accountable if they don't report it. HF RAT OWNERS KNOW THEIR PRODUCT IS BEING USED MALICIOUSLY AND TRY AND SUGAR COAT IT.

Malicious Intent - March 31, 2017, 12:16 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:12 PM)Jar Jar Binks Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is tragic. They're just trying to make an example out of him IMO. Fuckers.

It is really bad news.. imagine the same could happen to any of us. Yet guns are legally sold by governments around the world.. As for gofundme campaign im also willing to chip in.. gotta help the guy somehow and make sure feds know they cant just recklessly punish devs for their hard work just because someone miss use their product.

Armada - March 31, 2017, 12:29 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 08:18 AM)FLEXFORCE Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) As someone who has been a Systems Engineer for the past 7 years I honestly have to say using the RATs I do use (yes for legitimate use) they have been great. Cheaper than paying logmein, teamviewer, etc... and more functionality.

Sueing someone who makes this type of software is kind of bullshit since their are such companies like logmein, teamviewer, etc...

I can even back up some functions in these RATs that may be "sketchy" to have such as the password recovery tools, viewing webcam, etc....

Quite often we will have users that forget their passwords to some place or maybe they get a new PC or Laptop. Having the password recovery is great so we can provide them with the document when needed.

Being able to see via the webcam is great because sometimes there may be an issues where we need to actually see something that may be plugged into the computer of the client.

I can go on and on about how a bunch of features can be used for legitimate purposes and are.

Anyways yea, this is bullshit and I would definitely support a gofundme for him if need be. Thank you. I in fact am first in line to support this, I believe this to be absolute BS.

(Mar 31, 2017 08:32 AM)Klokan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Who said that you endorse the illicit use of your software?

I am only saying that your software will be used in a malicious way, and to believe that it will be otherwise is a bit naive. You know that, I know that, LE know that and if they want you they will get you. Its simple as that.

Just because you are a company doesnt mean that you are not going to get screwed, just because you have tos doesnt mean the you will not get screwed. Ffs look at aeonhack, he is the example of that.

Tbh, there are better malware than your rats or whatever and there are certainly better legitimate tools out there.

If you want to be legal, put the installation dialog that cant be disabled so when the rat is executed it clearly says its purpose and whatnot. Otherwise you are the same as other malware sellers except you just say that you dont endorse those actions and hope for the best.

When it comes to that point your life is already screwed. Just take a look at your previous experience. Some dickhead posted your real info and you lost your job. What will happen when they arrest you? Even if they dont charge you its still gona be a pretty big stain in your life.

Is it fair, most certainly not but thats life, you get screwed for other people actions.

When dealing with things that can bite you in the ass you should take all percussions you can. Better safe then sorry.

You deal with you, and I will handle myself, how about that?

I am not sitting here dictating how you run your fucking life make your money, so how about this , just FOR ONCE. Let us handle our own shit. Okay? I mean that seems fair, I am not telling you how to handle your shit, so why I daily have to listen to other idiots opinions about how I am running my LEGAL business.

No one asked for your fucking opinion, so keep it to yourself. If I get screwed, well I fucked up then, now didn't I?.

WHat is it ANY of your business what in the flying hell I am doing anyways...?

Sakamoto - March 31, 2017, 12:33 pm

Can we get a TLDR? I'm lazy and fat

Lrrr - March 31, 2017, 12:35 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:33 PM)Winter Fox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Can we get a TLDR? I'm lazy and fat
thread title is TL;DR

Juan The Young Chef Don - March 31, 2017, 12:35 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:33 PM)Winter Fox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Can we get a TLDR? I'm lazy and fat
Owner of NanoCore arrested, DA is saying he endorsed illegal use of the RAT which in that case is dumb. If you buy a Gun and rob a store should the gun manufacturer be help liable? No? I though so.

Armada - March 31, 2017, 12:36 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:33 PM)Winter Fox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Can we get a TLDR? I'm lazy and fat
Read OP article fat boy.

AeonHack got arrested for developing Nano...

SIM-3386134 - March 31, 2017, 12:42 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 08:02 AM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No I read the headline only and made my judgement from there.

Albeit true, its left to the eye of the legal law and the presiding Judge. True. This is a ridiculously stupid argument.

Why are we not charging Beretta, Colt and other firearm manufacturers for Murder because homicides were commit using THEIR BRAND?

I mean LEGALLY speaking it can be argued THEY MADE AVAILABLE the weapon to commit the crime.

This is essentially exactly what in the hell is happening here.

Dude wrote code, which allowed one computer to access another.
There is nothing fucking illegal about that whatsoever.

His code got manipulated, just like I could file the serial # off of a pistol, the fact I filed the serial off of the pistol, it is now the manufacturers fault because I was able to do so?

Get real.
Facts.

Although marketing it on this forum is not illegal.. There is a huge amount of evidence that people on this forum blatantly misuse, the argument that will decide his fate will simply be. Did he market it for illegal usage which I do not think he did (however, looking it up he did have some questionable things on launch). I still dont get how thousands if not millions of people are scammed daily online by tech support who abuse teamviewer and other applications yet they are untouched?

Its one big fucking joke to be honest, NC clearly monitored to their best ability and removed/banned users who performed illegal activities. As you said Armada with the gun, yes people can use that shit to break the law but that doesn't put the manufacturer of that gun at fault, whats the fucking difference here?

I wish him the best of luck, and I will be contributing to that gofundme if it gets launched.

Another lesson - STOP USING PERSONAL PAYPAL ACCOUNTS to buy shit like this.

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 12:47 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:42 PM)USD. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) As you said Armada with the gun, yes people can use that shit to break the law but that doesn't put the manufacturer of that gun at fault, whats the fucking difference here?Gun manufactures don't advertise on criminal forum that in the past has had it's problems (blackshades)

Gun manufactures don't have KNOW what the gun is going to be used for.

Aeon released NC with features that weren't legal at all

Aeon advertised on here which isn't a crime but will be used against him as he knew his customer base

Aeon KNEW that people were solely using his product for malicious intent and barely did anything.

Malicious Intent - March 31, 2017, 12:50 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:47 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Gun manufactures don't have KNOW what the gun is going to be used for.

Are you retarded? What can the gun be used for? Other than shotting? Possibly shotting innocent people and robbing them of their life savings...

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 12:53 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:50 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Are you retarded? What can the gun be used for? Other than shotting? Possibly shotting innocent people and robbing them of their life savings...

I was saying they don't know if they're going to be used to commit a crime or not. Aeon knew his product was.

HDinis09 - March 31, 2017, 12:53 pm

FeelsBadMan, this is bad for all of NanoCore users...

Forc?d - March 31, 2017, 12:54 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 07:05 AM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You're opinion is cute, but rather invalid.

I accept Paypal for Orcus Remote, and my paypal is legally registered as a business account, just as the software.

It is legal software, by ALL definition. So why would we not accept Paypal as a payment processor? It is one of the most highly used, and trusted online.

Funny shit about all of that argument, I have had more problems with my BTC processors than anything, Paypal has never given me an issue and in fact usually sides with me in disputes. Only exception is fraudulent purchases, which get flagged usually quicker than I even get an opportunity to issue the license to the purchaser. So no harm is done, the invalid transaction is refunded and all is well.

New kids talk about "Bad OpSec" when administrating such types of software.

Why in the hell would we?

No I never made a POINT to advertise my true name online, for privacy reasons primarily. I am rather anti social at times and dislike being bothered by people I have no idea who they are. Otherwise I really never once made a point to hide my identity.

I used my personal email to register on the site, and even knowing the DB got compromised a couple years back, made no point to modify shit.

Im not hiding, and never was. Krebs thought he was soooo investigative by fucking doing google searches and shit on me.

It was public information, and honestly, I never once cared if it was online or not. If I wanted to hide Id drop the alias Armada and make a new rogue alias.

I will just say I am fucking glad I live in Canada, where MY authorities do not justify such fucking stupidity as this.

And if the FBI thinks they can come knocking on my door with Black rifles and battering rams, they got another thing coming.

We do not operate that way in this country, not unless they suspect I am actually hostile and violent.

Words are weapons, many times, but mine are not lethal enough to justify such actions. My earlier quote shared the same view.

"Sounds like if you live in the US, the government can take a dump in your mouth for what ever reason they want."

Malicious Intent - March 31, 2017, 12:56 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:53 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I was saying they don't know if they're going to be used to commit a crime or not. Aeon knew his product was.

Yes you clearly are retarded. Did you read the Nc TOS? stfu.. guy worked his ass off to make a living and shouldnt be held responsible for how people used it. This software had legitimate use just like a guns.. people used it for shady stuff just like the guns. And manufacturers do fuking know that one day some kid will get shot on the way home from school.

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 12:59 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:56 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes you clearly are retarded. Did you read the Nc TOS? stfu.. guy worked his ass off to make a living and shouldnt be held responsible for how people used it. This software had legitimate use just like a guns.. people used it for shady stuff just like the guns. And manufacturers do fuking know that one day some kid will get shot on the way home from school.You're the retarded one if you think a TOS will hold up in court....And yea man those features that he first launched with was so legitimate. Honestly shut the fuck up. Obviously you feel some type of way because he was a HF member but he knew one day this would happen which is why he sold the projects.

SIM-3386134 - March 31, 2017, 1:01 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:47 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Gun manufactures don't advertise on criminal forum that in the past has had it's problems (blackshades)

Gun manufactures don't have KNOW what the gun is going to be used for.

Aeon released NC with features that weren't legal at all

Aeon advertised on here which isn't a crime but will be used against him as he knew his customer base

Aeon KNEW that people were solely using his product for malicious intent and barely did anything. This is not a "criminal forum" you dry lunch.

Malicious Intent - March 31, 2017, 1:02 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:59 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You're the retarded one if you think a TOS will hold up in court....And yea man those features that he first launched with was so legitimate. Honestly shut the fuck up. Obviously you feel some type of way because he was a HF member but he knew one day this would happen which is why he sold the projects.

Dude just stfu.. you still dont get it .. Do you even know what RAT stands for? Tools like this have legitimate use.

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 1:02 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:01 PM)USD. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is not a "criminal forum" you dry lunch.
Thats what the feds think of it.

(Mar 31, 2017 01:02 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Dude just stfu.. you still dont get it .. Do you even know what RAT stands for? Tools like this have legitimate use.

I understand what it means...Doesn't mean the features he first started out with were for that purpose? If it was a legitimate tool why did he never register it as an official business? Or why did he sell off something that gives him 1k a week? He knew what was up. You're trying to justify something that wouldn't hold up in court at all. He's going away for his negligence

SIM-3386134 - March 31, 2017, 1:05 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:02 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thats what the feds think of it.

The last time I checked the feds enforced the law, not create it. Pipe down with your propaganda, if you're a thick fuck you will get picked up its as simple as that. But this forum, is not a "criminal forum" I can assure you, its full of computer enthusiasts.

Just like say 4chan, you could be browsing some nice Adult GIF's and some cunt posts child porn, you might accidentally view it.. I presume that makes you a paedophile in your logic right?

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 1:06 pm

Do you know why Omniscient complies with the feds? So he doesn't end up just like Aeon. It's not worth it.

SIM-3386134 - March 31, 2017, 1:09 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:06 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Do you know why Omniscient complies with the feds? So he doesn't end up just like Aeon. It's not worth it.

That goes without saying, I agree but Aeon was never forced to market here? He has a huge range of other forums. He knew the risk, he tried to market it as a legal piece of software (which IMO, it was well within the law compared to more known mainstream pieces of software). Its part and parcel of this forum, and dont tell me you wouldn't do the same because you would. The hole ratting section might well be a honeypot, but if you're doing illegal shit you should be prepared to either;

- Hide your identity.
- Be prepared for the backlash.

I dont agree with it, but thats just the simple fact. Omni holding information also holds no bearing, when people accept payment methods like PayPal? You act surprised he got caught, and I can assure you there would of been multiple other places to obtain who Aeon was prior to approaching this forum or its owners for information.

Malicious Intent - March 31, 2017, 1:10 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:06 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Do you know why Omniscient complies with the feds? So he doesn't end up just like Aeon. It's not worth it.

You are clearly a multi ... 6 days account and know all about the awards(based on other thread i saw you in) and now you are also omnis PA... go fuck yourself

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 1:11 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:10 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You are clearly a multi ... 6 days account and know all about the awards(based on other thread i saw you in) and now you are also omnis PA... go fuck yourself

Is that seriously your response. You're a waste of sperm. Go away.

Malicious Intent - March 31, 2017, 1:12 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:09 PM)USD. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That goes without saying, I agree but Aeon was never forced to market here? He has a huge range of other forums. He knew the risk, he tried to market it as a legal piece of software (which IMO, it was well within the law compared to more known mainstream pieces of software). Its part and parcel of this forum, and dont tell me you wouldn't do the same because you would. The hole ratting section might well be a honeypot, but if you're doing illegal shit you should be prepared to either;

- Hide your identity.
- Be prepared for the backlash.

I dont agree with it, but thats just the simple fact. Omni holding information also holds no bearing, when people accept payment methods like PayPal? You act surprised he got caught, and I can assure you there would of been multiple other places to obtain who Aeon was prior to approaching this forum or its owners for information. What makes me wonder is why people that officially sell this here are not held liable but only a dev? Did they have anything to do with it? Not accusing anyone but how did they get to him is my question.. Maybe i missed the answer somewhere ...

Armada - March 31, 2017, 1:12 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 12:42 PM)USD. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Facts.

Although marketing it on this forum is not illegal.. There is a huge amount of evidence that people on this forum blatantly misuse, the argument that will decide his fate will simply be. Did he market it for illegal usage which I do not think he did (however, looking it up he did have some questionable things on launch). I still dont get how thousands if not millions of people are scammed daily online by tech support who abuse teamviewer and other applications yet they are untouched?

Its one big fucking joke to be honest, NC clearly monitored to their best ability and removed/banned users who performed illegal activities. As you said Armada with the gun, yes people can use that shit to break the law but that doesn't put the manufacturer of that gun at fault, whats the fucking difference here?

I wish him the best of luck, and I will be contributing to that gofundme if it gets launched.

Another lesson - STOP USING PERSONAL PAYPAL ACCOUNTS to buy shit like this.
I do not see where paypal is a fucking issue here....

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 1:13 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:09 PM)USD. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That goes without saying, I agree but Aeon was never forced to market here? He has a huge range of other forums. He knew the risk, he tried to market it as a legal piece of software Exactly he was never forced to market but he did because he knew the type of customers he was going to get. Plain and simple. He "TRIED" but he didn't try hard enough which caused his downfall. You can add a TOS all you want that won't save you. Just ask Previously Known As..

(Mar 31, 2017 01:12 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What makes me wonder is why people that officially sell this here are not held liable but only a dev? Did they have anything to do with it? Not accusing anyone but how did they get to him is my question.. Maybe i missed the answer somewhere ...Blackshades sellers were targeted as well. I'm sure they go after everyone....It's only been like a month or two so..

Armada - March 31, 2017, 1:16 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:13 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Exactly he was never forced to market but he did because he knew the type of customers he was going to get. Plain and simple. He "TRIED" but he didn't try hard enough which caused his downfall. You can add a TOS all you want that won't save you. Just ask Previously Known As..

Blackshades sellers were targeted as well. I'm sure they go after everyone....It's only been like a month or two so..

Yes, lets preach this to not only myself, but Shockwave, KFC Watermellon and others.

Your arguments invalid. The WORDING of a forum does not directly implicate its nature. I am member of much shadier sites than HF, and I don't DARE sell Orcus to them... think about this for a moment....

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 1:17 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:16 PM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, lets preach this to not only myself, but Shockwave, KFC Watermellon and others.

Your arguments invalid. The WORDING of a forum does not directly implicate its nature. I am member of much shadier sites than HF, and I don't DARE sell Orcus to them... think about this for a moment....But the customer base does implicate it's nature.....

Malicious Intent - March 31, 2017, 1:19 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:17 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) But the customer base does implicate it's nature..... Again... shut your fuking multi hole .. Mexican cartels buy more weapons than some small country armies on daily basis yet guns are legal in many places including big chunk of America... your arguments are invalid.

SIM-3386134 - March 31, 2017, 1:20 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:12 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What makes me wonder is why people that officially sell this here are not held liable but only a dev? Did they have anything to do with it? Not accusing anyone but how did they get to him is my question.. Maybe i missed the answer somewhere ...

I would not suspect its hard to track back the source of the payload, in this case NanoCore. When that same payload is found on repeat occasions for things described in that article, attacks on power plants and shit they look into the owner, a simple google search will point you to the source. As for information, well you take PayPal payments right? I am sure you can pick together the rest.

(Mar 31, 2017 01:13 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Exactly he was never forced to market but he did because he knew the type of customers he was going to get. Plain and simple. He "TRIED" but he didn't try hard enough which caused his downfall. You can add a TOS all you want that won't save you. Just ask Previously Known As..

I partially agree, while these silly TOS's people include dont mean shit as half of the people that write them have little to no knowledge of actual, real laws. The point is, Aeon ACTIVELY suspended/banned/revoked licenses to those people who was using it illegally. This is him, physically acting down on it like a DMCA sort of thing, that is the only thing he could do and it proves he was willingly doing it.

You do bring a good point, if this was for sale on # one would assume its made for illegal activity therefore you could quite easily use that as evidence. Is that the same on HF though? I would assume so even though we all know a lot of the things that go on here, fuck I dont know, I hate law.

Malicious Intent - March 31, 2017, 1:23 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:20 PM)USD. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would not suspect its hard to track back the source of the payload, in this case NanoCore. When that same payload is found on repeat occasions for things described in that article, attacks on power plants and shit they look into the owner, a simple google search will point you to the source. As for information, well you take PayPal payments right? I am sure you can pick together the rest.

I partially agree, while these silly TOS's people include dont mean shit as half of the people that write them have little to no knowledge of actual, real laws. The point is, Aeon ACTIVELY suspended/banned/revoked licenses to those people who was using it illegally. This is him, physically acting down on it like a DMCA sort of thing, that is the only thing he could do and it proves he was willingly doing it.

You do bring a good point, if this was for sale on # one would assume its made for illegal activity therefore you could quite easily use that as evidence. Is that the same on HF though? I would assume so even though we all know a lot of the things that go on here, fuck I dont know, I hate law. Did he leave his home address, email and phone number in the source of every server? They usually go after the seller as by the article it says hes held liable as a developer, but the same or even bigger part would be played by direct seller no? So how come seller is free and dev not? I would imagine they also contacted the seller, if hasnt done that already.

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 1:24 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:19 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Again... shut your fuking multi hole .. Mexican cartels buy more weapons than some small country armies on daily basis yet guns are legal in many places including big chunk of America... your arguments are invalid. You're talking about a different country lol. There's SOME TYPE of procedure for guns (at least in some states so it's not like anyone can go and buy a gun for the most part)

You can go and buy Nanocore and do some illegal shit just because he doesn't enforce shit hard enough. If it was for legal use he could have redesigned it for something sorta like Teamviewer. That way the malicious people would look else where.

Malicious Intent - March 31, 2017, 1:27 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:24 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You're talking about a different country lol. There's SOME TYPE of procedure for guns (at least in some states so it's not like anyone can go and buy a gun for the most part)

You can go and buy Nanocore and do some illegal shit just because he doesn't enforce shit hard enough. If it was for legal use he could have redesigned it for something sorta like Teamviewer. That way the malicious people would look else where.

Team viewer allows for remote access and help interrupting users session which is not always feasible for admin. Have you ever managed big network in the environment where the computers are used 24/7 and nobody has time to let admin login via team viewer to deal with shit? Once again gtfo multi..

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 1:30 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:27 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Team viewer allows for remote access and help interrupting users session which is not always feasible for admin. Have you ever managed big network in the environment where the computers are used 24/7 and nobody has time to let admin login via team viewer to deal with shit? Once again gtfo multi..

I'm going to go on a limb that you're calling me a multi when you're one but it's ok. If it makes you feel better at night continue on. Wouldn't want you to kill yourself.

SIM-3386134 - March 31, 2017, 1:31 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:23 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Did he leave his home address, email and phone number in the source of every server? They usually go after the seller as by the article it says hes held liable as a developer, but the same or even bigger part would be played by direct seller no? So how come seller is free and dev not? I would imagine they also contacted the seller, if hasnt done that already.

Wasn't he the seller and the developer though? I know it states he sold it, but he was the one who created and originally marketed/sold it right? Not to mention, he is of more use than just the seller, he has the talent.

Malicious Intent - March 31, 2017, 1:32 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:30 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm going to go on a limb that you're calling me a multi when you're one but it's ok. If it makes you feel better at night continue on. Wouldn't want you to kill yourself.

Lol multi accusing me of being a multi lmao .. good luck finding proof for that .. cunt.

SXSW - March 31, 2017, 1:33 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:32 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Lol multi accusing me of being a multi lmao .. good luck finding proof for that .. cunt.

Do you have any credible evidence besides my posts? No. Oh ok then. Retard.

Niko - March 31, 2017, 1:33 pm

This is just as stupid as arresting the maker of a gun or a vehicle.

Both have 100% legitimate uses, but some people kill people with guns or drive drunk.

Jaffar - March 31, 2017, 1:34 pm

damn looks like he's fucked

Malicious Intent - March 31, 2017, 1:34 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:31 PM)USD. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wasn't he the seller and the developer though? I know it states he sold it, but he was the one who created and originally marketed/sold it right? Not to mention, he is of more use than just the seller, he has the talent.

Well yes you are probably right .. he was the original seller but the question remains.. there were other people selling this and they seem to be active still...

(Mar 31, 2017 01:33 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Do you have any credible evidence besides my posts? No. Oh ok then. Retard.

Your posts are credible evidence .. Its impossible for a 6 days old account to know so much about hf and its inner workings.. e.g how to buy blackhat award or how omni "cooperates" with feds to stay afloat. Done talking to your bitch ass ..

Grievous????? - March 31, 2017, 1:37 pm

Damn bro this is crazy.

Hope he doesn't get in too much shit.

Armada - March 31, 2017, 1:45 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:17 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) But the customer base does implicate it's nature.....

So Little Jimmy Johanson trying to help grandma across state/province and using a RAT to provide her assistance from getting those email scams and removing those toolbars every unknowing user needs in their browser, right?

You miss the point here.

Just because a steak knife can murder a mother fucker, does not make it the intended use.

Its a STEAK knife, meant to cut up food, in specific, steak.

Same applies to software, and until the rest of the world realizes the definitions are just screwed up, we will continue to have this legal debate.

Juan The Young Chef Don - March 31, 2017, 1:55 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:45 PM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So Little Jimmy Johanson trying to help grandma across state/province and using a RAT to provide her assistance from getting those email scams and removing those toolbars every unknowing user needs in their browser, right?

You miss the point here.

Just because a steak knife can murder a mother fucker, does not make it the intended use.

Its a STEAK knife, meant to cut up food, in specific, steak.

Same applies to software, and until the rest of the world realizes the definitions are just screwed up, we will continue to have this legal debate.

I agree with you 100%

Who ever said it's his fault is a complete retard honestly. If you use a S&W to rob a store should S&W be held accountable since they manufactured the firearm? Most of you fuckers will say no but won't understand that this is the exact same as what happened to Aeon.

Armada - March 31, 2017, 2:00 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:55 PM)The Juan And Only Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I agree with you 100%

Who ever said it's his fault is a complete retard honestly. If you use a S&W to rob a store should S&W be held accountable since they manufactured the firearm? Most of you fuckers will say no but won't understand that this is the exact same as what happened to Aeon.

BUT WAIT, In America, the Fire arms and Software policy are very different

If you hold a gun to someones head that is INTENT TO KILL

Well, what if I hold your LIFES DATA in Ransom? Hmmmmm

Worlds not prepared yet... we are getting there, but not there quite yet....

POLY MATH - March 31, 2017, 2:01 pm

I live in Alexandria, VA.

Wondering if I show go support him...even as a stranger.

M?xim - March 31, 2017, 2:46 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:33 PM)Nikopai Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is just as stupid as arresting the maker of a gun or a vehicle.

Both have 100% legitimate uses, but some people kill people with guns or drive drunk. Used this example for a bud before. Totally agree with you.

SIM-3386134 - March 31, 2017, 2:50 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:45 PM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So Little Jimmy Johanson trying to help grandma across state/province and using a RAT to provide her assistance from getting those email scams and removing those toolbars every unknowing user needs in their browser, right?

You miss the point here.

Just because a steak knife can murder a mother fucker, does not make it the intended use.

Its a STEAK knife, meant to cut up food, in specific, steak.

Same applies to software, and until the rest of the world realizes the definitions are just screwed up, we will continue to have this legal debate.

Very well put.

Visualize - March 31, 2017, 3:00 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 02:46 PM)M?xim Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Used this example for a bud before. Totally agree with you.

What about the place its being sold? Its really no doubt that this is being used to for malicious purposes. But lets use a gun analogy. It isn't wrong to sell guns, but what about when you sell them in a market with the intention of crime. Just because you try to beat around the rules and say "self-defense purposes only" doesn't mean its blameless, similarly to trying to claim the software is for legal uses only. Remote Admin tools are not inherently bad, but I mean the targe audience for legal uses is defintely not HF

Although I think in Aeonhack's case it was smart for him to take away any illegal aspects and make it open for third party plugins instead because he becomes untied to all the illegal uses and only officially supporting legitimate features.

TheRealDykeGamer - March 31, 2017, 3:53 pm

so it's illegal to create or sell RATs ? or that's not the reason hes arrested.

Can someone answer this, because I know someone creating one called Notorious Helm and I do not want him getting arrested.

SUI-3183372 - March 31, 2017, 7:11 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 01:13 PM)SXSW Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Exactly he was never forced to market but he did because he knew the type of customers he was going to get. Plain and simple. He "TRIED" but he didn't try hard enough which caused his downfall. You can add a TOS all you want that won't save you. Just ask Previously Known As..

Blackshades sellers were targeted as well. I'm sure they go after everyone....It's only been like a month or two so..

Got directed to this thread.

SXSW is correct. If you knowingly allow a malicious/fraudulent/or otherwise non law abiding user/individual/customer to make use of your product/service, it doesn't matter what your ToS or AUP states, you can and will be held responsible if you're ever brought in front of a judge.

Edit: That being said, iff the article is true, if he was proactively fighting against illegal usage of his tools, I think he has a very strong chance of winning his court case if he goes to trial. However, the FBI/Prosecutor are going to do everything they can, throw out threats and scare tactics, to get him to plead guilty before a trial for some sort of deal.

Malthael - March 31, 2017, 7:26 pm

WTH this is very sad to hear :(I hope he can still get out of jail :)

CKkio23 - March 31, 2017, 8:04 pm

Wait so just cause his software protection was cracked and used maliciously gets the feds on him? That is complete bullshit. Hope only the best for Aeonhack even tho i don't really know you but it's just so stupid.

Codefuser - March 31, 2017, 8:43 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 08:04 PM)CKkio23 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wait so just cause his software protection was cracked and used maliciously gets the feds on him? That is complete bullshit. Hope only the best for Aeonhack even tho i don't really know you but it's just so stupid.

The part regarding NetSeal is bullshit. HOWEVER the part regarding NanoCore is not. We all know what kind of people are on HF. The FBI could use that argument in court against him and it most likely won't end well for him.

rsx - March 31, 2017, 8:48 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 07:26 PM)Malthael Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) WTH this is very sad to hear :(I hope he can still get out of jail :)

He's out on bond right now

Don't know if he'll be going to prison or not

SUI-3183372 - March 31, 2017, 10:02 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 08:04 PM)CKkio23 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wait so just cause his software protection was cracked and used maliciously gets the feds on him? That is complete bullshit. Hope only the best for Aeonhack even tho i don't really know you but it's just so stupid.

No, that's not the case.

The article took a very interesting approach to describing what AeonHack did. He's arrested for creating, developing, selling and supporting NanoCore RAT. The FBI are certain that by him selling it here, that he knowingly sold to individuals who had malicious intent when purchasing his product. They're also claiming that by using this forum as Net Seal's initial platform for sales, that it was catered towards cyber criminals.

AeonHack, however, did show a bit of resistance by banning/removing malicious customers, so that will definitely help him. However, all it takes is 1 screenshot from the FBI showing him catering to a malicious customer, or telling an undercover agent how they could use the tool maliciously, and he's done for.

CKkio23 - March 31, 2017, 10:50 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 10:02 PM)Previously Known As.... Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No, that's not the case.

The article took a very interesting approach to describing what AeonHack did. He's arrested for creating, developing, selling and supporting NanoCore RAT. The FBI are certain that by him selling it here, that he knowingly sold to individuals who had malicious intent when purchasing his product. They're also claiming that by using this forum as Net Seal's initial platform for sales, that it was catered towards cyber criminals.

AeonHack, however, did show a bit of proactively by banning/removing malicious customers. However, all it takes is 1 screenshot from the FBI showing him catering to a malicious customer, or telling an undercover agent how they could use the tool maliciously and he's done for. dam man that is deep. just skimmed thru the article.

Check The Name - March 31, 2017, 11:39 pm

Damn, I feel bad for the kid.

RastaManKing - April 1, 2017, 12:30 am

(Mar 31, 2017 01:19 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Again... shut your fuking multi hole .. Mexican cartels buy more weapons than some small country armies on daily basis yet guns are legal in many places including big chunk of America... your arguments are invalid.

ill like to add to this that MOST of the guns that end up in mexican cartels are distributed by the us government it self.. in the last known operation they distributed over 2000 guns(Including high powered assault rifles) and only tracked and recaptured 710.. that's less than half.. im sure aeonhack had better ratios than that.. its a joke that they went after the tool that got rid of most of his features to deter malicious use.. the government is becoming more like a dictatorship by the second..

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/ATF_gunwalking_scandal

EagleEye - April 1, 2017, 1:28 am best of luck this is unfair for him, hope he comes out from this situation.

any news about his status?he Had court yesterday any news about that ?

Cryptic™ - April 1, 2017, 1:33 am

(Apr 1, 2017 01:31 AM)Visual Freedom Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) A very talented coder with a strict ToS and then it happens to him? I cannot understand this!

Dude...

A ToS on HF does not mean shit when the law gets involved lmao.

The government follows only one ToS...and it's called the LAW.

Rhez - April 1, 2017, 2:22 am

(Apr 1, 2017 01:54 AM)Friedrich Nietzsche Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Strict ToS doesn't really help whenIt is sold to people whom Aeonhack knows will abuse the software

On a site that is known for malware

On a site that has the term "hack" in the name, regardless of what you might say about this being a technology forums, this won't play well in the eye of a judge.

Can't argue with that.

Vitani - April 1, 2017, 3:33 am

(Mar 31, 2017 02:00 PM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) BUT WAIT, In America, the Fire arms and Software policy are very different

If you hold a gun to someones head that is INTENT TO KILL

Well, what if I hold your LIFES DATA in Ransom? Hmmmmm

Worlds not prepared yet... we are getting there, but not there quite yet....

This. This is the root of the problem that this specific industry is facing. (Though it's the little guys that get hit the hardest)

I think eventually with this case and others like it the government will push new laws and policies to establish the rules regarding software abuse by a third party but as Armada said, we are not quite there yet.

While I feel sorry for Aeonhack as he does not deserve this, I do think his trial may play a big role in any future cases similar to this one.

GermanWings - April 1, 2017, 4:04 am

he doesnt deserve this. he was such a good coder :c

Codefuser - April 1, 2017, 4:26 am

(Apr 1, 2017 04:04 AM)GermanWings Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) he doesnt deserve this. he was such a good coder :cWhy do I have the feeling you are just echoing everyone else?

Mula B. - April 1, 2017, 4:55 am

I'm so glad I used BTC to buy every RAT, Crypter I used. :^)

EagleEye - April 1, 2017, 5:16 am

(Apr 1, 2017 04:26 AM)Codefuser Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why do I have the feeling you are just echoing everyone else?

haha how he goona gain more posts ? :P

Armada - April 1, 2017, 5:26 am

(Mar 31, 2017 07:11 PM)Previously Known As.... Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Got directed to this thread.

SXSW is correct. If you knowingly allow a malicious/fraudulent/or otherwise non law abiding user/individual/customer to make use of your product/service, it doesn't matter what your ToS or AUP states, you can and will be held responsible if you're ever brought in front of a judge.

Edit: That being said, iff the article is true, if he was proactively fighting against illegal usage of his tools, I think he has a very strong chance of winning his court case if he goes to trial. However, the FBI/Prosecutor are going to do everything they can, throw out threats and scare tactics, to get him to plead guilty before a trial for some sort of deal.

Pretty much this.

If I manufacture firearms and directly and knowingly sell them to a biker gang that has a reputation for blood shed, that is Aiding and abeting and making available towards a known malicious intent.

The lines are skewed in this instance, but its pretty much the same thing.

If I KNOWINGLY sell and allow malicious use on any of my services I am just as legally responsible as the idiot who went and broke the law to start.

I am rather shocked to hear of the charges brought up against Aeon, however I tend to agree, I think he has a rather good shot at fighting this and winning if he stands his ground.

(Mar 31, 2017 10:02 PM)Previously Known As.... Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No, that's not the case.

The article took a very interesting approach to describing what AeonHack did. He's arrested for creating, developing, selling and supporting NanoCore RAT. The FBI are certain that by him selling it here, that he knowingly sold to individuals who had malicious intent when purchasing his product. They're also claiming that by using this forum as Net Seal's initial platform for sales, that it was catered towards cyber criminals.

AeonHack, however, did show a bit of resistance by banning/removing malicious customers, so that will definitely help him. However, all it takes is 1 screenshot from the FBI showing him catering to a malicious customer, or telling an undercover agent how they could use the tool maliciously, and he's done for.

Although true, where is the line drawn from Legitimate support of use, even in "Silent mode" so to speak, rather than actually assisting for malicious use.

Further who is to say the Screen shot was not manipulated? Even that kind of evidence CAN be argued... likely not very successfully, but the point stands.

(Apr 1, 2017 03:33 AM)Vitani Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This. This is the root of the problem that this specific industry is facing. (Though it's the little guys that get hit the hardest)

I think eventually with this case and others like it the government will push new laws and policies to establish the rules regarding software abuse by a third party but as Armada said, we are not quite there yet.

While I feel sorry for Aeonhack as he does not deserve this, I do think his trial may play a big role in any future cases similar to this one.

As more and more developers of RATs are charged and arrested, the more case law is created, and sooner or later, there will be new legislation on how to handle, manage and develop said software.

The cold hard reality is this software is required, Legitimate corporations and companies rely on this for their system admins to do their work. I fail to see why the authorities choose to pick on the little guys trying to start legitimate businesses using the technical skill sets they have under their belt so to speak.

I spent MONTHS doing my research on the legalities of such software before we ever launched Orcus. and I am constantly checking back with my lawyers on legality checks to ensure we are operating within the laws that govern the company and software.

And although I do my best for all of that, I would not be one bit surprised to one day have a knock on my door and an officer with cuffs in hand due to my activity and involvement with Orcus.

For that there is already a plan in place on what needs to happen.

I see this article has gotten quite a few scared about their activity using Remote Admins.

In my personal opinion, most of you are going parrot. AKA paranoid.

Calm down and relax people, they arrested a single person under what I see as rather f*cked up charges I do not think will stick.

-ViTALiTY - April 1, 2017, 5:46 am

(Mar 31, 2017 01:45 PM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So Little Jimmy Johanson trying to help grandma across state/province and using a RAT to provide her assistance from getting those email scams and removing those toolbars every unknowing user needs in their browser, right?

You miss the point here.

Just because a steak knife can murder a mother fucker, does not make it the intended use.

Its a STEAK knife, meant to cut up food, in specific, steak.

Same applies to software, and until the rest of the world realizes the definitions are just screwed up, we will continue to have this legal debate.

I don't like you, but I agree with you. No flaws there.

network.succubus - April 1, 2017, 11:09 am this is so stupid, they're just arresting him because they can't arrest the dipshits who used his software, this is wrong

M?xim - April 1, 2017, 12:39 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 11:09 AM)network.succubus Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) this is so stupid, they're just arresting him because they can't arrest the dipshits who used his software, this is wrong

That will be about 10,000 people then. Can't blame them for not arresting the people who used NanoCore, can you?

NoodleBot™ - April 1, 2017, 12:53 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 05:26 AM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Pretty much this.

If I manufacture firearms and directly and knowingly sell them to a biker gang that has a reputation for blood shed, that is Aiding and abetting and making available towards a known malicious intent.

The lines are skewed in this instance, but its pretty much the same thing.

If I KNOWINGLY sell and allow malicious use on any of my services I am just as legally responsible as the idiot who went and broke the law to start.

I am rather shocked to hear of the charges brought up against Aeon, however I tend to agree, I think he has a rather good shot at fighting this and winning if he stands his ground.

Although true, where is the line drawn from Legitimate support of use, even in "Silent mode" so to speak, rather than actually assisting for malicious use.

Further who is to say the Screen shot was not manipulated? Even that kind of evidence CAN be argued... likely not very successfully, but the point stands.

As more and more developers of RATs are charged and arrested, the more case law is created, and sooner or later, there will be new legislation on how to handle, manage and develop said software.

The cold hard reality is this software is required, Legitimate corporations and companies rely on this for their system admins to do their work. I fail to see why the authorities choose to pick on the little guys trying to start legitimate businesses using the technical skill sets they have under their belt so to speak.

I spent MONTHS doing my research on the legalities of such software before we ever launched Orcus. and I am constantly checking back with my lawyers on legality checks to ensure we are operating within the laws that govern the company and software.

And although I do my best for all of that, I would not be one bit surprised to one day have a knock on my door and an officer with cuffs in hand due to my activity and involvement with Orcus.

For that there is already a plan in place on what needs to happen.

I see this article has gotten quite a few scared about their activity using Remote Admins.

In my personal opinion, most of you are going parrot. AKA paranoid.

Calm down and relax people, they arrested a single person under what I see as rather f*cked up charges I do not think will stick.

Surprising anytime I've told you specifically about the legality of such things, you argue with me to your hearts content. And now you say what I told you many times.

Armada - April 1, 2017, 1:08 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 12:53 PM)NoodleBot™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Surprising anytime I've told you specifically about the legality of such things, you argue with me to your hearts content. And now you say what I told you many times.

Seems you missed the critical part where I have my lawyers reviewing everything. But I digress.

Anyone got an update on Aeon?

Seems he was up for Arraignment yesterday.

Can not seem to find the actual Docket including the actual charges against him however. ?

Find that odd that is not public record at this point.

NoodleBot™ - April 1, 2017, 1:21 pm

The lawyer doesn't help at all, if regardless or not you are knowingly distributing or selling a product with intent to be malicious.

With your one hour free consultation. Lol.

Armada - April 1, 2017, 1:25 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 01:21 PM)NoodleBot™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The lawyer doesn't help at all, if regardless or not you are knowingly distributing or selling a product with intent to be malicious.

With your one hour free consultation. Lol.

I am not going to engage in this argument with you yet again.

I pay my lawyers to do their job correctly. 1 hour free consultation what? I grew up in an entire building filled with lawyers.... I got my bases covered, even in the event something goes down. So stop concerning yourself about me or others and worry about yourself.

Literally just banned a license not more than an hour ago answering a ticket where the user called the PCs "slaves". ?

NoodleBot™ - April 1, 2017, 1:35 pm

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5264966&pid=50872650#pid50872650>

Armada - April 1, 2017, 1:38 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 01:35 PM)NoodleBot™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5264966&pid=50872650#pid50872650>

And?

That was my recommendation to you. I figured you were a broke boy would had no legal connections. Excuse me. ?

Aeonhack Archivist - April 1, 2017, 4:02 pm

He won't be getting on the internet any time soon.

I have uploaded the court documents that have been released so far to <https://www.aeonhack.com>

Armada - April 1, 2017, 4:33 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 04:02 PM)alecn1519 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He won't be getting on the internet any time soon.

I have uploaded the court documents that have been released so far to <http://www.aeonhack.com>

This is what the hell I have been looking for and I am reading over it right now.

Anyone ELSE find it kind of fucked up they are placing a Keyloggers problems against him for running Netseal?

I honestly do not believe what I just read, they are blaming him for someone elses activities and Nanocore is like almost a fucking after thought....

What in the fuck is going on in the states man?

Aeonhack Archivist - April 1, 2017, 4:41 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 04:33 PM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is what the hell I have been looking for and I am reading over it right now.

Anyone ELSE find it kind of fucked up they are placing a Keyloggers problems against him for running Netseal?

I honestly do not believe what I just read, they are blaming him for someone elses activities and Nanocore is like almost a fucking after thought....

What in the fuck is going on in the states man?

I am glad that I could help. I will continue updating the site with more court documents as they are released.

off topic:

If anybody has any source codes or programs that Aeonhack released at any point and would like them added to the "archive" (I am used to run aeonhack.com as a sort of archive of Aeon's projects and will be reuploading that info here soon), please PM me the details and I will add it to the archive.

Specner - April 1, 2017, 5:16 pm

Seems like this is 1.Aprill joke

Aeonhack Archivist - April 1, 2017, 5:18 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 05:16 PM)Specner Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Seems like this is 1.Aprill joke

Far from it mate. Take a look at the documents I uploaded: <https://www.aeonhack.com>

inxy - April 1, 2017, 5:21 pm

$5k bond, he'll be out on probation, he followed everything pretty well legality wise on the program so

CKkio23 - April 1, 2017, 5:55 pm

My question now is how about the rest of RAT Developers. What if they also have one bad apple in the bunch who does something stupid to have the feds on them.

What are they going to do? Many of their programs are also cracked.

rsx - April 1, 2017, 5:56 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 04:33 PM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What in the fuck is going on in the states man?

Fuckin pigs will nail you with anything

SUI-3183372 - April 1, 2017, 6:10 pm

Seems like bullshit, but that's how conspiracy charges work. They don't need to prove he knowingly did this, they just need to claim it was his intent, that he conspired to do this, and they can still nail him. Federal cases are no longer about proving without a reasonable doubt that he did something, they just need to make a case that he conspired to do it, and he's boned.

I'd say at least 50% of the people I met in prison were there on conspiracy charges, not charges that were actually proven against them. Conspiracy charges are one of the biggest plagues on our justice system along with mandatory minimum sentences.

(Apr 1, 2017 05:21 PM)inxy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) $5k bond, he'll be out on probation, he followed everything pretty well legality wise on the program so

That won't be the case. After reading the proof/discovery against him, it's clear they're going after conspiracy charges. There's a very large chance that he's going down for this if he doesn't bring it to trial, which will be a very long and expensive battle. The kicker is, if he does bring it to trial and doesn't take a plea deal, they're going to throw aggravated identity theft at him. Right now I can almost guarantee you they're telling him "Plea out to distribution of malware and conspiracy to hack computers and we'll make this aggravated identity theft charge go away. If you take us to trial, we'll throw aggravated identity theft on to the list." The terrifying thing about that is, aggravated identity theft carry's a two year mandatory minimum sentence. That means, on top of whatever time he gets, an additional 2 years will be added on, two years that you can not get out of early.

So Aeon's going to have the choice. Do I plea out to these 1-2 charges and hope for a lenient sentence, or do I fight these 2 charges, have the additional charge added, and risk a much harsher sentence that includes a mandatory minimum charge of 2 years.

I was in a very similar situation and took the plea deal. He has better ground to stand on if he wanted to fight this and take it to trial, but it's a terrifying choice when the wrong choice means that you're losing at least an extra 2 years of your life.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 1, 2017, 6:13 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 06:10 PM)Previously Known As.... Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

Seems like bullshit, but that's how conspiracy charges work. They don't need to prove he knowingly did this, they just need to claim it was his intent, that he conspired to do this, and they can still nail him. Federal cases are no longer about proving without a reasonable doubt that he did something, they just need to make a case that he conspired to do it, and he's boned.

I'd say at least 50% of the people I met in prison were there on conspiracy charges, not charges that were actually proven against them. Conspiracy charges are one of the biggest plagues on our justice system along with mandatory minimum sentences.

That won't be the case. After reading the proof/discovery against him, it's clear they're going after conspiracy charges. There's a very large chance that he's going down for this if he doesn't bring it to trial, which will be a very long and expensive battle. The kicker is, if he does bring it to trial and doesn't take a plea deal, they're going to throw aggravated identity theft at him. Right now I can almost guarantee you they're telling him "Plea out to distribution of malware and conspiracy to hack computers and we'll make this aggravated identity theft charge go away. If you take us to trial, we'll throw aggravated identity theft on to the list." The terrifying thing about that is, aggravated identity theft carries a two year mandatory minimum sentence. That means, on top of whatever time he gets, an additional 2 years will be added on, two years that you can not get out of early.

So Aeon's going to have the choice. Do I plea out to these 1-2 charges and hope for a lenient sentence, or do I fight these 2 charges, have the additional charge added, and risk a much harsher sentence that includes a mandatory minimum charge of 2 years.

I was in a very similar situation and took the plea deal. He has better ground to stand on if he wanted to fight this and take it to trial, but it's a terrifying choice when the wrong choice means that you're losing at least an extra 2 years of your life.

Thanks for the info. It is great to hear these sorts of things from people who have actually been in similar situations.

SUI-3183372 - April 1, 2017, 7:04 pm

This is going to make things very hard for him.

He can fight this, as we've seen him in the past combat net seal from being used maliciously. However, he did pick and choose what he considered malicious, and he wasn't always correct.

I wonder if "at all times" can be argued, because there was clearly a period of time that he suspended/banned customers that he found to be using the tool maliciously.

Sounds like chat logs may exist between Aeon and Zachary (Limitless Keylogger owner). I wonder if Aeon implicated himself in these chat logs.

Not good.

Count two is completely bullshit. His lawyer should eat that one up.

Count three is regarding Nanocore, and idk how that's going to play out. He did a good job trying to avoid malicious use, but it's going to depend on the judge really.

Indecisive enough - April 1, 2017, 7:08 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 07:04 PM)Previously Known As.... Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

This is going to make things very hard for him.

He can fight this, as we've seen him in the past combat net seal from being used maliciously. However, he did pick and choose what he considered malicious, and he wasn't always correct. Gonna be a case that sets some real precedent if he goes on trial.

Raz Riverblade - April 1, 2017, 7:22 pm

He should be fine if he doesn't take the plea deal.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 1, 2017, 7:27 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 07:04 PM)Previously Known As.... Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Spoiler \(Click to View\)

This is going to make things very hard for him.

He can fight this, as we've seen him in the past combat net seal from being used maliciously. However, he did pick and choose what he considered malicious, and he wasn't always correct.

I wonder if "at all times" can be argued, because there was clearly a period of time that he suspended/banned customers that he found to be using the tool maliciously.

Sounds like chat logs may exist between Aeon and Zachary (Limitless Keylogger owner). I wonder if Aeon implicated himself in these chat logs.

Not good.

Count two is completely bullshit. His lawyer should eat that one up.

Wow, I definitely appreciate your analysis. I am glad that I shared the documents. I will be sure to keep the site updated as more are released.

CKkio23 - April 1, 2017, 7:28 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 07:27 PM)alecn1519 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wow, I definitely appreciate your analysis. I am glad that I shared the documents. I will be sure to keep the site updated as more are released. Thanks for keeping us updated on the situation! ?

Aeonhack Archivist - April 1, 2017, 7:45 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 07:28 PM)CKkio23 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thanks for keeping us updated on the situation! ? Not a problem. Just doing what I believe in to support those close to me.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 1, 2017, 10:29 pm

Newest iteration of aeonhack.com has been published. I will be adding more content throughout the week.

Rhez - April 1, 2017, 11:30 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 10:29 PM)alecn1519 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Newest iteration of aeonhack.com has been published. I will be adding more content throughout the week. Those things are from Aeon?

inxy - April 1, 2017, 11:42 pm

I really feel sorry for the kid, this is unfair imo.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 1, 2017, 11:53 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 11:30 PM)Rhez Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Those things are from Aeon? Yes, the site is dedicated to archiving all things Aeonhack.

Rhez - April 1, 2017, 11:58 pm

(Apr 1, 2017 11:53 PM)alecn1519 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, the site is dedicated to archiving all things Aeonhack.

Thanks for this action. ?

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

I'm hoping that you don't put some rat on it. ?

Aeonhack Archivist - April 2, 2017, 12:01 am

(Apr 1, 2017 11:58 PM)Rhez Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thanks for this action. ?

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

I'm hoping that you don't put some rat on it. ?

Haha, actually that is something that I'm considering how I'm going to do it. I don't want the website taken down, but I would like to provide all that I can that was created by Aeonhack, especially the things that will go down in history like Nanocore.

Rhez - April 2, 2017, 12:11 am

(Apr 2, 2017 12:01 AM)alecn1519 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Haha, actually that is something that I'm considering how I'm going to do it. I don't want the website taken down, but I would like to provide all that I can that was created by Aeonhack, especially the things that will go down in history like Nanocore. No way, Nanocore is always in our heart.

Cryptic™ - April 2, 2017, 12:12 am

What happened to the Nanocore sales thread? Was it junked?

Can't seem to find it

Codefuser - April 2, 2017, 12:14 am

(Apr 2, 2017 12:12 AM)Cryptic™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What happened to the Nanocore sales thread? Was it junked?

Can't seem to find it

Yes, my man nesu is spooked by the FBI

Cryptic™ - April 2, 2017, 12:14 am

(Apr 2, 2017 12:14 AM)Codefuser Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, my man nesu is spooked by the FBI do u mean {nexus} (or at least that's what he went by on skype)

lol

I asked him a couple of months ago rnt u afraid of the police and stuff because of what happened to blackshades and he was like naaaah lol.

thats why i never got into rats for business, its not worth going to jail over a few bucks online armada and kfc gotta be careful. their the remaining 2 big rat sellers?

Rhez - April 2, 2017, 12:19 am

(Apr 2, 2017 12:14 AM)Codefuser Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, my man nesu is spooked by the FBI He's already an FBI.

Donald Trump Jr. - April 2, 2017, 12:22 am

This is why everyone should encrypt their computer....
Download veracrypt and do it now.

Magna imperium - April 2, 2017, 12:26 am

(Apr 2, 2017 12:22 AM)Donald Trump Jr. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is why everyone should encrypt their computer....
Download veracrypt and do it now.
Arent they able to "bypass" vera?

Donald Trump Jr. - April 2, 2017, 12:28 am

(Apr 2, 2017 12:26 AM)Niveus~ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Arent they able to "bypass" vera?
No they aren't able to, just set it up correctly and use a 30 plus character password.
If you have windows 7 use True Crypt.

EagleEye - April 2, 2017, 12:41 am

(Apr 2, 2017 12:22 AM)Donald Trump Jr. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is why everyone should encrypt their computer....

Download veracrypt and do it now.
i think the project is shutting down

Quote:"CodePlex is shutting down. Read about the shutdown plan, including archive and migration information, on Brian Harry's blog."

Donald Trump Jr. - April 2, 2017, 12:45 am

(Apr 2, 2017 12:41 AM)961Group Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) i think the project is shutting down True crypt is already shut down, its incompatible with versions of windows higher then 7.
Use Vera crypt for everything else.

Codefuser - April 2, 2017, 1:02 am

(Apr 2, 2017 12:14 AM)Cryptic™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) do u mean {nexus} (or at least that's what he went by on skype)

lol

I asked him a couple of months ago rnt u afraid of the police and stuff because of what happened to blackshades and he was like naaaah lol.

thats why i never got into rats for business, its not worth going to jail over a few bucks online armada and kfc gotta be careful. their the remaining 2 big rat sellers?

Yes, nesu is spooked.

(Apr 2, 2017 12:45 AM)Donald Trump Jr. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) True crypt is already shut down, its incompatible with versions of windows higher then 7.
Use Vera crypt for everything else.
Doesn't help, refusing to give up the password is illegal.

Donald Trump Jr. - April 2, 2017, 1:48 am

(Apr 2, 2017 01:02 AM)Codefuser Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Doesn't help, refusing to give up the password is illegal.

If he lives in America he can simply say he forgot, I know in the UK your legally obliged to give it up but in the US, you don't have to incriminate yourself. So in a way they can't MAKE you open your computer. Then there goes all their proof.

Codefuser - April 2, 2017, 1:52 am

(Apr 2, 2017 01:48 AM)Donald Trump Jr. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If he lives in America he can simply say he forgot, I know in the UK your legally obliged to give it up but in the US, you don't have to incriminate yourself. So in a way they can't MAKE you open your computer. Then there goes all their proof.
False. Look at United States v. Fricosu.

Donald Trump Jr. - April 2, 2017, 1:55 am

(Apr 2, 2017 01:52 AM)Codefuser Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) False. Look at United States v. Fricosu.
You sent me one court ruling.
I can send you 100 court rulings where they weren't forced to.

Also there was no update on this girls court ruling, shes probably free and all charges were dropped. Since she never decided to give up her password, they can't keep her in jail forever.

Edit:

Update:

Fricosu's attorney claimed it was possible she did not remember the password. A month later, Fricosu's ex-husband handed the police a list of potential passwords.[3] One of the passwords worked, rendering the self-incrimination issue moot.

Source: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/United_States_v._Fricosu

Codefuser - April 2, 2017, 2:05 am

(Apr 2, 2017 01:55 AM)Donald Trump Jr. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You sent me one court ruling. I can send you 100 court rulings where they weren't forced to.

Also there was no update on this girls court ruling, shes probably free and all charges were dropped. Since she never decided to give up her password, they can't keep her in jail forever.

Edit:

Update:

Fricosu's attorney claimed it was possible she did not remember the password. A month later, Fricosu's ex-husband handed the police a list of potential passwords.[3] One of the passwords worked, rendering the self-incrimination issue moot.

Source: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/United_States_v._Fricosu

Ehh well not much of a lawyer, but you can still be charged with conspiracy and other shits based on your online activities so wouldn't help much.

Forc?d - April 2, 2017, 4:46 am

Will there be a "fund me" page to help him afford a proper support system if he chooses to fight this?

Codefuser - April 2, 2017, 4:59 am

(Apr 2, 2017 04:46 AM)Forc?d Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Will there be a "fund me" page to help him afford a proper support system if he chooses to fight this?

Not atm because I can't contact him.

Slavoj Žižek - April 2, 2017, 5:18 am free my nigga aeonhack, he do nothing wrong

Codefuser - April 2, 2017, 5:32 am

(Apr 2, 2017 05:18 AM)Blezzedd Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) free my nigga aeonhack, he do nothing wrong
Look at my signature, that's what he did wrong. Malware = malware my boi.

EagleEye - April 2, 2017, 7:27 am any news about the court decisions? it happens on 31/7/2017 so any news?

aph3x - April 2, 2017, 7:35 am

Sad to see this goes that way, but even tho Aeon tried to keep NanoCore legit as much he could we all knows what this software was meant for and that's why he sold it on HF.

Weird stuff as I saw some topic couple days ago where someone was trying to sell off NanoCore? not quite sure about who it was.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 2, 2017, 8:06 am

(Apr 2, 2017 07:27 AM)961Group Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) any news about the court decisions? it happens on 31/7/2017 so any news?

I haven't gotten any updates to court documents that I posted but as soon as I do I will be sure to repost them. Sorry for the wait.

Codefuser - April 2, 2017, 8:24 am

The sad thing about this is that ever since nanocore shut down, a huge spike of cracked nanomen was seen.

GermanWings - April 2, 2017, 10:12 am

#freeaeonhack you dont deserve this shit...

pinkpony69 - April 2, 2017, 10:17 am

Yeah sucks fOr this guy lol.

Armada - April 2, 2017, 10:20 am

(Apr 2, 2017 12:12 AM)Cryptic™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What happened to the Nanocore sales thread? Was it junked?

Can't seem to find it

(Apr 2, 2017 12:14 AM)Cryptic™ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) do u mean {nexus} (or at least that's what he went by on skype)

lol

I asked him a couple of months ago rnt u afraid of the police and stuff because of what happened to blackshades and he was like naaaah lol.

thats why i never got into rats for business, its not worth going to jail over a few bucks online armada and kfc gotta be careful. their the remaining 2 big rat sellers?

I am guessing this is why I woke up to your skype message. lol

I have noted it numerous times, that I am very thankful I live in a country that does not have such paranoid cyber laws.

Frankly I find the charges against Aeon to be rather ludicrous.

I find it even more interesting they really make no real mention how Netseal used to be the main license system for most of the RATS until he forced everyone to migrate to their own systems.

.cYRil. - April 2, 2017, 10:21 am

Feeling sad for this guy, he is the victim of one of his projects.

SIM-1984933 - April 2, 2017, 10:52 am

What about Microsoft? I mean they did write the language so with their logic MS should also be persecuted because they wrote the language.

EagleEye - April 2, 2017, 11:48 am

(Apr 2, 2017 10:52 AM)MMxMM Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What about Microsoft? I mean they did write the language so with their logic MS should also be persecuted because they wrote the language.
ahahaha you forgot to mention Intel for CPU usage :)

Aeonhack Archivist - April 2, 2017, 1:18 pm

No new court documents have been unsealed yet, so I'm not able to obtain any. When I get home tomorrow, I will be revamping the "Arrested!" page with every one of the documents I have regarding the cases against Taylor (the ones currently uploaded are the important ones, but I have more).

Armada - April 2, 2017, 1:23 pm

(Apr 2, 2017 01:18 PM)Aeonhack Archivist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No new court documents have been unsealed yet, so I'm not able to obtain any. When I get home tomorrow, I will be revamping the "Arrested!" page with every one of the documents I have regarding the cases against Taylor (the ones currently uploaded are the important ones, but I have more).

I have mirrored the archive so far, BTW.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 2, 2017, 1:31 pm

(Apr 2, 2017 01:23 PM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have mirrored the archive so far, BTW.

Awesome, thank you! Once I have a more finished up version of the website, I will also be uploading all of the sources, snippets, videos, etc to Archive.org are they only after him, what happens to the people who used netseal as a licensing system?

+Haze - April 2, 2017, 9:02 pm

Codefuser - April 2, 2017, 9:03 pm

(Apr 2, 2017 11:48 AM)961Group Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) ahahaha you forgot to mention Intel for CPU usage :)

Intel and VB.NET's core aren't for sales here. Nor do they have password recovery and silent installation.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 2, 2017, 9:16 pm

(Apr 2, 2017 09:02 PM)+Haze Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) are they only after him, what happens to the people who used netseal as a licensing system?

From the documents they are only after Taylor, though they are linking him to Zachary Shames (Mephobia/Limitless Logger) .

SUI-3183372 - April 2, 2017, 10:32 pm

(Apr 2, 2017 09:16 PM)Aeonhack Archivist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) From the documents they are only after Taylor, though they are linking him to Zachary Shames (Mephobia/Limitless Logger) .

There are surely chat logs between Zachary and Aeon which incriminate Aeon.

Zachary got arrested, computer seized, and I'm assuming that there was some sort of skype convo on there showing Aeon fully comprehending what Zachary is selling and still assisting him.

Armada - April 2, 2017, 10:40 pm

(Apr 2, 2017 10:32 PM)Previously Known As.... Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There are surely chat logs between Zachary and Aeon which incriminate Aeon.

Zachary got arrested, computer seized, and I'm assuming that there was some sort of skype convo on there showing Aeon fully comprehending what Zachary is selling and still assisting him.

^ Bingo, and exactly my thoughts on the matter.

They already have a conviction.... Now its wrapping up loose ends so to speak, I STILL think this is kinda fucked up to start....

$lick - April 3, 2017, 3:13 am

(Apr 2, 2017 12:19 AM)Rhez Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He's already an FBI.

This is correct, we worked with the FBI to bring down Aeonhack.

Quick edit to clear things up: I'm an FBI informant, I do not work for the FBI, those are not the same thing!!

Codefuser - April 3, 2017, 3:19 am

(Apr 3, 2017 03:13 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is correct, we worked with the FBI to bring down Aeonhack.

Quick edit to clear things up: I'm an FBI informant, I do not work for the FBI, those are not the same thing!!

You are still a nanomen though, doesn't change the fact that I will take down all nanomen

Immortal Modz - April 3, 2017, 4:05 am

Wait I still don't understand why he was arrested. He made software to monitor people, was it advertised the other way for use unauthorized computer access?

Rhez - April 3, 2017, 4:58 am

(Apr 3, 2017 04:05 AM)Immortal Modz Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wait I still don't understand why he was arrested. He made software to monitor people, was it advertised the other way for use unauthorized computer access?

No, FBI thinks all software that was sold here are for malicious purposes.

SIM-1847363 - April 3, 2017, 6:24 am

(Apr 3, 2017 04:58 AM)Rhez Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No, FBI thinks all software that was sold here are for malicious purposes.

Yep, thats what sucks about selling products here, with the name hackforums... its kinda hard for them to think that the software here if for legitimate reasons.

GZUZ - April 3, 2017, 6:35 am

What happens to the users of this software?

There were a lot of raids back when the coder of blackhades was convicted & arrested.

I mean it easy to find specific transactions in the blockchain and law enforcement IS and WILL always be able to find out IP Adresses. Thoughts?

Malicious Intent - April 3, 2017, 6:37 am

(Apr 3, 2017 06:24 AM)Kevin. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yep, thats what sucks about selling products here, with the name hackforums... its kinda hard for them to think that the software here if for legitimate reasons.

Easy fix .. make a website for your product and advertise here and on different forums so its not exclusively sold here. Having a registered business in some country with decent laws would also be an advantage.

rsx - April 3, 2017, 8:06 am

Damn they're trying to hit him with conspiracy charges, that's fucked

Hopefully it works out for the best for him

EagleEye - April 3, 2017, 8:14 am

(Apr 2, 2017 01:18 PM)Aeonhack Archivist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No new court documents have been unsealed yet, so I'm not able to obtain any. When I get home tomorrow, I will be revamping the "Arrested!" page with every one of the documents I have regarding the cases against Taylor (the ones currently uploaded are the important ones, but I have more).

thanks for your support mate.very good site ill be following you site to read the news and updates

RastaManKing - April 3, 2017, 8:41 am

(Apr 2, 2017 10:32 PM)Previously Known As.... Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There are surely chat logs between Zachary and Aeon which incriminate Aeon.

Zachary got arrested, computer seized, and I'm assuming that there was some sort of skype convo on there showing Aeon fully comprehending what Zachary is selling and still assisting him.
you make an interesting point, that way it make a little more sense

Aeonhack Archivist - April 3, 2017, 12:42 pm

Taylor's arraignment has been released. I will upload it to the site as soon as I get home.

I have uploaded it to the "Arrested!" tab on <https://www.aeonhack.com>

In the mean time here is a screenshot
Big ass image (Click to View)

While it was written on March 31, just like any other government agency, they don't do shit on the weekends in terms of releasing stuff.

Just added the following documents:

- Agreed Discovery Order
- Waiver of Speedy Trial
- Motion for Protective Order
- Order on Motion for Protective Order

SUI-3183372 - April 3, 2017, 3:41 pm

(Apr 3, 2017 12:42 PM)Aeonhack Archivist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Taylor's arraignment has been released. I will upload it to the site as soon as I get home.

I have uploaded it to the "Arrested!" tab on <https://www.aeonhack.com>

In the mean time here is a screenshot
Big ass image (Click to View)

While it was written on March 31, just like any other government agency, they don't do shit on the weekends in terms of releasing stuff.

Just added the following documents:

- Agreed Discovery Order
- Waiver of Speedy Trial
- Motion for Protective Order
- Order on Motion for Protective Order

Not really on topic, but 6'3" and only 150 pounds. Jesus... Aeon was skinny af.

Codefuser - April 3, 2017, 9:55 pm

(Apr 3, 2017 03:41 PM)Previously Known As.... Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not really on topic, but 6'3" and only 150 pounds. Jesus... Aeon was skinny af.
He is not thicc enough for my taste.

Kjetil - April 4, 2017, 1:27 am omg no not him!

i used his runpe for so long it was the best thing ever

so sad ;(

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - April 4, 2017, 2:08 am

I just read the indictment document. Why the hell is Aeon on the hook for someone else's misuse of his licensing? Literally, they are trying to take down Aeon because he provided a licensing system that secured software. Never do they even state that he was aware of the misuse....They literally just keep repeating how the dev of limitless kept selling his shit and somehow the private communications between that guy and one of his customers is direct proof that Aeon knew he was doing some illegal shit? Like what the actual fuck. I want to go to VA just to sit in the court room and listen to this shit lol.

Codefuser - April 4, 2017, 2:10 am

(Apr 4, 2017 01:27 AM)sichtsale Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) omg no not him!

i used his runpe for so long it was the best thing ever

so sad ;(

Dude it is detected by almost ALL AVs.

webinjectsformgrabberhvinc - April 4, 2017, 2:21 am

(Apr 2, 2017 10:52 AM)MMxMM Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What about Microsoft? I mean they did write the language so with their logic MS should also be persecuted because they wrote the language.

While you're at it intel, and AT&T should be responsible as well, let's not forget IBM!

On topic: It's funny how the FBI cracks up on the skids... but never real malware devs, like seriously what's going on with dridex boys?

Codefuser - April 4, 2017, 2:49 am

(Apr 4, 2017 02:08 AM)Leroy Jethro Gibbs Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I just read the indictment document. Why the hell is Aeon on the hook for someone else's misuse of his licensing? Literally, they are trying to take down Aeon because he provided a licensing system that secured software. Never do they even state that he was aware of the misuse....They literally just keep repeating how the dev of limitless kept selling his shit and somehow the private communications between that guy and one of his customers is direct proof that Aeon knew he was doing some illegal shit? Like what the actual fuck. I want to go to VA just to sit in the court room and listen to this shit lol.

AFAIK it is because he knows that Zachary whatever was using it to aid the distribution of his keylogger, however he didn't ban Limitless Logger from NetSeal.

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - April 4, 2017, 3:30 am

(Apr 4, 2017 02:49 AM)Codefuser Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) AFAIK it is because he knows that Zachary whatever was using it to aid the distribution of his keylogger, however he didn't ban Limitless Logger from NetSeal.

So they are to prove that he knew the source of the keylogger was malicious and designed for only the purpose of infecting on unauthorized machines and that he failed to terminate the license because of a conspiracy?

Codefuser - April 4, 2017, 3:52 am

(Apr 4, 2017 03:30 AM)Leroy Jethro Gibbs Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So they are to prove that he knew the source of the keylogger was malicious and designed for only the purpose of infecting on unauthorized machines and that he failed to terminate the license because of a conspiracy?

Yes, pretty sure they have the skype chat log already from arresting zachary.

TheChi?f - April 4, 2017, 6:37 am

Veri spooky. I wonder if Mr K was behind this ?

Codefuser - April 4, 2017, 6:41 am

(Apr 4, 2017 06:37 AM)TheChi?f Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Veri spooky. I wonder if Mr K was behind this ?
Mr Krebs is not behind everything

Marxist - April 4, 2017, 8:25 am

(Apr 4, 2017 06:41 AM)Codefuser Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Mr Krebs is not behind everything
It's a joke?

The law is interesting sometimes. We don't know what was on his computer, tho

Aeonhack Archivist - April 4, 2017, 10:11 am

No new court documents have been filed today. If anything changes I will let you all know.

kpown - April 4, 2017, 10:38 am

This is really a shame... I hope this doesn't ruin the guys life... he really had nothing to do with this and it's just plain unfair.

EagleEye - April 5, 2017, 3:28 am any news so far on taylor court ?

Aeonhack Archivist - April 5, 2017, 6:14 am

(Apr 5, 2017 03:28 AM)961Group Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) any news so far on taylor court ?
The courts won't file a typing between say 4PM and 8AM (EST) . Nothing new files and we probably won't see too many new docs until the hearings begin. And we have to wait even longer for the electronic copies to be filed. Nothing else has been filed since the 31st of March (which got electronically filed on the 3rd of April due to them not being "open" on the weekend).

$lick - April 5, 2017, 7:00 am

(Apr 4, 2017 10:38 AM)kpown Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is really a shame... I hope this doesn't ruin the guys life... he really had nothing to do with this and it's just plain unfair.
This will do nothing but get more attention to him from employers.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 5, 2017, 7:44 am

(Apr 5, 2017 07:00 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This will do nothing but get more attention to him from employers.

Can be both good or bad. Good in the sense employers will know he has good coding skills and has written products widely used globally but could bite him in the ass should he try and go for a job that requires him to be security clearance eligible.

Nomad.Null - April 5, 2017, 11:04 am

This is BAD news for developers, not just for RATs, but security tools, exploits, and any type of dual-use technology. This is a danger to every independent developer on the planet. I have never seen a more blatant attack by the government against an indie developer for what is clearly the most legitimized tool sold here on HF. Of all of the RATs to go after, why NanoCore? The developer destroyed anyone's license who attempted to use his software legitimately, and literally crafted netseal to achieve the same end. The Feds are going to far as to say that NetSeal is malicious? ? How the fuck does that compute!? The software was cracked, for starters, so the developer had no control of it at that point, but beyond that, it was designed precisely to fight piracy and illegal use of his tool. How is this justified?

I feel like the feds are either trying to save face like the article says, or they are trying to set a legal precedent by being able to draw this case up in court of law in the future. Basically, in the US, if someone is found guilty for a crime under a very specific scenario and conditions, it gives lawyers who are presiding in similar cases to draw that case number and use it to back their argument. If a judge/jury finds Aeon guilty, this means that this will endanger EVERY programmer who creates any remote administration tool of any kind. It won't matter if you license the fuck out of it, or set up crime prevention measures. If a hacker uses it maliciously, you become complicit to a felony by default, and lawyers will be able to use this case to support that argument.

This cannot be allowed to happen. It will make the very practice of creating dual-use technology illegal in the United States just as it is in Germany, and we all know how that went for local hackers. I'm definitely throwing money into the gofundme for him. Taylor needs the best defense possible. If he goes down, we're all going down, white-hats included.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 5, 2017, 11:30 am

(Apr 5, 2017 11:04 AM)True Demon Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is BAD news for developers, not just for RATs, but security tools, exploits, and any type of dual-use technology. This is a danger to every independent developer on the planet. I have never seen a more blatant attack by the government against an indie developer for what is clearly the most legitimized tool sold here on HF. Of all of the RATs to go after, why NanoCore? The developer destroyed anyone's license who attempted to use his software illegitimately, and literally crafted netseal to achieve the same end. The Feds are going to far as to say that NetSeal is malicious? ? How the fuck does that compute!? The software was cracked, for starters, so the developer had no control of it at that point, but beyond that, it was designed precisely to fight piracy and illegal use of his tool. How is this justified?

I feel like the feds are either trying to save face like the article says, or they are trying to set a legal precedent by being able to draw this case up in court of law in the future. Basically, in the US, if someone is found guilty for a crime under a very specific scenario and conditions, it gives lawyers who are presiding in similar cases to draw that case number and use it to back their argument. If a judge/jury finds Aeon guilty, this means that this will endanger EVERY programmer who creates any remote administration tool of any kind. It won't matter if you license the fuck out of it, or set up crime prevention measures. If a hacker uses it maliciously, you become complicit to a felony by default, and lawyers will be able to use this case to support that argument.

This cannot be allowed to happen. It will make the very practice of creating dual-use technology illegal in the United States just as it is in Germany, and we all know how that went for local hackers. I'm definitely throwing money into the gofundme for him. Taylor needs the best defense possible. If he goes down, we're all going down, white-hats included.

Very well said (fixed one bit for you) . This truly is a bad run of things starting to happen more and more in the offensive security industry. It saddens me that our government hoards 0-days that they spend tens of thousands if not more for, but they will go after a developer who wrote a tool that they likely would have bought to some extent, only to arrest him because cracked copies are so readily available and of course are going to be misused.

Visualize - April 5, 2017, 12:37 pm

(Apr 5, 2017 11:04 AM)True Demon Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is BAD news for developers, not just for RATs, but security tools, exploits, and any type of dual-use technology. This is a danger to every independent developer on the planet. I have never seen a more blatant attack by the government against an indie developer for what is clearly the most legitimized tool sold here on HF. Of all of the RATs to go after, why NanoCore? The developer destroyed anyone's license who attempted to use his software legitimately, and literally crafted netseal to achieve the same end. The Feds are going to far as to say that NetSeal is malicious? ? How the fuck does that compute!? The software was cracked, for starters, so the developer had no control of it at that point, but beyond that, it was designed precisely to fight piracy and illegal use of his tool. How is this justified?

I feel like the feds are either trying to save face like the article says, or they are trying to set a legal precedent by being able to draw this case up in court of law in the future. Basically, in the US, if someone is found guilty for a crime under a very specific scenario and conditions, it gives lawyers who are presiding in similar cases to draw that case number and use it to back their argument. If a judge/jury finds Aeon guilty, this means that this will endanger EVERY programmer who creates any remote administration tool of any kind. It won't matter if you license the fuck out of it, or set up crime prevention measures. If a hacker uses it maliciously, you become complicit to a felony by default, and lawyers will be able to use this case to support that argument.

This cannot be allowed to happen. It will make the very practice of creating dual-use technology illegal in the United States just as it is in Germany, and we all know how that went for local hackers. I'm definitely throwing money into the gofundme for him. Taylor needs the best defense possible. If he goes down, we're all going down, white-hats included.

I still don't get how people believe selling RATs on HF is a victimless crime. I get the argument that you shouldn't be tied to what people do with your product, you are literally promoting your product in a place that fosters the malicious use of these tools.

IIRC, Nanocore natively supported malicious functions before they moved to the whole plugin system because they realized officially supporting surveillance tools probably wasn't the safest idea. Then we have the whole scenario with NetSeal and AeonHack talking on Skype with the guy selling keyloggers. Its like being a dirty cop, you say you are serving for this legitimate purpose, but you just end up looking the other way.

Sure RATs aren't inherently bad but you just lose credibility talking about its a whitehat tool when it initially wasn't before, and you sell it on here

Aeonhack Archivist - April 5, 2017, 12:47 pm

(Apr 5, 2017 11:04 AM)True Demon Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If a judge/jury finds Aeon guilty, this means that this will endanger EVERY programmer who creates any remote administration tool of any kind. It won't matter if you license the fuck out of it, or set up crime prevention measures. If a hacker uses it maliciously, you become complicit to a felony by default, and lawyers will be able to use this case to support that argument.

Just to harp on this point some more. I know for a fact that there are several FEDERALLY FUNDED projects revolving around malware and its creation. DARPA grants to tools such as Cobalt Strike and various other projects that work on disassembling existing malware into object code modules that can be relinked together to create new malware by the hundreds. I also know for a fact that Mudge (author of Cobalt Strike) has a strict vetting process for sales of his toolset, but that hasn't stopped crackers from redistributing his tools. Hell he got so fed up with people tarnishing his name and tools by releasing backdoored versions of Cobalt Strike that he wrote a blog post on exactly how to crack it yourself. Mudge is a captain in the Air National Guard. I just don't get how they can pick on the little man like Taylor when they are shoveling money to the research and development of tools that do the exact same thing for their own nefarious purposes.

RastaManKing - April 5, 2017, 1:07 pm

(Apr 5, 2017 12:47 PM)Aeonhack Archivist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just to harp on this point some more. I know for a fact that there are several FEDERALLY FUNDED projects revolving around malware and its creation. DARPA grants to tools such as Cobalt Strike and various other projects that work on disassembling existing malware into object code modules that can be relinked together to create new malware by the hundreds. I also know for a fact that Mudge (author of Cobalt Strike) has a strict vetting process for sales of his toolset, but that hasn't stopped crackers from redistributing his tools. Hell he got so fed up with people tarnishing his name and tools by releasing backdoored versions of Cobalt Strike that he wrote a blog post on exactly how to crack it yourself. Mudge is a captain in the Air National Guard. I just don't get how they can pick on the little man like Taylor when they are shoveling money to the research and development of tools that do the exact same thing for their own nefarious purposes.

dont forget wikileaks vault7.. they also pump money into 0days and use them solely for espionage.. through smart tvs.. computers(even apples).. mobile phones(android,blackberry,windoze, you name it), router pwning, and the reason they hate for independent coders to develop this kinds of software its because its this kind of software that they use as weapons (remember how syrian government was using darkcomet?) and indies developing rat tools its like regular citizens manufacturing homemade bazookas to them.. it does not surprise me, government has always been a double standard organization, they lie, they confuse, they control, they enslave, they manipulate, they are selfish, they are the scum of the earth..

Nomad.Null - April 5, 2017, 1:41 pm

(Apr 5, 2017 12:37 PM)Visualize Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I still don't get how people believe selling RATs on HF is a victimless crime. I get the argument that you shouldn't be tied to what people do with your product, you are literally promoting your product in a place that fosters the malicious use of these tools.

IIRC, Nanocore natively supported malicious functions before they moved to the whole plugin system because they realized officially supporting surveillance tools probably wasn't the safest idea. Then we have the whole scenario with NetSeal and AeonHack talking on Skype with the guy selling keyloggers. Its like being a dirty cop, you say you are serving for this legitimate purpose, but you just end up looking the other way.

Sure RATs aren't inherently bad but you just lose credibility talking about its a whitehat tool when it initially wasn't before, and you sell it on here

This really shows how little you understand about the nature of NanoCore and the fact that the project was always a legitimate product meant to be used for legal and legitimate purposes only. Aeonhack stood behind his ToS and actively hunted down and disabled accounts that were caught performing illegal activities with NanoCore at personal expense and detriment to his reputation. People harassed and attacked him numerous times because he actively tried to put down illicit use of his product so that this exact scenario did not happen.

Secondly, the "surveillance" tools and plugins of NanoCore are no different than the functions in commercial TeamViewer, LabVNC, Splashtop, Anydesk, IceTea, ScreenConnect, Kaspersky Remote Access, Windows SCCM, and literally EVERY REMOTE ADMINISTRATION SOFTWARE CONTAINS THESE FUNCTIONS! They are inherent to the use of these tools and are constantly used by administrators to maintain and enforce security policies in corporate networks. There is nothing about the software that Aeon sold that makes it inherently malicious. It is all a matter of intent. I'm a white-hat. I study security for a living. My job is to break into computers and networks in order to validate and remediate vulnerabilities.

By your logic, HR Moore, the developer of Metasploit, should be arrested for creating a tool designed to exploit computers remotely. Should we also have Rapid7, the company who know owns it, sued and put out of business as well?

If the FBI wins their case against Aeon and have him convicted of felony crimes for creating a dual-use tool that he actively worked to keep out of the hands of criminals, then every single developer will come under fire. Anyone who ever made a password cracker, developed a public exploit, uncovered a security vulnerability, built a fuzzer, or so much as even thought about creating a crafted, malicious packet, will be considered free game for the feds to have arrested, tried, and convicted.

You cannot even begin to understand how far-reaching and how catastrophic the consequences of this case will be if Aeon loses. He did nothing wrong and did everything in his power as a developer to stop this from happening. The fact that he sold NanoCore on Hackforums is absolutely irrelevant, and your claim that this site encourages illegal activity is inaccurate at best. Omni and the mods have always fought and put down illegal activity here.

Again, by your logic, Omni would be arrested too, and HF would go away forever.

Gt403cyl - April 5, 2017, 2:01 pm

(Apr 5, 2017 01:41 PM)True Demon Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This really shows how little you understand about the nature of NanoCore and the fact that the project was always a legitimate product meant to be used for legal and legitimate purposes only. Aeonhack stood behind his ToS and actively hunted down and disabled accounts that were caught performing illegal activities with NanoCore at personal expense and detriment to his reputation. People harassed and attacked him numerous times because he actively tried to put down illicit use of his product so that this exact scenario did not happen.

Secondly, the "surveillance" tools and plugins of NanoCore are no different than the functions in commercial TeamViewer, LabVNC, Splashtop, Anydesk, IceTea, ScreenConnect, Kaspersky Remote Access, Windows SCCM, and literally EVERY REMOTE ADMINISTRATION SOFTWARE CONTAINS THESE FUNCTIONS! They are inherent to the use of these tools and are constantly used by administrators to maintain and enforce security policies in corporate networks. There is nothing about the software that Aeon sold that makes it inherently malicious. It is all a matter of intent. I'm a white-hat. I study security for a living. My job is to break into computers and networks in order to validate and remediate vulnerabilities.

By your logic, HR Moore, the developer of Metasploit, should be arrested for creating a tool designed to exploit computers remotely. Should we also have Rapid7, the company who know owns it, sued and put out of business as well?

If the FBI wins their case against Aeon and have him convicted of felony crimes for creating a dual-use tool that he actively worked to keep out of the hands of criminals, then every single developer will come under fire. Anyone who ever made a password cracker, developed a public exploit, uncovered a security vulnerability, built a fuzzer, or so much as even thought about creating a crafted, malicious packet, will be considered free game for the feds to have arrested, tried, and convicted.

You cannot even begin to understand how far-reaching and how catastrophic the consequences of this case will be if Aeon loses. He did nothing wrong and did everything in his power as a developer to stop this from happening. The fact that he sold NanoCore on Hackforums is absolutely irrelevant, and your claim that this site encourages illegal activity is inaccurate at best. Omni and the mods have always fought and put down illegal activity here.

Again, by your logic, Omni would be arrested too, and HF would go away forever.
Probably the most well written post I've read in a long time.

We have to remember that the overwhelming majority of members here are under 16years old and they simply haven't matured enough to really grasp what sort of impact this will have, even to our HF community if Aeon loses this case.

You think the whole shitstorm of Vdos and the removal of the SST section and topics changed the community!!!

Well I don't want to step on any toes or put any words in people's mouths but, if Aeon loses and is convicted this could have a huge impact not only to the IT industry but also on the community here.

Nomad.Null - April 5, 2017, 3:49 pm

(Apr 5, 2017 02:01 PM)Gt403cyl Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Well I don't want to step on any toes or put any words in people's mouths but, if Aeon loses and is convicted this could have a huge impact not only to the IT industry but also on the community here.

No kidding... virtually anyone who has ever been on this forum will be suspect to malicious activity. The FBI, NSA, NCA and other national investigative agencies consider communities like HF to be a hotbed of criminal activity and essentially put us under a blanket of suspicion as it is. If Aeon is convicted, anyone who ever created a program, dual-use or otherwise, will be able to have their HF activity recalled in court and their very presence on this forum will be used as an admission of guilt and association with criminals.

It wouldn't matter if you never did anything wrong. Should Aeon lose, the fact that you have a Hackforum account could be admissible as evidence against you in court of law and used as reasonable suspicion to issue a search warrant. If you don't mind the idea of having the FBI search your house and electronics on the grounds that you dared to ask the question 'How does a DDoS attack work?' on a "criminal" forum, then by all means...proceed in your ignorance.

Gt403cyl - April 5, 2017, 3:55 pm

(Apr 5, 2017 03:49 PM)True Demon Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No kidding... virtually anyone who has ever been on this forum will be suspect to malicious activity. The FBI, NSA, NCA and other national investigative agencies consider communities like HF to be a hotbed of criminal activity and essentially put us under a blanket of suspicion as it is. If Aeon is convicted, anyone who ever created a program, dual-use or otherwise, will be able to have their HF activity recalled in court and their very presence on this forum will be used as an admission of guilt and association with criminals.

It wouldn't matter if you never did anything wrong. Should Aeon lose, the fact that you have a Hackforum account could be admissible as evidence against you in court of law and used as reasonable suspicion to issue a search warrant. If you don't mind the idea of having the FBI search your house and electronics on the grounds that you dared to ask the question 'How does a DDoS attack work?' on a "criminal" forum, then by all means...proceed in your ignorance.

Well to a point... there is still the matter of context and intent.

There are very lawful reasons for asking "How does a DDoS attack work?", such as leaning ways to mitigate them...

Now comes the intent, if you another thread requesting a Ddos attack or asking where to get something done, then have context and intent...

Unfortunately it is up to the judge and jury and who knows how that will go.

Universe_X - April 6, 2017, 1:10 am

I hope the judge will leave him be.

Mormons - April 6, 2017, 3:06 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:27 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah seems like NanoCore is gone for now, not sure what to do with it really.

Anybody want to purchase it from me? ?

Hahahahahaha, you want to sale nanocore after you and cesarVB messed it up. I wish you guys where also arrested

$lick - April 6, 2017, 5:49 am

(Apr 6, 2017 03:06 AM)Hebrew Goddess Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hahahahahaha, you want to sale nanocore after you and cesarVB messed it up. I wish you guys where also arrested Where? Jail most likely.

Shorta - April 6, 2017, 7:08 am

I think we should start a gofundme page, let's get this booming.

Also I don't see according to their way of handling this situation, how HackForums is any different, it's distributing all the shit, some users might sign up to have a good time, some might sign up to become a serious criminal.
(dont ban me pls)

Aeonhack Archivist - April 6, 2017, 7:58 am

While I love the idea of a GoFundMe page to support Taylor (I would support the hell out of it), I do not think it is a good idea at the present time.

1) it would need to be ran by a very trusted member of the site, if not a relative of Taylor. Sadly I can see members of this site jumping on this opportunity without having any true way of verifying that the money is going to the proper cause.

2) until we have some confirmed contact or feedback from Taylor, again by a trusted member, so that we are not overstepping any bounds.

I do agree that if we find out his family is running a GoFundMe or similar, we should take every opportunity to support it and perhaps shine a better light on this community than is being presented to the court.

Shorta - April 6, 2017, 8:03 am

Maybe Minimalist could be up for the task?
if there's no relatives to be found

Aeonhack Archivist - April 6, 2017, 8:22 am

I mailed off a few letters to him to see if I could get a reply to at least let me (and in general us as a community) know if he needs anything. Perhaps I'll write up a few more and see if his family wants to start up a fund page for us to contribute to.

D_MuLa - April 6, 2017, 8:36 am

(Mar 31, 2017 03:45 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's where you're wrong buddy.lmao, I'll take it off his hands for about 3k

Shorta - April 6, 2017, 8:36 am

(Apr 6, 2017 08:22 AM)Aeonhack Archivist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I mailed off a few letters to him to see if I could get a reply to at least let me (and in general us as a community) know if he needs anything. Perhaps I'll write up a few more and see if his family wants to start up a fund page for us to contribute to.

Please let me know if this get serious, would love to contribute.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 7, 2017, 2:25 pm

(Apr 6, 2017 08:36 AM)Shorta Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Please let me know if this get serious, would love to contribute.

Will do. Apologies for the long delay in response.

SIM-2484984 - April 8, 2017, 1:06 am

Wow... And now even netseal is getting closed.

SIM-2869198 - April 8, 2017, 11:44 am

Pretty crazy that all this happened

Barret - April 8, 2017, 6:06 pm

What goes around, comes around. Prison time for you my friend, u can't hide this time. ^^

$lick - April 8, 2017, 6:44 pm

(Apr 8, 2017 06:06 PM)Barret Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What goes around, comes around. Prison time for you my friend, u can't hide this time. ^^

Did you even read anything...?

Barret - April 9, 2017, 5:58 am

(Apr 8, 2017 06:44 PM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Did you even read anything...?

Oh i did lad, ive been telling this for a long time, you take the decision then face the consequences as well. Im still suprised it didnt happen earlier.

MelonbreadHF - April 9, 2017, 7:37 am

Pretty dissapointed, I loved NetSeal :<

RastaManKing - April 9, 2017, 12:10 pm

(Apr 9, 2017 05:58 AM)Barret Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Oh i did lad, ive been telling this for a long time, you take the decision then face the consequences as well. Im still suprised it didnt happen earlier.

by the way things have been folding out.. all of us will make some time sooner or later just for having an account registered on this forum.. the government is as false as the kardashian's ass and supporters of this acts like you are dumber than harry and floyd..

$lick - April 9, 2017, 1:20 pm

(Apr 9, 2017 05:58 AM)Barret Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Oh i did lad, ive been telling this for a long time, you take the decision then face the consequences as well. Im still suprised it didnt happen earlier.

You clearly didn't...

Riddick - April 9, 2017, 1:50 pm

(Apr 9, 2017 12:10 PM)RastaManKing Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) by the way things have been folding out.. all of us will make some time sooner or later just for having an account registered on this forum.. the government is as false as the kardashian's ass and supporters of this acts like you are dumber than harry and floyd..

What are you talking about? This forum isn't JUST about hacking (despite its name), my friend. Having an account here will never be an issue.

Mons - April 9, 2017, 3:49 pm

Code NanoCore has been linked to intrusions in at least 10 countries, including an attack on Middle Eastern energy firms in 2015, and a massive phishing campaign last August in which the perpetrators posed as major oil and gas company.

How does a DDoS attack (I presume) or a phishing campaign have anything to do with NanoCore?

Lewwis - April 9, 2017, 4:12 pm

I feel so bad for the creator. I bought this and I am impressed, he didn't mean for it to get like this.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 9, 2017, 4:21 pm

(Apr 9, 2017 03:49 PM)Mons Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Code NanoCore has been linked to intrusions in at least 10 countries, including an attack on Middle Eastern energy firms in 2015, and a massive phishing campaign last August in which the perpetrators posed as major oil and gas company.

How does a DDoS attack (I presume) or a phishing campaign have anything to do with NanoCore?

If you want the court documents I have posted them. They have his actual indictment and not the reasons for Taylor's arrest and not the stories that the media is putting out pointing the fingers at him for shit other people did while abusing his software.

Quick Edit:

New articles have been added to the "Arrested!" page, as well as archived copies in the event that they go down. If you run across any more or would like to add to the sources (which I am still slowly adding to right now, just not uploading), Please I beg of you, PM me or add me on Skype so I can get the details! Thanks!

RastaManKing - April 9, 2017, 7:17 pm

(Apr 9, 2017 01:50 PM)Riddick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What are you talking about? This forum isn't JUST about hacking (despite its name), my friend. Having an account here will never be an issue. i know this.. im just saying that by the way the government have been lurking around here and putting charges on anything that moves here, it appears this way.. maybe i dont express my self clearly and this does not make sense to you.. its ok.. just know that i support this forum.. i get frustrated by the acts of the government, going after individuals, protecting corporations.. and just being plain hypocrites..

lil rice - April 9, 2017, 10:21 pm

Its Unfortunate that the government is not responsible

Barret - April 10, 2017, 6:54 am

(Apr 9, 2017 01:20 PM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You clearly didn't... Doesn't matter now, does it? :) Things always equalize sooner or later. You be smart to get rid of this bs and start serious projects. But i assume you think im an asshole and i speak bs, but you will figure it out and when you do, you will remember this particular moment.

$lick - April 10, 2017, 10:01 am

(Apr 10, 2017 06:54 AM)Barret Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Doesn't matter now, does it? :) Things always equalize sooner or later. You be smart to get rid of this bs and start serious projects. But i assume you think im an asshole and i speak bs, but you will figure it out and when you do, you will remember this particular moment.

Well aren't you just all high and mighty.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 25, 2017, 6:36 pm

I know it has been a while since this thread has been posted in, but I thought I would let you all know that I have uploaded some new court documents that were released last week (I am so very very sorry for the delay; been taking care of a lot of personal things such as tax audits and such).

New documents are:

- Joint Motion To Amend Conditions Of Pretrial Release And Protective Order
- Order Amending Conditions Of Release
- Amended Protective Order

As far as Taylor, he is doing well, but is not wanting the community to engage in a GoFundMe or any sort of campaign like that.

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - April 25, 2017, 10:42 pm

(Apr 25, 2017 06:36 PM)Aeonhack Archivist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I know it has been a while since this thread has been posted in, but I thought I would let you all know that I have uploaded some new court documents that were released last week (I am so very very sorry for the delay; been taking care of a lot of personal things such as tax audits and such).

New documents are:

- Joint Motion To Amend Conditions Of Pretrial Release And Protective Order
- Order Amending Conditions Of Release
- Amended Protective Order

As far as Taylor, he is doing well, but is not wanting the community to engage in a GoFundMe or any sort of campaign like that.

Think he would trip if I just showed up at his court hearing? And if he goes to trial if I just showed up there?

Also, how does Taylor feel about his defense? I'd suggest PMing me that answer so the coward feds that are on this forum can't get it so easy.

(Apr 25, 2017 06:36 PM)Aeonhack Archivist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I know it has been a while since this thread has been posted in, but I thought I would let you all know that I have uploaded some new court documents that were released last week (I am so very very sorry for the delay; been taking care of a lot of personal things such as tax audits and such).

New documents are:

- Joint Motion To Amend Conditions Of Pretrial Release And Protective Order
- Order Amending Conditions Of Release
- Amended Protective Order

As far as Taylor, he is doing well, but is not wanting the community to engage in a GoFundMe or any sort of campaign like that.

Lmao. I just read the Amended Protective Order. Kinda ironic how they will use software very similar to what he was original developing to monitor him.

Scrutiny - April 25, 2017, 11:09 pm

This is crazy, when is his court date? Does anyone know? & Is the public aloud to attend? Can someone provide me with more details please?

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - April 26, 2017, 1:45 am

(Apr 25, 2017 11:09 PM)TDawgSquad Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is crazy, when is his court date? Does anyone know? & Is the public aloud to attend? Can someone provide me with more details please? This should help.... <http://aeonhack.com>

theogg - April 26, 2017, 10:47 am

"The defendant shall not access a computer, tablet, mobile device, smart phone, and/or the internet unless monitoring software has been installed by the probation office, except as authorized by the Court or the probation office. The defendant shall consent to the installation of such monitoring software on any device to which the defendant has access. Installation shall be performed by the probation officer. The software may restrict and/or record any and all activity on the device, including the capture of keystrokes, application information, internet use history, email correspondence, and chat conversations. The defendant shall not remove, tamper with, reverse engineer, or in any way circumvent the software. The cost of the monitoring will be paid by the defendant."

Irony overload right there.

SIM-1589588 - April 26, 2017, 10:58 am

(Apr 26, 2017 10:47 AM)theogg Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) "The defendant shall not access a computer, tablet, mobile device, smart phone, and/or the internet unless monitoring software has been installed by the probation office, except as authorized by the Court or the probation office. The defendant shall consent to the installation of such monitoring software on any device to which the defendant has access. Installation shall be performed by the probation officer. The software may restrict and/or record any and all activity on the device, including the capture of keystrokes, application information, internet use history, email correspondence, and chat conversations. The defendant shall not remove, tamper with, reverse engineer, or in any way circumvent the software. The cost of the monitoring will be paid by the defendant."

Irony overload right there.

What the fuck.. Height of Irony...

Malicious Intent - April 26, 2017, 11:00 am

(Apr 26, 2017 10:47 AM)theogg Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) "The defendant shall not access a computer, tablet, mobile

device, smart phone, and/or the internet unless monitoring software has been installed by the probation office, except as authorized by the Court or the probation office. The defendant shall consent to the installation of such monitoring software on any device to which the defendant has access. Installation shall be performed by the probation officer. The software may restrict and/or record any and all activity on the device, including the capture of keystrokes, application information, internet use history, email correspondence, and chat conversations. The defendant shall not remove, tamper with, reverse engineer, or in any way circumvent the software. The cost of the monitoring will be paid by the defendant."

Irony overload right there.

Rofl wtf.. cost? cant they use cracked nanocore like a real cracked nanomen?

Backopy - April 26, 2017, 8:02 pm

codefuser, if ur reading, thats for metamorphism

closed@HF

Aut2Exe - April 27, 2017, 3:51 am

(Apr 26, 2017 08:02 PM)Backopy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) codefuser, if ur reading, thats for metamorphism

closed@HF
Yes I am reading.

i.imgur.com/63vWUmj.png nice malware analysis skills btw, that shit wasn't even packed and was clean as fuck

Donald J. Trump - April 27, 2017, 9:10 am

He chose the criminal life and willingly took the risk.

Mykindos - April 27, 2017, 12:02 pm

I enjoyed NanoCore, was a great piece of software

Exe2Aut - April 28, 2017, 2:04 am

(Apr 27, 2017 12:02 PM)Mykindos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I enjoyed NanoCore, was a great piece of software Before Aeonhack became a pussy yes. But now it is the duty of us AntiNanomen™ to protect the world from disgusting Nanomen.

ping010101 - April 29, 2017, 3:48 am we are all being controlled , I feel really sorry for him . Poor kid , I hope the family start gofunme , i would be happy to support.

Aeonhack Archivist - April 29, 2017, 2:26 pm

(Apr 29, 2017 03:48 AM)ping010101 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) we are all being controlled , I feel really sorry for him . Poor kid , I hope the family start gofunme , i would be happy to support.

He isn't wanting a GoFundMe to be started, regardless of the support of this community.

Mr. Kim - April 30, 2017, 4:19 pm

(Mar 31, 2017 03:49 AM)Vitani Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's shit like this that irritates me the most about the government. They go after the little guys who don't have the money or the resources to properly defend themselves.

Middle eastern scammers massively use Teamviewer to get access to unknowing victims and steal their credit card information every day, but because the company behind teamviewer is big so the feds don't dare to do anything.

Fucking preach bro. It sets a really bad precedent when creating the weapon makes you responsible for the person who uses it.

LizardHacker - April 30, 2017, 6:26 pm

the lot of you people who use RATS are truly disgusting people most of you use it to spy on girls and other disturbing shit.

Express Me - April 30, 2017, 7:05 pm

Hell in that case makes in seems like person thats making guns should be put in jail this world is mest up

HackingKrabs - May 1, 2017, 1:25 am

(Apr 30, 2017 07:05 PM)Express Me Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hell in that case makes in seems like person thats making guns should be put in jail this world is mest up

Read the thread before posting you spastic jew

Mr. Kim - May 1, 2017, 3:40 am

(Apr 30, 2017 06:26 PM)LizardHacker Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) the lot of you people who use RATS are truly disgusting people

most of you use it to spy on girls and other disturbing shit.

And those people deserve jail time. The person who wrote the software does not.

Mr. Reviewer - May 1, 2017, 7:10 am

(May 1, 2017 03:40 AM)M?m?ry Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) And those people deserve jail time. The person who wrote the software does not.

the person that created cancer -> is not to blame.

the person who distributes this cancer -> is to blame.

that's the logic ha.

Decim - May 1, 2017, 7:18 am

(May 1, 2017 07:10 AM)Mr. Reviewer Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) the person that created cancer -> is not to blame.

the person who distributes this cancer -> is to blame.

that's the logic ha.

What a bullshit analogy.

Cancer is not useful in anyway whatsoever where as everything Aeon made was.

Person who created bricks -> not to blame

People who throw bricks at people -> is to blame.

It's not rocket science.

Mr. Kim - May 1, 2017, 10:10 am

(May 1, 2017 07:10 AM)Mr. Reviewer Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) the person that created cancer -> is not to blame.

the person who distributes this cancer -> is to blame.

that's the logic ha.

The person who creates the gun -> is not to blame.

The person who pulls the trigger -> is to blame.

The legal precedent you're wanting to set it ridiculous. Essentially creating something that could be misused and cause damage makes you liable. Your car manufacturer is now at fault when your dumb ass crashes into someone and kills them. Fuck off, this is America.

zerocool - May 1, 2017, 10:53 am

Posting to keep track, i hope this doesn't end badly for him.

?

theogg - May 1, 2017, 3:08 pm

(May 1, 2017 10:10 AM)M?m?ry Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The person who creates the gun -> is not to blame.

The person who pulls the trigger -> is to blame.

The legal precedent you're wanting to set it ridiculous. Essentially creating something that could be misused and cause damage makes you liable. Your car manufacturer is now at fault when your dumb ass crashes into someone and kills them. Fuck off, this is America.

"Essentially creating something that could be misused and cause damage makes you liable."

You're looking at it wrong. It's not a case of could, but rather a case of creating a product designed to be misused, and cause damage.

What if a company designs a weapon with terrorists in mind then proceed to market it at, and sell it to terrorists who then use for its intended purpose? Does some of the blame not sit with the company?

Like it or not Aeonhack designed, developed, marketed and sold a RAT with hackers as his target audience not network admins or over protective parents. It all comes down to intent and its blinding obvious what his intent was, and any judge or jury will see that.

He knew what he was doing, but thought himself safe behind his policies.

Decim - May 1, 2017, 9:43 pm

(May 1, 2017 03:08 PM)theogg Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) "Essentially creating something that could be misused and cause damage makes you liable."

You're looking at it wrong. It's not a case of could, but rather a case of creating a product designed to be misused, and cause damage.

What if a company designs a weapon with terrorists in mind then proceed to market it at, and sell it to terrorists who then use for its intended purpose? Does some of the blame not sit with the company?

Like it or not Aeonhack designed, developed, marketed and sold a RAT with hackers as his target audience not network admins or over protective parents. It all comes down to intent and its blinding obvious what his intent was, and any judge or jury will see that.

He knew what he was doing, but thought himself safe behind his policies.

Stop airing your ignorance.

Aeon was one of, if not the most conscientious and authentic developers on HF, and was actively involved in terminating licenses he found to be breaching the ToS.

Most of the illegal activities done using NanoCore was through cracked versions circulated around which Aeon had little control over.

Aeonhack Archivist - May 27, 2017, 3:27 pm

(May 27, 2017 01:39 PM)AeonHack Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's okay everyone, it's okay.
Can confirm you aren't Taylor. Thanks for stopping by anyways jawsh33 - May 27, 2017, 3:39 pm

(May 27, 2017 01:39 PM)AeonHack Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's okay everyone, it's okay.
wait wtf? can someone confirm this is him xd edit: oh just saw the post above.

Agent Jon - May 27, 2017, 6:41 pm

this is actually interesting, and how he lived in a trailer, damn.

kookur - May 27, 2017, 7:36 pm

(May 27, 2017 07:34 PM)AeonHack Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) To everyone,

I'm currently living at my parents house, My court date is soon, and I've been summed not to use the internet for a while.

So this means you're not the real one and someone else just trolling?

If you're not allowed to use Internet why are you doing it with the same name and on a public forum again!

Aeonhack Archivist - May 27, 2017, 8:24 pm

(May 27, 2017 07:36 PM)kookur Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So this means you're not the real one and someone else just trolling?

If you're not allowed to use Internet why are you doing it with the same name and on a public forum again!

I can promise you this is not Taylor.

I will work with Taylor to provide evidence so that impersonators can be disproven and ignored.

$lick - May 30, 2017, 8:47 am

(May 27, 2017 08:24 PM)Aeonhack Archivist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I can promise you this is not Taylor. I will work with Taylor to provide evidence so that impersonators can be disproven and ignored. No proof needed, Aeon is too much of a pussy to ever come back here.

This is fact.

Aeonhack Archivist - May 30, 2017, 9:40 pm

I do apologize for not updating the site recently. Been going through a lot of personal things. Taylor is doing as well as he can. While the court agreed to let him have a computer, he is pretty much restricted to the point that he can't even go to Wikipedia. I've got a few more source projects and such and some more court docs that I'll upload later.

amur - June 2, 2017, 3:33 am

What can they charge him if this was used only in educational purposes. He can't be blamed for all the breacking the rules situations.

Armada - June 2, 2017, 9:50 am

(May 27, 2017 07:36 PM)kookur Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So this means you're not the real one and someone else just trolling?

If you're not allowed to use Internet why are you doing it with the same name and on a public forum again!

You fell for that? heh...

(May 27, 2017 08:24 PM)Aeonhack Archivist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I can promise you this is not Taylor.

I will work with Taylor to provide evidence so that impersonators can be disproven and ignored.

(May 30, 2017 08:47 AM)$lick Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No proof needed, Aeon is too much of a pussy to ever come back here.

This is fact.

TBH, Thread should be closed until any other developments come from this case. This is just going to encourage shit posting and spam and drive away from the core element and focus.

Ainaj - June 2, 2017, 11:59 am

(Jun 2, 2017 09:50 AM)Armada Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) TBH, Thread should be closed until any other developments come from this case. This is just going to encourage shit posting and spam and drive away from the core element and focus.

The case is still ongoing, and documents are still being released. Thread should stay open to discus the case.

Armada - June 2, 2017, 5:40 pm

(Jun 2, 2017 11:59 AM)Ainaj Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The case is still ongoing, and documents are still being released. Thread should stay open to discus the case.

Nothing more is being released until his appearance and I am guessing those records will be sealed until a verdict is made to avoid contaminating anything.

But we shall see...

Amp - June 2, 2017, 11:27 pm

Such an interesting, yet unfortunate case. I'm excited to see what comes out of this.

R.I.P - June 3, 2017, 1:14 am

He'll be acquitted almost instantly. He only got arrested because the FBI is angry at the recent high-profile RAT'ing cases and need a scapegoat.

There's no way he'll be charged because if he is, the implications are catastrophic. If he is charged for making a program that could be used illicitly, thousands of other people will need to be charged and arrested too. Next we'll see the makers of Wireshark paying their bails... Ridiculous.

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - June 3, 2017, 6:18 am

(Jun 3, 2017 01:14 AM)R.I.P Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He'll be acquitted almost instantly. He only got arrested because the FBI is angry at the recent high-profile RAT'ing cases and need a scapegoat.

There's no way he'll be charged because if he is, the implications are catastrophic. If he is charged for making a program that could be used illicitly, thousands of other people will need to be charged and arrested too. Next we'll see the makers of Wireshark paying their bails... Ridiculous.

They are going after him because of his connection to limitless. So they will try to prove intent as well as conspiracy.

egy007 - June 20, 2017, 12:31 pm

Is he all good now sounds like he got fucked.

Aeonhack Archivist - June 20, 2017, 12:59 pm

(Jun 20, 2017 12:31 PM)egy007 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Is he all good now sounds like he got fucked.

He is doing as well as can be hoped for if you set aside the fact he isn't even allowed to view Wikipedia.

Pim Fortuyn - July 13, 2017, 11:20 am

Any updates recently on his case/trail?

Diamond Hands - July 13, 2017, 11:37 am

Well later hed be bought by a big tech firm for sure zurich - July 13, 2017, 6:35 pm

(Jun 3, 2017 06:18 AM)Leroy Jethro Gibbs Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They are going after him because of his connection to limitless. So they will try to prove intent as well as conspiracy.

Who's limitless?

Gbulla - July 13, 2017, 7:00 pm

America is the only country that will fuck you for being smart.

gringo - July 13, 2017, 10:27 pm

(Jul 13, 2017 06:35 PM)zurich Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Who's limitless?

Zachary Shames aka Mephobia, the coder behind limitless logger.

<https://www.justice.gov/usao-edva/pr/college-student-pleads-guilty-developing-malicious-software>

cantseeit - July 13, 2017, 11:51 pm

you do know the owner of HF is in with the FBI and one of the biggest grasses there is on the internet, why you think he lets all these young children sign up on hear.

any wrong goings on and he will be showing the FBI and you will be on there watch list, just be careful of what you build or what you share on hear.

drake08 - August 17, 2017, 8:35 am

Well, I believe the real problem here is not that he advertised his product here but he endorsed it as legal software and still he didn't close the license of the guy he knew what he was doing.

Also, they probably have chat logs of aeon talking about bad stuff, otherwise he should not be linked with that guy.

Related to guys whom said you can't make this kind of stuff I disagree. All you need to do is don't include shady stuff which is usually used in malware. Generally speaking I'm talking about features like silent run, melt, bind (i'm not sure which one was included in netcore), etc and in the end send dialogs on the pc whenever your are about to connect so the user can agree.

This is why companies which made this kind of sotware cannot be held on such thing.

I believe netcore didnt do that and this is why the software was labeled as malware.

If it is not the case and they don't have any chat logs (hardly doubt it based on what is written in the documents) they most likely will drop all the charges.

Advice:

If you use Skype for this type of business and you have friends in the same area it is a matter of time until them/or you will get caught and then all will fall because they were linked on doing the same shit. Don't forget, in the back days

MS did sent private chat logs,calls to the authorities so be aware. I would not be surprised if this is the case here.

Just my 2 cents.

vivin - August 24, 2017, 1:05 am

User(s) browsing this thread: $lick*