Thread: Ghost in the Shell Movie - Your Thoughts?

I thought it was enjoyable for the most part. I thought the second half was more enjoyable due to certain plot elements being introduced while the first half was a little slow for me (besides the action scenes, cause those were great). Now that I've seen the movie, I'm more inclined to watch the anime

Actually I am really looking forward to this, since it is not in cinema in my country yet, but it should be really soon! It looks like a pretty cool movie and I love the future, high-tech Japan like enviroment. And as an anime fan, I can't go wrong with this, I suppose.

I'm sure it's great.

I haven't watched the series in years so I was thinking about rewatching before I watch the movie. It can't be that bad...

Tsunfire - April 1, 2017, 1:02 am

I heard from my friend that it absolutely blew anime tiddies.

He watched it on premier night and only 5 people were watching it. All of them were texting on their phones cause it was that bad.

everyone is griping about the 'whitewashing' which i don't get seeing as the only person in there that looks Asian is Saito, the rest look white, so what's the big deal? I'm going to see this movie, looks interesting nakkivanukas1337 - April 1, 2017, 11:45 am

From what I have seen the visuals seem good, but I'm not sure if the story is any good. I am going to watch it tomorrow.

network.succubus - April 1, 2017, 11:47 am watching the anime before watching the movie might leave you wanting the whitewashing wasn't as big of a deal as the choice in actor, I personally wish lucy lawless had been picked as major kusanagi can't wait to see them butcher death note next

The story felt like some hollywood writers were shown all the cool scenes from the anime and then they were told to make a new story around them.
