I use my bank broker, the company is "amper" from the spanish stock market and it is going down for 5 consecutive days . All this started with the company "Abengoa" (Spanish company too), this company announced a seasoned equity offering and it is like -95% from 0,95 to 0,05 in few days. Another companies are going down too... too bad days in the spanish stocks.

Sorry if my english is bad.

are you holding until it goes back up or did you sell your shares already? you didn't lose anything until you cash out.

Yes, I clearly see that that amper company crashed 20% in this 5 days, you should've used a real broker that will help you choose stocks for your portfolio.

I sold another companies , like abengoa (~ -2k), GSJ (~ -1k), Montebalito (~ -1k), Ezentis (~ -1k) and now amper... i didn't sold amper but my account is showing -1k so i will sell tommorrow maybe.

And all this started with the Abengoa "seasoned equity offering" , the shorts invaded the stocks and everythink is going down and the CNMV is looking to the side...

This is not normal... this companies are going down without "news"
