Soulmate~?? - April 4, 2017, 3:00 pm

In your opinion, does pineapple belong on pizza? Is Hawaiian pizza okay? Why or not why not? This is something I argue about constantly with my friends, and would love to hear opinions from as many people as possible. I've included an argument from both perspectives if you are having trouble deciding.

I am actually quite the opposite. When I used to order pizza I would just get the specials with whatever weird toppings they were offering whether it was vegetarian, buffalo chicken, or some weird meatlovers one. Pineapple on pizza is great in my opinion. I like to feel that sweet, juicy flavour of pineapple along those salty cheese, chicken and sauce ones. It's great to leave these pineapples for that end of slice where you got no compoments. It's not that dry then and it tastes great after all these salty things.

I believe it costs like $0.50 more to add pineapple to a pizza, if you ever try it don't eat it with pepperoni. A full Hawaiian pizza probably costs like $1-2 more than a regular one. Unless you are talking about buying pizza as a whole, in which case I can't help you.

I live in Italy soo.... NOOO!!!!

Pineapple can grow here, but it's not from here therefore it does not go on pizza...

The insect toppings are ok though, there are scorpions here but not venomous while the region ate odd things in it's darker times...

yadadamean - June 5, 2017, 12:20 pm

Depends on what kind of pineapple. If it's freshly cut, readily available, not pre-packaged, then yes I love pineapples on pizza. But if it is from DOLE or any other pre-packaged item, it is way too sugary and superficial for my taste.

I don't see myself eating anything sweet on top of my pizza. only spicy, and as much as possible. Sweet and savory is a good contrast. A lot of foods have something sweet in it or on the side like lamb with apple sauce, orange chicken, etc

I understand why people don't like it personally, but combining something sweet with normally non-sweet things isn't anything new.

Since I am not Italian, I do not mind to put or eat pineapple as pizza topping. I love it, because it is fresh and sour, good combination with tomato and cheese.

The whole point of pizza is that you can make it how you like. Pizza allows you be creative and try so many different things. I enjoy pineapple on pizza, especially a Hawaiian with pineapple and ham.

The Pact - April 20, 2021, 7:48 am

This is so weird to me because "Hawaiian Pizza" has always been just one of the most standard basic pizza toppings from the main menu and it has mostly been my go to if asked what topping I want and if I'm not feeling adventurous. I don't know if I'll eat pizza any more. Kids made me sick of it and it's insanely fattening anyway.

1337GAMER - April 20, 2021, 8:10 am

Anyone who likes pineapple on pizza can go straight to hell!

Just kidding, but it is gross.

To each their own I guess. ?

human3374 - April 27, 2021, 6:35 am

Yes, it does, anyone who opposes this fact is wrong.

The sweet pineapple complements the savory ham and cheese, and slightly tangy tomato sauce.

Hypecs - May 4, 2021, 10:25 am

I've tried pineapple on pizza and can confidently say it does n o t belong lol

littleRuu - May 28, 2021, 5:49 pm

So I only like pineapples on pizza if its a thin crust and their is ham as well, otherwise I don't want it.

I used to work in pizza for awhile and we went through so many cans of pineapples a week. Definitely a very popular topping despite so many saying how gross it is.

Dan - July 4, 2021, 10:04 am

Not a fan of pineapple on pizza, although I'd still eat it.

Long story short, banana on pizza actually works quite nice. Just cook the pizza and put sliced banana on it. It's pretty good.

dquan671 - July 6, 2021, 9:01 pm

I like pineapple on pizza. Pineapple can go on most cuisines not just that its very tasty as well.

Just my thoughts haha. I usually prefer Ham/pineapple

But for me it's just pretty cool to have some pineapple on my pizza.

We got different kind of taste for food and it's just the reason why others want it on pizza and others doesn't want ???

Absolute offence to put that anywhere near a slice of pizza.

The Pact - October 6, 2021, 5:58 pm

I LOVE pineapple on Pizza. Except I don't eat pizza any more because I'm sick of it and it's the most fattening thing ever. After my spouse died I had grief that caused levels of exhaustion that made me order at home too often and at that time there wasn't much else you could have delivered in my area except pizza but now we can get a lot of different stuff with Uber eats and other aps I don't use because I'm set up with Uber Eats.

Aeowulf - October 7, 2021, 5:01 pm
