Thread: My type of pizza

secret_hidden - April 4, 2017, 3:56 pm

Hello everyone. I like a thin slice of pizza, with extra sauce and fresh mozzarella cheese, made in a brick oven. I like my pizza 25% crunchy 75% oily from extra virgin olive oil. I like when the crust is soft, and when the bottom underneath the cheese/sauce is soft, but there's still a little bit crunchiness effects from the brick oven. I also love some pepperoni on the pizza, and topping such as freshly chopped oregano for garnish, grated parmesan cheese, and other herbs and cheeses.

I like cheese pizza. Sometimes flavored crust.

Man you know exactly what kind of pizza you like. Lately I've been getting green pepper, onion, and mushroom. No meat for some reason? Type of crust etc. doesn't matter too much.

I like a fuck ton of veggies and meats on a pizza with extra cheese and barbecue sauce instead of pizza sauce. Tastes like actual heaven

I always order the buffalo chicken pizza from Papa Johns and sprinkle some blue cheese crumbles over the top of it.

NY style (thin as fuck) is the best. Not into thick ass slices like square or chicago style tbh

NurSpec - April 17, 2017, 1:40 am

I love trying new styles and types, never get the same twice in a row.

I go to the pizza store and ask them for a pepperoni slice, I ask if they can put it in the brick oven for just one minute, not too hot.

It's cut thin slice as well. The pizza is oily and the crust tastes good I love pizza.

Pepperoni only.

Put some pineapples and some stuffing inside of it. Trust me, it'll taste a lot better
