Thread: Answers to FAQ about Botting

Xeriant - April 4, 2017, 4:38 pm

Generally Gold Farmers tend to not be forthcoming when it comes to information about botting as it almost directly affects their bottom line, that being said people will post the same questions on this section every week and many times get incorrect or partially incorrect answers from people.

While I am not offering direct help when it comes to setting up a gold farm, I will answer a few questions that people will commonly ask as best I can. I am fairly experienced with this topic and have personally farmed close to 7B OSGP from December 2016 to the present.

FAQ:

Note: All information is based on OSRS, I don't deal with RS3 whatsoever.

Q: What are the things I need to goldfarm? How much will it cost to be successful?

A: Being a successful goldfarmer can be extremely difficult, especially to begin with. You will need several things before you can begin and knowledge of game mechanics and methods.

This includes: Subscription to a Botting Client [$8-$10]

Multiple unflagged Proxies [$1-$3 Each]

Unsaturated profitable method

VPS/Dedicated Servers if you are running beyond your hardware's capabilities [$10-$100s]

RuneScape membership via Bonds (Currently 2.8M Each) [$2.80 PER Account]

Private or Premium Scripts [$10-$100s]

This does not include everything you will need, but these are the major components.

Q: Will injection clients get me banned automatically?

A: Absolutely not. While there are benefits to using the official OSRS Client as your game client using Looking Glass/Mirror Mode, this is not a requirement and you will not be banned for simply using an injection based client. When using an injection based client, your game will appear the same as a person using OSBuddy which generally has over 30K active users.

Q: Is X client safe to bot on my main?

A: As a general rule, do not bot ANY account you do not want banned. While premium and private scripts will greatly reduce the risk of ban, there is ALWAYS a chance you will be banned. The only way to avoid being banned is simply not to bot.

Q: Can I use free scripts?

A: If you want to be banned, sure.

Q: If I spend $300 on a private script, does that mean I won't be banned? Can I run 24 hours a day?

A: Just because you are using a private script does not mean you won't be banned. While it does reduce the risk of being banned, there is always a chance, especially if running too long on a daily basis.

Q: I just want to start a small farm to make gold on the side, can I?

A: By all means you can, but in my opinion it is not worth it. Generally to overtake the cost of the premium scripts, proxies, subscription, and membership you will need to start fairly large. I do not mean that you must start at 50 accounts, but running 3 accounts 2-3 hours a day will get you nowhere fast.

Q: Why not bot F2P? No membership costs!

A: F2P is HIGHLY regulated by Jagex and in general not worth the time unless you can run an automated farm that runs hundreds of accounts.

Q: Will my main get banned if I bot on the same IP?

A: Generally accounts on the same IP will not get banned if they were not botched, but sometimes they will depending on the number of accounts botting on a single IP. It is really a coin toss so I would not recommend botting on the same IP as an account that you do not wish to get banned. Along with this, if you bot several accounts on the same IP you are likely to get chainbanned, meaning all accounts on the IP will be banned at the same instant.

For now I will leave this as is, but will add more Q&As as I see fit. Feel free to ask questions, I'll reply if I think I should answer.

Again, this is a thread to help answer a few of the common questions, I am not offering myself to help you start your farm for free.

Thanks,
Xeriant.

How many accounts would you consider a good place to start for a small gold farm? Suicide botting, or just plain jane running the accounts? And if so, how many hours a day do you run your accounts.

Wompus - April 4, 2017, 5:20 pm

Thanks for this FAQ I'm sure it's going to help out a lot of people in the future including myself as I am looking into starting, would you be able to PM me the scripts you use so I have some sort of price range of the HQ scripts that I should be using?

I do not recommend suicide botting as generally you don't get enough profit out of the account before they are banned unless you know specifically what you are doing. While I can't really say how many hours I personally bot, 8-12 hours a day is around the amount depending on different conditions.

What do you recommend botting? Anything in particular to get the most out of the bots?

Would you recommend having these 8-10 as member accounts? Or is F2P a good starting point? I am currently running a small farm and am looking to expand into hopefully better methods. Any information helps, thanks for this.

No one will divulge what they are botting. Methods can only handle so many people doing them before profits are affected. One of the biggest hurdles you must pass is finding a method that is profitable.

You can start 6 accounts, P2P in RS3. Get a bond for each of them, and do Cursed Wisp. Selling the Cursed Energies in GE for 400gp - 420gp each.

I haven't botted RS3 since before EOC, only have experience with OSRS. Most of the content I posted will most likely apply to RS3 as well though.

Also I doubt I'd consider myself a "bad goldfarmer"

I've had plenty of success with it.

I made 4-5x what you made in a quarter of the time. You're terrible.

You're terrible. I highly doubt you made anywhere near 28 billion in a month and a half. I still haven't seen what you claim to be "misinformation". Only that you like to stroke your own ego. If you have criticism, feel free to express it in an actual constructive manner.

I have found a method for myself, but do you really need VPS's? I have an old pc lying about that could easily handle 10-20 bots running. Can i not just boot that up with proxies and then get going?

I will obviously need a strictly private script done as well, which will handle it with or without muling.

To me , it only seems that only suicide botting and bot farms seem to work these days since you get banned anyway. there is no way avoiding that. There some tricks to slow the process of it but you get banned at the end.

Do you still think it's possible to get some high levels using a bot on osrs without getting banned?

Paid scripts still get you banned but a bit slower , Do you think it's worth it getting it ?

I tried almost every bot there is around 1-3 years ago and there's not a big difference , What do you recommend?

The end result is almost always you being banned. Just because you'll be banned doesn't mean you won't be able to make a profit. Its all a game of making enough profit before the account is banned that at the end of the day are making more than you spent.

There is never a point where you should use a free script in my opinion. Paid and private are the only way to effectively bot without being banned almost instantly. It a lot about experimentation and finding what works for you.

Added a few more Q&As to the thread.

imSoEXILED - April 8, 2017, 6:25 pm

So my question is , if I watch my account , like I only bot when i'm on the computer watching youtube videos on the side , will i get banned ? Even if I watch the chat and reply to everyone?

Even if I watch the chat and reply to everyone?Watching your account doesn't really do much beside prevent ingame reports of your accounts from other players. While this could help with banrate, other factors are much more important like script quality and pattern recognition on Jagex's side. A side effect of watching your account is lower botting hours, meaning you'll be less likely to be banned, but all in all you are more than likely to be banned eventually.

Yes, I did. I'm an OG bot developer, who knows the ins and outs of the whole rs client. I wrote my own botting client, with a web control panel for managing my hundreds of bots. They did everything automatically, the only thing we did was hand them bonds.

Why would I provide constructive criticism? You're the 1000000th person to make a thread like this. This forum is full of accurate information about gold farming, and your thread is useless.
