How is that possible If you're actually going to use random.org? Everyone has a fair chance then.

You're absolutely right. Everyone has a fair chance. But it is considered abuse if you participate one day before the deadline (example). So to word it right, your chances are zero because you'd be disqualified in such case.

Also it wouldn't be fair to the other participants or the host for that matter if you were join the same day (example) as the deadline and win the contest. Don't you think?

Either way I have edited my post and worded it correctly so that the terms are clear to the participant that decides to enter when the deadline is coming up. And on a side note, you're also free to join the contest while it's still going. Staff are not exempt from winning $25 in Bitcoin.
